GIFT TO CLUB — Palm trees tower over the lawn and tables which seem to invite the guests to linger at the Mission Lodge Motel in Novato. The motel has long been one of the landmarks of Novato and now has been willed in whole or part to the Novato Boys' Club.

Novato Club Willed Valuable Land

By THERON A. NEWELL

The Novato Boys' Club has been given at least half of one of the biggest business properties in the City of Novato in the will of a former Novato businesswoman.

Clara Meyers, who died July 2 in Sonoma at the age of 87, left half of the 16-unit Mission Lodge Motel on Highway 101 and Diablo Avenue to the club, according to her attorneys, Bagshaw, Martinelli, Corrigan and Jordan.

The other half of the motel was willed to a longtime friend, George Schilling if he outlives her by 150 days. If Schilling who is in his late 80s and failing health, does not live that long, the club gets the entire motel, said attorney Roderick P. Martinelli.

According to the assessor's office, the motel is assessed at $41,125 and has a market value of $205,725.

Mrs. Meyers and her husband, the late Henry Meyers, in partnership with Schilling, ran the Quality Bakery on Grant Avenue for about 60 years.

She purchased the land south of Grant Avenue, west of Highway 101 and north of Diablo Avenue and subdivided it into single family dwellings, except for business property along Highway 101.

She kept the Mission Lodge on the southeast corner of her property for herself, selling the single family dwellings on the other portion of the subdivision. The motel with its palm trees and lawn has long been a landmark in Novato.

When Highway 101's bypass of Novato is completed, that portion of the highway now running through Novato will be known as Redwood Boulevard.

The Novato Planning Department has long intended that the resulting Redwood-Diablo intersection become the crossroads of the city's downtown business section, served by the only downtown freeway offramp three blocks away. Highway 101 and Diablo Avenue are now the two most heavily traveled streets in the city.

Dominating that crossroads is the nearly one-acre Mission Lodge property.

McGovern Seeking Peace With Labor

Record Session; Party Backs Busing, Gun Curbs

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George S. McGovern searched today for a running mate and a way to soften antagonism of organized labor toward him so his victory tonight for the Democratic presidential nomination would not put him in command of a shattered party.

McGovern talked over a two-hour breakfast in his seaside penthouse with a group of governors, most of them from soathern and border states. And aides said he was continuing to try to make peace with AFL-CIO President George Meany to restore labor's long-time place in the Democratic party's coalition.

The breakfast meeting followed a record 11-hour convention session that put the party on record in favor of busing and gun controls but with no stand on abortion or homosexual rights.

After the breakfast with the governors of South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Wisconsin, reporters were told nothing was decided as far as the No. 2 spot on the ticket was concerned.

Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, a coordinator for McGovern, told reporters, however that there was a general concensus that Ted Kennedy would be a great addition to the ticket.

As the name of the Massachusetts senator —who has steadfastly said he would not be a candidate —was raised anew, he passed the word once again he was not interested.

Kennedy is at the family home in Hyannisport, Mass., and will be watching the convention session on television beginning at 7 p.m. EDT when McGovern's name —and those of six other candidates for the presidency —will be placed in nomination.

Lucey also said the southern and border state governors who attended the morning meeting with McGovern were unanimous that Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas would be equally acceptable as a vice presidential candidate.

Mills was still scheduled to be nominated for President.

Aides to McGovern said the vice presidential selection was still up in the air. Among the other possibilities being mentioned were Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, who will make one of McGovern's nominating speeches tonight.

It was Ribicoff who drew Daley's ire during antiwar debate on the floor of the tumultuous 1968 convention in Chicago.

Lucey — a longtime McGovern backer — said some thought was being given to "going outside Washington" for a running mate.

McGovern aides kept alive speculation that one name from outside politics being considered was Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers —second largest union in the nation.

The withdrawal of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie from the scramble left Sen. Henry M. Jackson as the only would-be nominee with labor support. And Jackson sounded some of the discord which has persisted despite McGovern's domination of the convention.

"I don't expect to get the nomination," Jackson said,

Demos Support McGovern, Hit Wallace In Platform

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Democratic National Convention gave Sen. George McGovern today the kind of platform he sought, rebuffing a personal plea that Gov. George C. Wallace made from his wheelchair for a strikingly different party document.

Reflecting in general the views of the man whose nomination now is assured, the platform calls for immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, closing of tax loopholes, replacing the welfare system with income grants and recognition of busing as one means of achieving quality education.

The delegates stayed in session from 7:30 p.m. Tuesday until 6:25 a.m. today to complete their work on the platform.

The convention gave the Alabama governor, crippled by a would-be assassin's bullets, a two-minute ovation when he was wheeled to the podium. It listened respectfully to his firm-voiced argument that it should appeal to the "75 to 80 per cent of the American people who are against senseless, asinine busing of school children," and, in other respects as well, largely rewrite the draft platform.

But later it shouted down, one by one, the Wallace proposals.

An even clearer demonstration of McGovern power came when the convention defeated a number of amendments, with broad-based support, but which — so the candidate's emissaries said — would be embarrassing in the campaign.

These included proposed planks favoring liberal abortion policies, nondiscrimination against homosexuals, and major goals of the National Welfare Rights Organization — a $6,500 income guarantee for a family of four, rollback of rents, government takeover and repair of substandard housing.

The majority version of the platform, adopted almost unchanged, ranges widely. Among its provisions are elimination of "unfair" Nixon administration wage-price controls, strengthened antitrust laws to break up conglomerates and to "deconcentrate" near-monopolies — with the automobile industry cited as an example — emphasis on rights of women, curbs on the congressional seniority system and insistence on open meetings, stiff controls on handguns, abolition of capital punishment and firm control of military spending.

The Wallace proposals that were rejected included a constitutional amendment for prayer in schools, affirmation of the right to bear arms, authority for states to impose capital punishment and provisions for election of some federal judges and periodic reconfirmation of others.

Peevey Is Top Primary Spender

Primary campaign spending that ran as high as $5 per vote received has been revealed by Marin County candidates in financial statements filed with the county elections office.

Michael R. Peevey, who gained a second place runoff spot in the Fourth Supervisorial District for the November elections, was the top spender among local candidates, according to statements filed by the deadline yesterday.

Peter C. Meyer, county elections officer, said Peevey's filing still was incomplete. A report from the "Concerned Citizens for Better Government" headed in Peevey's behalf by Rex Silvernale, was expected to arrive today.

Peevey's own statement showed a total of $17,679.52 spent, with campaign contributions amounting to $17,015. He received 3,542 votes in a four-way race with Gary T. Giacomini, James Dougan and Pat T. Maginis.

Peevey listed only one source as contributing more than $500. That was the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, which donated $700. He listed more than 200 other contributors including almost every labor organization in Marin, and about a dozen business firms.

Giacomine, who received 5,444 votes, the most and will run against Peevey, spent $15,341.09 on the primary contest. Three business firms and 123 other donors were listed on his form as contributing a total of $10,159.70. None donated $500 or more.

Dougan spent $2,975 and received 2,962 votes; Miss Maginnis received 769 votes and reported campaign expenses of $626.34.

In the hotly contested Second Supervisorial District race, incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni earned 6,135 votes and a runoff spot with spending of $12,006.64. Candidate Barbara Boxer, who will challenge Arrigoni on the November ballot, spent $6,090.30 for 6,430 votes. Dr. William J. Filante, who received 4,279 votes, reported spending $8,574.34.

None listed any campaign contributor of $500 or more. The state law requires only identification of such large gifts. Most candidates filing the required statements listed 100 or more contributors, but not the lesser amounts they gave.

Michael Wornum, who won reelection in the Third Supervisorial District, received 13,758 votes and reported spending $4,776.35. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City spent $1,743 and received 5,098 votes.

Attorney Charles R. Best, who unseated incumbent Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner reported spending $8,406.99 and receiving $8,645 in contributions, including $500 from Lawrence Halperin of San Rafael.

Gardiner's campaign, conducted by a committee in his behalf cost $5,585.93.

Among the partisan races, Democratic congressional hope-

TAKE YOUR FAVORITE BUMPER TO DRIVE-IN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The bumper that Dan Bell designed may not be the only one capable of protecting a car from a 5-mile-an-hour collision, but it probably tastes better than the others.

Bell, a mechanical engineering student at UCLA, designed the bumper for an experimental car the university is entering in the national Urban Vehicle Design competition in Detroit.

The hollow metal bumper is filled with a light, inexpensive, easily replaced impact-absorbing material: popcorn.

The university's announcement yesterday didn't mention the prospects for sales of the bumper — for example to people who like a lot of popcorn at drive-in movies.

Youth Hurt By Freedom Is Message

BERKELEY (UPI) —The sexual freedom of today's youth is "disastrous, valueless and self-centered," a visiting physiology lecturer at the University of California said today.

Urian Galin-Gallar, 44, anatomy professor at Laney College, Oakland, told an audience that "casual sex, while it may give an immediate if shallow physical gratification, leads to emotional confusion, frustration and a sense of personal worthlessness."

Admitting his views are largely personal opinion, Galin-Gallar said they are based in part on answers to some 200 questionaires from students in his classes on human reproduction and sexual behavior.

"I am an amateur probing a very complex problem in a shallow way," he said. "But it is clear to me from the questionaires and from the students who come to me to talk during office hours that young people who seek total freedom in sex and in other matters end up in great emotional trouble."

The Israeli-born professor blamed the situation in part on what he called modern man's fear of commitment and of emotional involvement.

Middle class white youths are more likely to get little out of sex, the physiologist said, because "they have too much and they are out of touch with the sweat of life. They are taught to look out for themselves, not the other fellow. No one teaches them to care for others, to have a sense of obligation to anything or anyone but themselves."

Marin Supervisors Strip EOC Of Stamp Franchise

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council was stripped of its food stamp franchise last night by county supervisors who then authorized the U.S. Postal Service to take over the food stamp sales. (Other Supervisors stories, page 12.)

The board's unanimous action ratified a move two weeks ago by the county welfare department to terminate the EOC's food stamp contract after disclosure of a $36,000 shortage of funds. (Supervisors John F. McInnis and Michael Wornum were absent.)

In turning over the program to the Post Office, supervisors said they felt the poor could be better served by the nearly 20 branches scattered throughout Marin.

Donald Sanford, assistant director of the department of public social services (welfare), told the board several banks also operating the program are expected to withdraw. The Federal Credit Union in Corte Madera will continue its sales, however.

Sanford said Marin is one of the first counties in California to contract with the Post Office for food stamp sales.

The semi-autonomous postal service will receive 80 cents per sale and 50 cents for each sale handled through a new mailing program.

Postal operation of the program, which is financed through the county by the Department of Agriculture, is expected to begin about Sept. 1.

EOC officials protested the action, warning they will file suit against the county since their franchise was terminated without proving the antipoverty agency is responsible for the $36,000 shortage.

EOC Executive Director Alfred R. Conklin III labeled the county's action "precipitous" and maintained the agency's food stamp program should be allowed to continue until the discrepancy in funds was cleared up.

He said Welfare Director Betty Presley had no authority to order the contract terminated two weeks ago and further that the action had been based on "a string of phone calls" to federal

Pair Seized At McGovern Hotel

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Two men were taken into custody today by Secret Service agents and the FBI outside Sen. George McGovern's hotel and two pistols were taken from their car.

Both men were taken into custody shortly after McGovern concluded a meeting in the Doral Beach Hotel with six Democratic governors.

Inside the car were several scraps of note paper and printed literature dealing with black nationalism.

Bobby Fischer Concedes First Game In Iceland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —American chess challenger Bobby Fischer conceded the first game of the $250,000 world championship chess match to Russia's Boris Spassky today in the 56th move.

Fischer stood up from his special swivel chair, made a helpless gesture to the audience and left the table.

Today's victory gave Spassky a 1-0 lead, but the match could go as many as 24 games. Spassky, as reigning champion, needs only 12 points to retain his title but Fischer needs 12 1-2 to win. A victory gives the winner one point and each gets one-half point for a draw.

Today's game started off quietly but Fischer stalked off the stage soon after the game start-

Bremer Refused

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused today to lower the bond of Arthur H. Bremer, the accused assailant of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Bremer is being held by Maryland authorities in lieu of $200,000 bond on federal charges and an additional $200,000 on state charges.

Defense attorney Benjamin Lipsitz appealed a decision of U.S. District Court Judge Edward S. Northrop against reducing the bond.

Serious Crime Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst announced today that serious crime rose 1 per cent during the first quarter of 1971, the lowest percentage increase since 1962.

The preliminary report of the FBI's Uniform Crime Statistics also showed that the decade-long crime spiral actually decreased by 6 per cent when rates for the six largest cities were totaled.

New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Detroit reported reductions in serious crimes,

Ellsberg Jurors

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prospective jurors in the trial of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo are being questioned about their knowledge of the Pentagon Papers.

Most said yesterday that they were only vaguely aware of the publication of the secret Vietnam War documents and that they had not read thoroughly any articles about them.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, former colleagues at the Rand Corp. "think tank," admit they leaked the documents to the newspapers.

They are accused of espionage, theft and conspiracy in connection with the removal of the documents from Rand, but are not directly charged with turning them over for publication.

Nixon's Reaction

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon, his re-election campaign geared to a faceoff with George McGovern, just nodded and returned to conferring with his advisers when told the South Dakota senator had the Democratic nomination in the bag.

Nixon had no comment to make on the Democratic choice, said Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

Nixon was meeting yesterday with two men who figure in his re-election planning — Robert Finch, a White House counselor and old friend who helped manage Nixon's 1968 campaign, and Caspar Weinberger, his chief budget manager.

Protestant Parade

BELFAST (UPI) — Protestants assembled by the thousands today amid renewed threats of civil war for their biggest marching day of the year in Northern Ireland.

A British soldier, a Roman Catholic youth and two other persons died yesterday.

The deaths raised the fatality toll in almost three years of violence in Northern Ireland to 421.

In Belfast, organizers said at least 50,000 Protestants were expected to march through the city today to commemorate the 1690 Battle of the Boyne which established Protestant domination over Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland.

WALLACE'S RETURN

Seated in his wheelchair atop the podium at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, Alabama Gov. George Wallace last night addressed the gathering. He received a standing ovation from the audience as he was wheeled into the hall. His challenges to the party platform positions on busing, gun control, school prayer and Vietnam were defeated. Fierce Battle Raging Outside Quang Tri City For Its Control

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops killed 300 Communists and knocked out 15 North Vietnamese tanks in the first full day of fighting to recapture Quang Tri city, military spokesmen said today.

The spokesmen said there was no progress by either side in heavy fighting around the city, the capital of South Vietnam's northernmost province that was captured by the Communists on May 1.

A 3,500-man South Vietnamese force moved on the city from two directions, meeting heavy enemy resistance. The spokesmen said at least 36 government troops were killed and 86 others wounded in 11 separate battles.

U.S. B52 bombers supporting a 3,500-man South Vietnamese attack on Quang Tri City dumped nearly 700 tons of explosives during the night on suspected Communist positions near the besieged provincial capital.

The U. S. command said today 27 of the huge bombers hit targets five to 13 miles from the city in the 18 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. Three of the planes struck supply caches inside North Vietnam near the port city of Dong Hoi, 35 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

Government troops in a drive to recapture Quang Tri City, overrun by the North Vietnamese 10 weeks ago, launched a two-pronged attack Tuesday. Nearly 1,000 marines swept to the northeastern edge of town while 2,500 paratroopers pushed to the southwestern edge of the city, 432 miles north of Saigon.. The Communists put up stiff resistance.

North Vietnamese gunners downed three of the U. S. Marine helicopters that ferried in the government marines. In fierce ground fighting that followed, 28 Vietnamese marines were killed, a military spokesman said.

Dynamite Theft Foiled —Trio Held

PLYMOUTH (UPI) — Three men are being held in what officers say was the biggest attempted dynamite theft in U.S. history.

Officers said yesterday that the five tons of dynamite involved, worth about $20,000 on the black market, would have been "enough to supply everyone who has been bombing for a year."

The three were arrested Monday in or shortly after a stakeout of a remote dynamite storage area in Amador County about 35 miles east of Sacramento.

Mickey Veich, of the U.S. Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said federal officers and sheriff's deputies watched from the bushes as the man entered the storage building through a hole in the roof. They spent 90 minutes loading a rented 2½-ton truck.

The officers blocked the way as they drove away.

Two men were arrested on the spot. A third, who was opening the gate, ran and was lost in the darkness. But he was caught later after asking if he could use a local resident's telephone.

Of the three, Jack D. Grow Jr., 43, of Plymouth, and Carol W. Jordan, 27, of Sacramento, were arraigned Monday on charges of carrying weapons while committing a felony, and concealing and transporting stolen explosives. Bail was set at $50,000 each.

Veich said, "We're speculating there must have been a market." But he did not know if any radical or other groups were linked with the theft.

"It would be difficult to find a place to store that many explosives," he said.

Connally Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, back home after a 17-nation mission for President Nixon, says he may campaign actively for the chief executive's re-election this fall but expects no offer to be Nixon's running mate.

Labor May Take A Sidelines Role

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Top labor leaders today threatened to sit out a Nixon-McGovern presidential race, even as they pressed a seemingly futile effort to deny Sen. George McGovern the Democratic nomination.

Their "Stop McGovern" campaign a shambles, officials of the AFL-CIO talked wistfully of Sen. Henry M. Jackson. But few had any real hope that he could wrest the prize from the front-runner.

Aides to AFL-CIO president George Meany said no decision on labor's role in the Nov. 7 election would be made until after the convention. But they said it was likely the union federation would support neither President Nixon nor the Democratic challenger.

Union officials distributed a 23-page "white paper" condemning McGogern as a foe of the working man. The paper also criticized the South Dakota senator's civil rights voting record and his stands on marijuana, amnesty for draft dodgers and political violence.

Distribution of the paper, which the AFL-CIO said was prepared by Jackson's office, began while the nomination still was in doubt. The fact that it was not withdrawn after McGovern all but wrapped up the nomination served to heighten speculation that labor would withhold its traditional support for the Democratic party.

It was far from certain just how big a hole labor's defection would leave in the McGovern campaign. Labor traditionally has provided much of the money and political manpower for Democratic candidates. This year the Democrats are critically short of money but McGovern so far has been able to produce his own campaign workers, and has shown amazing ability to raise funds.

Labor is not united against McGovern. The United Auto Workers union headed by Leonard Woodcock, and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Workers led by Jerry Wurf, are expected to support McGovern with enthusiasm.

But I.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union, said it was "very doubtful" he would support McGovern against Nixon. "My support belongs to labor," Abel told reporters Tuesday.

There has been doubt for years about the ability of labor leaders to deliver on election day.

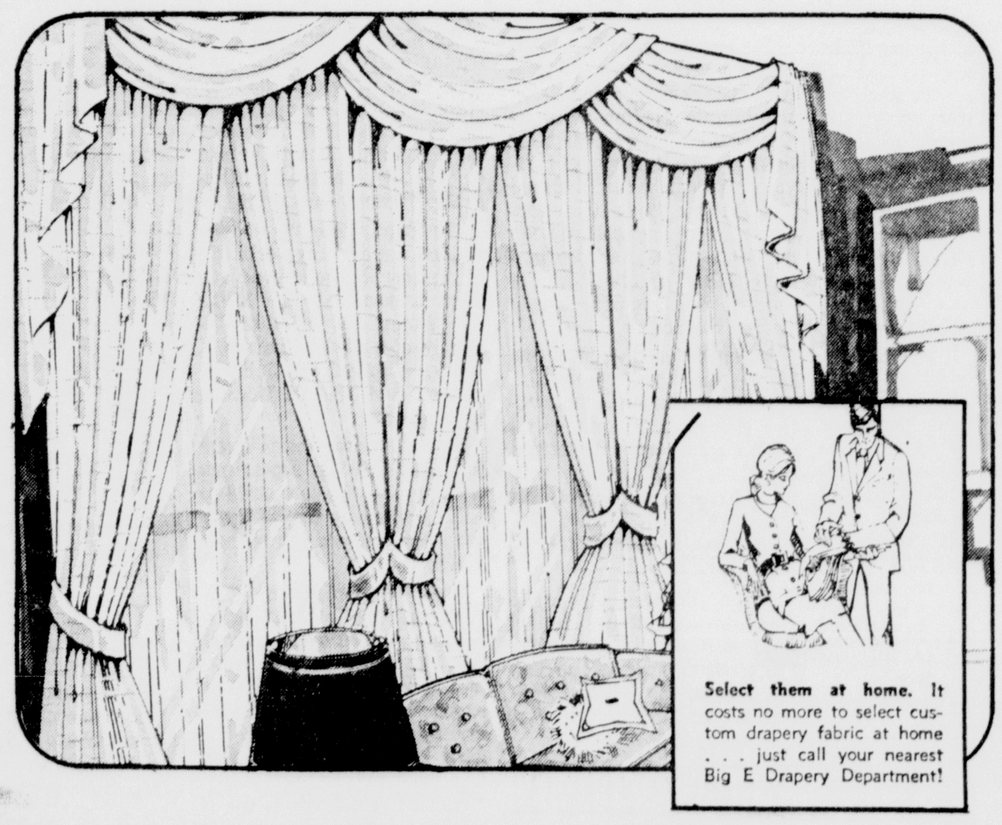

The labor-distributed white paper said McGovern's "record shows that he has repeatedly voted wrong on legislation affecting working people and the trade union movement."

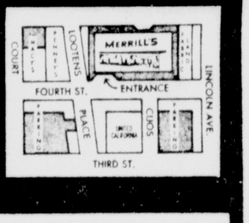

Most of the charges against McGovern were raised in the closing days of the California primary.

The paper contained one criticism which seemed odd for the union movement, which traces its history to the overpass at Ford's River Rouge plant and the Homestead strike:

"One cannot find a McGovern statement indicating that violent protests are inherently wrong, no matter what the protesters feel about government policy."

Mill Valley City Council Holds Lid On $2.3 Million Budget

The Mill Valley City Council last night kept a tight hold on the proposed $2.3 million budget, turned down a request to hire an assistant for the city manager and refused to rent additional office space for city agencies.

City Mgr. William H. Cunningham had asked $10,000 to hire an administrative assistant. His staff now is an $8,827-a-year secretary. Cunningham himself is paid $21,804.

Cunningham told the council that day-to-day personnel matters, ever-increasing paperwork — and a stream of unannounced visitors to his office were hurting long-range development and future planning for the city.

"Some people call up, drop in and visit, and think they're the only visitors we ever get," he said.

Mayor Jean S. Barnard told Cunningham to wait a year when a retiring deputy city clerk will create a vacancy that could instead be filled by an administrative assistant.

The total budget approved for Cunningham's department was $34,506.

The city council also slashed a $12,000 appropriation for additional office space requested by Cunningham.

According to the city manager, the present Mill Valley City Hall on Corte Madera Avenue is overcrowded with firemen, police, planners — and other city employees.

He proposed taking over the lease in the school district's offices on the second floor of 26 Miller Avenue. The district is leaving the building to move into the new Middle School.

Cunningham proposed turning over most of the first floor of the present city hall to the Mill Valley Police Department, now cramped in the south wing of the building.

One common room serves the department as a squad room, fingerprint room, interrogation room — and coffee room, he said.

Cunningham again was asked to wait.

The Fire Department, now taking up most of the first floor, will move to a new fire house in about 18 months, said Mayor Barnard. The available space could be partitioned into city offices, she said.

Councilman Robert E. Burton turned down a suggestion that the high-ceiling council chamber be turned into offices. "This room is a tremendous part of the feeling of government in this city," he said.

The council added a $1,500 appropriation to improve lighting and sound system in the chamber.

The council tentatively approved $36,634 — compared to last year's $26,744 — to cover the maintenance and operation of municipal buildings.

A $5,126 request was accepted by the council to hire a half-time building inspector. He would also work half-time for the department of public works.

City Mgr. Cunningham said the planning department needed the extra help to check a backlog of plans.

The council stipulated that the position remain a temporary one.

Budget deliberation will resume tomorrow at 5 p.m.

Arts, Crafts Show Will Open Tomorrow

The Red Hill Shopping Center, 858 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, will sponsor an arts and crafts show tomorrow through Sunday.

Man Given Sentence In Fatal Crash

Carlos John Flores, 38, of San Francisco has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to nine months in jail on charges stemming from a fatal auto crash on the Golden Gate Bridge last year.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed him on probation for two years Monday as part of a sentence bargain in the case. Flores had pleaded no contest to charges of killing another motorist because he was driving drunk and because his car strayed over the highway dividing line.

The charges resulted from an accident Dec. 12 in which Julia May Langville, a 52-year-old Guerneville schoolteacher, was killed and a Larkspur couple seriously injured.

Claiming Flores was extremely remorseful, his probation officer recommended no jail time, but the judge said he would have received 30 to 60 days if he had only bent a fender.

The probation officer said Flores, who had held executive posts with Alcoholics Anonymous, had a few drinks before the crash when he couldn't find a Parents Without Partners convention in Mill Valley.

Bank Repair Asked For Warner Creek

The Mill Valley City Council last night authorized City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to start work on shoring up the banks of Warner Canyon Creek in Boyle Park.

According to Bala, a 300-foot section of waterway is badly eroded and debris is clogging the stream bed.

He proposed shoring the crumbling banks with a tiered retaining wall made from broken concrete to be purchased from the City of Ross. Although the stream would be channeled, Bala said, it would still meander smoothly

Bala was authorized to advertise for bids for the project, with Councilman Robert E. Capron's added admonition to "do it with a keen sensitivity to the aesthetics of the creek."

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

SALT CREEK — Instructed Bala to investigate progress of removal of temporary causeway across Salt Creek.

DRAINAGE — Heard the City engineer report that work on flood control would be started November, 1972 at Scott Creek.

SANITARY DISTRICT — Commissioners Robert E. Burton and Capron received documents about the city's long-standing dispute with Alto Sanitary District over a $35,000 capital improvement debt. They will report to the council.

SENIORS — Accepted $2,000 from Marin County to maintain program for elderly.

MEETING — Adjourned to 5 p.m. tomorrow to discuss the budget.

An Hour Earlier

The Marin County Mosquito Abatement District board will hold its meeting tonight at 7 instead of 8 o'clock in anticipation of lengthy budget discussions.

The session will be in district offices, 201 Third Street, San Rafael.

Only Wards deluxe furnaces have both high- and low-heat settings. This means that you use the low-heat setting for fall, spring, and mild weather; the high-heat for cold weather. The low heat is 2/3 the BTU capacity of the full heat. You burn only the fuel you need to maintain the desired temperature in your home. The major benefit of this new system is comfort. Unlike ordinary furnaces which fire only at a high-heat setting, Wards deluxe furnaces fire at a more comfortable low-heat level as well. This steady low-heat operation creates a flow of warmth in your home and reduces drafts by running at a more even pace – runs quietly, too!

- Heat exchanger is guaranteed 20 years
- Price includes thermostat which has a switch to let you change the flame and blower speed to the high- or low-heat setting
- Blower speed that changes automatically to match the size of the burner flame for a more quiet, continuous movement of warm air
- Direct-drive, multi-speed blower motor that's powerful enough for central air conditioning
- Furnace jacket is insulated to help conserve heat; wrap-around design of rigid jacket adds to the strength and appearance of furnace
- Fully automatic safety pilot that shuts off gas if pilot flame fails
- Self-cleaning cast-iron burners
- Factory-wired, ready to install

GAS FURNACE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees this furnace against defects in materials and workmanship as follows:

- FOR 1 YEAR FROM DATE OF PURCHASE Montgomery Ward will repair or, at its option, replace defective parts free, including labor.

"but the attitude of this convention is not one of unanimity. Whoever heard of organized labor on the eve of a possible nomination by the Democratic party ... being in very strong opposition to the probable nominee? This has never happened before in the Democratic party."

McGovern was also trying to heal the wounds opened when Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley was ousted from his convention seat.

In a further move to bring the "new politics" together with the old, he asked Lawrence F. O'Brien to stay on as party chairman, instead of replacing him with someone from his own camp.

But Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, a strong anti-McGovern man, went home saying it would be a waste of time for him to stay.

"McGovern can't win in Pennsylvania," said delegate Hugh Carcella, a steelworkers' local president from Philadelphia. "He's a right-to-work son-of-a-bitch."

Alabama delegation chairman Earl Goodwin of Selma complained "the convention has been taken over by McGovern. What he wants he's going to get. But come November, what McGovern wants McGovern is not going to get."

Gov. Robert W. Scott of North Carolina said McGovern, "My last choice," could carry neither his state nor the nation.

Scott was one of several mostly from southern and border states, who had breakfast today with McGovern in his 17th floor seaside penthouse. They included one liberal McGovern supporter, Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin who helped arrange the breakfast.

Also present were Govs. John C. West of South Carolina, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Reubin Askew of Florida, Marvin Mandel of Maryland and David Hall of Oklahoma, as well as Dolph Briscoe, Democratic candidate for governor of Texas.

Several of those present, including Askew, Bumpers, Carter, Askew and Lucey, have been mentioned as vice presidential possibilities.

On that question, McGovern kept his own counsel, but his staff said the senator would submit only one name to the convention after he consults with Edward M. Kennedy and other party leaders.

Ribicoff disavowed interest, proposing instead that McGovern invite Edmund S. Muskie. But Muskie said he would have to be persuaded over his own inclination to decline a second race for the vice presidency.

Muskie helped McGovern's unity move with a warm endorsement Tuesday after pulling out of his own hopeless race, a victim of McGovern's mastery of the primary system.

Humphrey withdrew first, but significantly did not endorse McGovern despite his own inclination to rid the Democrats of their fratricidal tendencies.

Humphrey and Muskie's withdrawal from the race left George C. Wallace and Jackson as McGovern's chief rivals but four other candidates are to be put in nomination tonight—Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas; former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

The vice presidential nomination will be made Thursday at the convention's final scheduled session. Three declared vice presidential candidates — Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska, an outspoken Vietnam dove; former Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody; and Stanley Arnold, a New York accountant and business consultant—said they would fight it out with McGovern's choice, just on principle.

Angry Wallace May Bolt As Platform Pleas Denied

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The possibility has become "stronger and stronger" that George C. Wallace will again bolt the Democratic party and form a third party movement, an aide said today.

Charles Snider, campaign director for the Alabama governor, said Wallace would decide in what direction to move "in the very near future" —once the convention was over.

Wallace had said Monday he had no plan to make a third-party bid. But Snider made it clear that Wallace was angry that the convention had voted down Tuesday night the changes he wanted to make in the platform on busing and other matters.

Wallace appealed for the revisions in a speech from his wheelchair before the convention.

While he did not say a third party candidacy was definite, Snider said, "the discussion we had this morning indicated this possibility was stronger and stronger."

The convention, Snider said, has been "stacked from the start."

Wallace's third-party presidential candidacy in 1968 was generally interpreted as having drawn votes from Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democrats' 1968 nominee.

Snider said Wallace was "somewhat upset" at the way his views were rejected Tuesday night by the convention.

High Speed Chase Ends With Crash

A seven mile high-speed chase through Southern Marin ended yesterday when a runaway Volkswagen plowed into a police roadblock on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Tiburon police arrested Francis Edward McGuinness, 41, of 62 Wreden Avenue, Fairfax, on suspicion of drunken driving and assault with a deadly weapon.

According to police, McGuinness was driving erratically on Tiburon Boulevard at 7:45 p.m. when police flashed their lights and gave chase.

McGuinness sped up Highway 101 and westbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard until he crashed into a roadblock at Wolf Grade set up by the Ross Police Department.

McGuinness was booked into Marin County Jail, where he remains in lieu of $5,000 bail. He will appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Benefit For Boys Club Set

The Novato Moose lodge will sponsor a dinner dance for the benefit of the Novato Boys Club at tha lodge on July 22, according to secretary Buell W. French.

A mandarin chicken dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. with dancing, to the music of Roy Berry, starting at 9 p.m. A social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets can be obtained at the lodge, 850 Lamont Avenue, the Novato Boys Club office, 867 Sweetser Avenue, or Locke Plumbing Co., 865 Sweetser Avenue. French said reservations are necessary and tickets must be purchased by next Wednesday.

Maternal Aunt Of President Dies In Hospital

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Edith Timberlake, President Nixon's maternal aunt, died last night at Riverside Community Hospital. She was 92.

Mrs. Timberlake was the sister of the President's mother, Hannah Milhous Nixon.

She died of pneumonia, hospital spokesmen said. She had lived in a convalescent home since she broke her hip in 1969 and also suffered from Parkinson's Disease.

She is survived by her husband Philip (a retired entomologist who still conducts research at the University of California Agricultural Experiment Station in Riverside), three children, 12 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Library Board Meeting Date Change Is Noted

The Sausalito Library board has changed its monthly meeting date from the second Tuesday to the second Thursday, President Donald J. Duncan reported.

Duncan said the date was changed so the library board meetings would not conflict with other Sausalito meetings, notably the city council which often holds adjourned meetings on the second Tuesday.

The board will continue to meet at 8 p.m. in city hall, he said.

ful Roger D. Boas was top spender. The campaign statement filed by his committee indicated total outlay of $144,-695.06 in the Sixth District as a whole.

Alan French, young San Franciscan who challenged Boas for the nomination, had not filed a campaign statement in Marin County by today.

Sixth District Rep. William S. Mailliard, the Republican incumbent who won renomination, listed expenditures of only $11,917.37 in the primary, from contributions totalling $58,-548.30.

In the Seventh Assembly District, incumbent William T. Bagley won the Republican nomination at a cost of $5,987.46 for 23,277 votes. In the Democrats' contest, Harry J. Moore of Novato was nominated with 17,689 votes at an outlay of $4,520.82. Joseph Franaszek of Tiburon, who got 11,926 votes, spent only $390.01, all from his own pocket.

None of the candidates for office on the Peace and Freedom Party or American Independent Party tickets filed the required post-election campaign statements. Elections Officer Meyer said that to qualify for the November ballot, the tardy politicians now must obtain permission from the superior courts to file late financial statements.

and state officials and not on evidence.

He said the $36,000 discrepancy, which was found in comparing sales records with deposit slips, could be simply a clerical error.

"This is a device to kill the EOC," he charged bitterly. "But we are still alive and intend to remain alive even without the help of the Department of Public Social Services and county bureaucrats."

(With the scrapping of the food stamp program, the EOC is left virtually without a program to aid the poor. The Marin Head Start preschool program is under its control, but has a separate staff and budget.

'Even so, the federal Office of Economic Opportunity has indicated it's willing to continue funding the agency with about $120,000 while it searches for its role in community life.)

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney noted Miss Presley's action to terminate the contract had been upheld in Marin Superior Court last week.

He added that it had been based not on a "string of phone calls" but rather on advice from state and federal officials.

"I can't believe that any responsible public official would say 'Let the program go on until the discrepancy is located,'" Maloney said. "I can't imagine how anyone can have such a cavalier attitude about public funds."

The county counsel added that the EOC should have provided some proof of the $36,000 whereabouts. However, he added, neither Conklin nor other EOC officials had provided any information.

Conklin replied that his agency is in the middle of an audit and that the answers are still weeks away.

"We've had nothing but trouble with this agency during the last year," observed Supervisor Louis H. Baar who urged the franchise be cancelled.

He drew support from Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste who moved termination of the franchise but said he would be willing to reconsider when the agency could give an explanation for the missing funds.

"If you do this you will be buying a law suit," Conklin warned.

Conklin's threat drew the wrath of Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin who demanded to know if the EOC planned to use taxpayers' money to finance a suit against the county.

Conklin, an attorney, after vainly trying to skirt the question, responded he would go to court at his expense "if my board lets me."

The EOC board at its last meeting indicated it would not pursue legal action over the food stamp program.

Closed Hearing Set

Directors of the Marin City Community Services District will meet in a closed session at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Manzanita Center to hear charges against an employee, according to district secretary Lillian Lee.

Water Level Down

LAKE ISABELLA (UPI) — Water storage at this southern Sierra reservoir dropped below 100,000 acre feet today for the first time since 1966.

OBITUARIES

Jay Young Of Sleepy Hollow, 22

Jay Andrew Young of Sleepy Hollow, a native of Marin died yesterday at a local hospital following a lengthy fight with cancer. He was 22.

Young, whose father took a leading role in the battle against the disease which took his son's life, was a lifelong resident of the county and was employed at Wallabs Inc., a medical laboratory in San Rafael.

He attended Tamalpais Valley School during the time his parents lived in that section of Marin, Sleepy Hollow School, Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo and College of Marin.

Young, who lived at 15 Estates Drive, was a member of Christ the Victor Lutheran Church in Fairfax.

His father, John, is a board member of the Marin branch of the American Cancer Society and is a director of the Marin Independent Service Station Association, which in the past has organized fund-raising drives to fight cancer.

The father is owner and operator of a Beacon service station in San Anselmo. The young man's mother, Doris, is a teacher at Alpha Schools in San Rafael.

Surviviors, besides his parents, are a sister, Joy Droz of San Rafael; three brothers, Jerrold, John and James, all of Sleepy Hollow, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Young of Newark and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Cromer of Magalia, Butte County.

Funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Christ the Victor Lutheran Church, with burial in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society, Marin branch; Christ the Victor Lutheran Church or a favorite charity.

EDITH DUNCAN

Funeral for Edith F. Duncan of 83 Bolinas Avenue, San Anselmo, will be tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, at 2 p.m. Private burial will follow.

Mrs. Duncan died yesterday at a Greenbrae convalescent hospital where she had been since October. She was 82 and a native of Turner, Oregon. She had lived in Marin county for 24 years.

She was a member of the San Anselmo First Presbyterian Church and memorials to that church are preferred by the family.

She is survived by her son, Stuart M. Duncan of San Anselmo and two grandchildren.

PEARL CLEAVES

Funeral for Pearl Edna Cleaves, mother of Doris M. Powell of San Rafael, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Morrison Funeral Chapel, St. Helena, Napa County. Burial will be in the St. Helena cemetery.

Mrs. Cleaves died yesterday in a Marin hospital after a long illness. She was 67 and had moved to San Rafael from St. Helena four months ago because of her ill-health.

A native of Richland Center, Wis., she had lived in St. Helena since 1941. She was a member of the St. Helena Presbyterian Church.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by a son, Ernest E. Olson of Ukiah, and a sister, Sarah Anderson of Richland Center.

W.B. SHEPHERD

William B. Shepherd, a retired teacher, died yesterday in his Sleepy Hollow home while convalescing from surgery. He was 84.

Shephered was found dead in bed by his son, Morris, with whom he lived, according to the Marin County Coroner's Office.

Shepherd, of 4 Irving Drive, taught for about 30 years in rural schools in Texas, his native state. Later, he worked for 20 years for the Wrather Petroleum Co. in Kilgore, Tex., retiring in 1958 as office superintendent.

He lived most of his life in Texas, moving to Marin 11 years ago. He was a mmeber of the International Order of Odd Fellows.

Survivors, besides Morris Shepherd, are another son, William Jr. of Hemet, Riverside County and a brother, Robert of Kilgore, Tex.

Private graveside service will be tomorrow at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato.

ETHEL RUTH WALSWORTH

Graveside funeral for Ethel Ruth Walsworth of San Anselmo will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

Mrs. Walsworth, 60, died July 3 in a Marysville hospital of injuries received in an accident June 12 on Highway 70 in Sutter County. Her husband, Clyde, received minor injuries in the crash.

Mrs. Walswgrth was born in Honolulu. A decade ago, she and her husband moved to San Anselmo where they managed the Anchor Vista Apartments at 25 Anchor Vista Avenue.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Kay Farm of Sunnyvale and two sons, Richard Walsworth of Sunnyvale and Steve Oana of Foster City.

Memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society or Marin County Heart Association would be preferred by the family.

F. H. HICKER

Private funeral for Capt. Frank H. Hicker of San Rafael has been held at sea.

Hicker died in a San Francisco Hospital last Wednesday after a brief illness. He was 60.

He was a native of San Diego and was a member of the first graduating class of the California Nautical School in 1933. He began sailing for Matson Navigation Co. of San Francisco in 1936 as a junior third mate.

He received his first master's assignment on the freighter Mauna Kea during World War II after serving as first officer on the Lurline and chief mate on the Mariposa, both wartime troop transports.

His last charge was the containership Hawaiian Monarch.

He is survived by his wife, Jacqualine, of 68 Chula Vista Drive, San Rafael, and a daughter, Gail, of Honolulu.

H. H. SORENSEN

Requiem Mass for Henry H. (Bud) Sorensen, 33, former Petaluma resident, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma.

Sorensen was found dead Friday at his home in Boyes Hot Springs. The Sonoma County Coroner's Office said death apparently was due to natural causes.

Sorensen was a native of Petaluma and was a former physical education teacher.

He is survived by a daughter, Gay Sorensen of Fortuna, and a sister, Frances Kontrafoyris of San Francisco.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

ROBERT TETU

Funeral for Col. Robert G. Tetu, former Bel Marin Keys resident, was held today at San Diego Naval Chapel.

Tetu died Sunday in a San Diego hospital after a long illness. He was 57.

A native of Rhode Island, he was a veteran of World War II and the Korean War. He retired from the Army in 1968.

Tetu moved to San Diego last month after living in Bel Marin Keys for two years.

He is also survived by his wife, Edith, of San Diego; three sons Capt. Robert G. Jr. and Lt. William Joseph; both of the Army and Richard P. at West Point; two daughters, Mrs. James Butcher and Joan Mary Tetu, and three grandchildren.

Burial will be at Wilumet National Cemetery in Portland, Ore., with full military honors.

The family prefers donations to the American Cancer Society.

MRS. TORRIERI

Word has been received by friends in Marin of the death of Jewell Torrieri, former Forest Knolls resident, who died May 17 in a Sonoma convalescent home after a long illness.

Mrs. Torrieri, who was 78, lived many years in Marin before going to the convalescent home about a year ago.

She was born in Iowa and was a teacher in San Francisco high schools for 28 years. Her husband, Nicola, died in 1964.

She is survived by several stepchildren.

Funeral was in Santa Rosa and burial was in Iowa.

MRS. MATTOS

Eugenia Mattos of 46 Bay View Avenue, Mill Valley, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 83.

Mrs. Mattos was born in Hollister and had lived in Mill Valley 45 years.

She was the mother of Marin County cellist Jean M. Mitchell of Mill Valley. Another daughter, Bernice M. Schneider of Belvedere, is former choir director of St. Hilary's Church in that eommunity.

Mrs. Mattos also is survived by six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Mass of the Resurrection will be offered Friday at 9:30 a.m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Mill Valley. Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch mortuary in Mill Valley. Burial will be in Hollister.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Tamalpais Firemen In City Union

Tamalpais firemen, distressed by recent rejection of many of their wage and fringe benefit requests by the Tamalpais Fire Protection District board, have joined a union.

Eleven of the district's 12 full-time firemen (excluding Chief William Canlett), along with four part-time employees, have affiliated with the San Francisco City and County Employees Union, Local 400.

One full-time firefighter is on vacation and did not participate in the union election last Thursday.

Lt. Kenneth A. Fowler said the men decided to unionize because, when the board turned down their requests, "We had no recourse, no muscle since we were not organized. No matter what we said, the board didn't want to listen."

Earlier this month Byron O. Boulware, president of the fire protection board, resigned that post in protest of the board's refusal to grant the firemen the 5.5 per cent raises they had asked for (district directors did agree to a 4 per cent wage hike).

While the board did authorize recall pay and $25 holiday pay for firefighters and raises for dispatchers, it rejected the men's request that dependants be included in a dental insurance plan which the board approved last year but has not yet implemented.

Directors also refused to endorse a college incentive plan to increase salaries for those who complete a certain number of college credits, $100 additional salary for lieutenants, longevity pay and establishment of an engineer's position, with $25 in added monthly salary.

The lieutenant said the firemen will meet with the board at 2 p.m. tomorrow to ask that the union be acknowledged as the employees' official bargaining representative.

Although firemen are not allowed to strike to obtain their demands, Fowler said being union members will permit the men to "sit down with the board as an organization to discuss what we want."

The Kentfield Fire Department is the only other completely unionized department in Marin, according to Fowler, although several other departments have some union members.

Smog Board Hit On Goals, Issues

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A report highly critical of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District was issued today by management consultants hired by the district.

The consultants found that the district is functioning "largely without specific, measurable and obtainable objectives," its direcors give "incomplete or unduly rushed consideration of issues" and its top administrator has too much power.

They also criticized the district staff for "rushed, weak or incomplete communication, some roadblocks to communication within the staff and fundamentally no underlying, agreed-to program linking all elements of the district together."

However, the consultants, Cresap, McCormick and Paget Inc. of San Francisco, made few detailed recommendations on how to correct the ills they found.

The firm was paid $45,000 for its three-month study of the smog district.

Their recommendations included a five-year, long-range planning program, more board committee meetings, a second board clerk and a doubling of directors' maximum pay to $2,400 a year.

In a significant but belated recommendation, the consultants said the dislrict's attorney should report to the board of directors rather than to the top administrator. The district's attorney for the past 17 years resigned last month after years of bitter dispute with the administrator.

The consultants, in a five-page summary of their findings, also urged the vacant position of executive secretary be filled and this person given an assistant.

This position presumably would be filled by the board's longtime clerk, Mabel Harder.

The consultants called for "a total reorientation of policy" on relations with the public, but offered no details on what is wrong with current policy or how to correct it.

The consultants concluded that their findings "do not suggest that the district is in mortal difficulty. On the other hand, there are a number of changes that should be made to insure effective fulfillment of policy intent."

The board of directors and district staff members, they said, "are diligently seeking to reduce and control air pollution."

The district has drawn increasing criticism from health and conservation organizations, many claiming the district has failed to do its job in combating Bay Area smog.

Driver Has To Be Freed From Auto Wreckage

Two persons, one trapped in wreckage, were injured early today in Novato after one car traveled north in the southbound lanes of Highway 101, south of Diablo Avenue, city police reported.

Officers said a southbound car driven by Gustav Adolf Wahrer, 67, of 4712 Sunshine Avenue, Santa Rosa, and a northbound car driven by Carrol T. Varner, 62, of 50 Bayview Street, Novato, collided at 3:24 a.m.

Varner, who was trapped in the wreckage of his car, had to be freed by firemen using special hydraulic equipment. He suffered a fractured left wrist and mouth cuts and was reported in satisfactory condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Elizabeth Wahrer, 68, of Santa Rosa, a passenger in the Wahrer car, suffered a fractured right elbow and multiple bruises. She was reported in satisfactory condition at Novato General Hospital and to be released today.

Wahrer told police he was southbound in the southbound lanes while Parner was traveling north. Officers said they were unable to get a statement from Varner because of his condition, but it appeared he had been driving north in the southbound lanes. Wahrer's car suffered major damage to the front end, while Varner's car was listed as a total loss.

Sanitation Plant Boss Leaves Post

Victor Von Aspern, plant superintendent of the San Rafael Sanitation District since August, 1969, resigned last night to accept a higher paying post as superintendent of the North San Mateo Sanitation District.

"It was entirely a matter of more money," Von Aspern said today, adding that the board accepted his resignation with "regret but understanding".

Von Aspern, 40, will receive about $200 more monthly than his present salary of $1,258 per month. The resignation becomes effective Julv 28.

Von Aspern said that he brought the plant "from a rather sorry shape three years ago to win the plant-of-the-year award last year."

He lives in Pinole, Contra Costa County, with his wife, Marlene, and three children.

Those interested in the San Rafael sanitation district plant superintendent post should contact Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, according to Virginia Congdon, board secretary.

She said that the board authorized the deannexation of two small plots on Upper Toyon Drive off D Street. The parcels will be served by Sanitary District 1, she said.

Reagan Backs Prison Guard Salary Raises

SACRAMENTO (UPI)--Gov. Ronald Reagan has agreed to a proposed 15 pay cent pay increase for prison guards.

A spokesman for Reagan said Tuesday Reagan agreed by telephone to a recommendation for the pay increase by Earl W. Brian, secretary of the Human Relations agency. Reagan is on a European goodwill tour for President Nixon.

The state Personnel Board earlier had approved a 7.5 per cent wage hike for correctional officers, carrying out Reagan's order for the 1972-73 budget.

But the spokesman for Reagan said the personnel board found it had made a mistake in computing its pay recommendation and suggested a 15 per cent increase for prison guards.

"After he (Reagan) learned a mistake was made, he wanted to augment the budget," the spokesman said.

The pay increase will cost an estimated $5 million more than originally allowed for the guards.

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, is carrying a bill to grant prison guards pay parity with highway patrolmen. But Richardson said last week he was willing to amend the measure, which is now before the Senate, for a 15 per cent pay hike.

If the proposal gets approval from the legislature and Reagan, it still must be approved by the Federal Pay Board.

No Contest Plea To Manslaughter

A 21-year old Mill Valley man has withdrawn his innocent plea and pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor count of manslaughter while driving drunk.

In return for the change of plea by Eric Ausley Van Horn, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court dismissed as part of a plea bargain a count of injuring another person with a car while drunk.

Van Horn is to receive no more than one year in the county jail when he is sentenced Aug. 28.

The California Highway Patrol said Van Horn was the driver of a pickup truck that went over an embankment on Muir Woods Road on March 25, killing a passenger, 19-year-old Eric Bryant Satterlie, also of Mill Valley.

Crackdown On Marinwood Fire Road Trespass

The Marinwood Fire Commission Monday night authorized Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield to work with county counsel to develop procedures for dealing with trespassers on Marinwood fire roads.

"County counsel has already told us that we have the authority to cite trespassers on our fire roads, but we need to know how to go about it," said George Whitaker, commission board member.

Whitaker said vehicles —especially motorcyles — that zoom along the community's hillside fire road create a "tremendous fire hazard."

"Since the sheriff's department doesn't make regular patrols of our grasslands and off road fire trials, we want the jurisdiction," he said.

Alioto To Take Directorship Of Pollution Board

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mayor Joseph L. Alioto has refused to reappoint Supervisor Dianne Feinstein to the Bay Area Air Pollution Board's governing body.

In a letter made public Tuesday, the mayor said he would assume the directorship himself.

Mrs. Feinstein remarked that she suspected "the mayor's refusal to reappoint me is the price to be paid for running against him last year."

Mrs. Feinstein was a losing candidate in November when Alioto won reelection as mayor.

She had expected to be named the board's chairman for the coming year.

Vulture Collides With Power Line Starting Fire

A vulture that apparently didn't watch where it was going flew into a power line yesterday, electrocuting itself and causing a momentary outage in approximately 5,200 homes.

The ill-fated flight also resulted in a grass fire that burned about an acre before it was brought under control.

It all started at 12:19 p.m. when a vulture either touched or collided with a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. line at the top of Doe Hill near Stafford Lake in Novato.

Contact with the 60,000-volt line interrupted power momentarily in about 4,000 homes in the east end of Novato and about 1,200 homes in Point Reyes and Olema while power was automatically transferred to another circuit.

The vulture sizzled to death, falling to the ground and sparking a grass fire.

Boothe Computer Sale Is Advised

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 800 shares of C.I. Convertible Fund bought at $25 and now listed on the A.S.E. at $20. I am over 60 and don't think I should hold anything that fluctuates that widely. Thank you in advance for any advice. — M.G.

A. Judging from the time and price of your purchase, your shares were bought at the initial offering last November. Since that time the fund's net asset value has risen 7 per cent. The $5 drop in trading price that concerns you represents the discount from NAV at which the shares are selling. This discount, at 19 per cent, is about average for all closed-end funds including bond, convertible and common stock.

As of the March report, C.I.'s portfolio was distributed as follows: 62 per cent convertible bonds, 24 per cent other bonds, 12 per cent preferred and 2 per cent common stock with overall quality in the medium-to-good range.

Although the fund may commit up to 10 per cent to letter stock, none has been purchased to date. Borrowings of up to 50 per cent of net asset value are allowed but leverage at this time is less than half that amount.

In the first full quarter of operation, 30 cents per share was distributed from income — and at this rate the return is a generous 6 per cent. Capital gains distributions and this is a good probability, will be voted by directors in July.

There is a moderately speculative element in this fund, but I suggest giving it more time before making any decisions.

Q. I hold Boothe Computer 5¾s convertible debentures due in 1988. I paid around 65. Their March statement was not encouraging. Should I sell at a loss or hang on a bit? — W.H.

A. Problems at the company include: term for depreciation of leased computers, write-offs and poor earnings may take some time to correct. The company has long-term debt of $122.8 million and interest obligations of $11 million annually. The convertible bond is rated only CCC denoting considerable doubt as to continued interest payment. Sale is recommended.

Mill Valley Bar Will Undergo Remodeling Under New Owner

The Office bar at 153 Throckmorton Avenue in Mill Valley is about to change hands and undergo extensive remodeling for a grand opening this fall under the name of Sweetwater.

New owner is a corporation called Sweetwater of Mill Valley Inc., headed by Frederick P. Martin of Mill Valley, a 1970 graduate of San Francisco State College. Martin worked his way through college as waiter and bartender and has about six years experience in the restaurant business.

Martin said the present owners, John Ebner and Claude T. Ross of Mill Valley, will run the bar until Martin and his corporation take over in the fall.

The new owners plan to remodel the bar interior with natural wood, using all oak chairs and some antiques. "We may have some soft music and a broad range of entertainment if we can get permits from the city," said Martin. "Everything will be in keeping with the atmosphere in Mill Valley."

Working with him at the Sweetwater cocktail lounge will be Peter E. Kahl, bar manager of the Vintner in San Francisco and John A. Nolan, who has about five years experience in bartending. Both Kahl and Nolan are Mill Valley residents.

Ebner and Ross have owned The Office for the past six and a half years. They plan to travel to Europe when they turn The Office over to the new owners.

BIG 4 RENTS at 5750 Paradise Drive in Corte Madera has expanded its camp gear rentals to include fully furnished motor homes.

Big 4, owned by Charles Bradley, rents home repair tools, contractors equipment, ski equipment, camping trailers and gear. Last month, it acquired a lot for dry storage of trailers and campers.

The new motor homes for rent are 20-foot Winnebagos, fully self-contained with gas-electric refrigerator, gas range with oven, water heater, flush toilet, shower, air conditioner and heater.

BRUCE R. BLEEKER of San Rafael has been promoted to vice president in Bank of America's San Francisco headquarters.

Bleeker joined Bank of America a year ago after seven years with banks on the East Coast. He will serve in the international services section of the national division.

RONALD M. STEINAU of Tiburon, a successful businessman at age 19, won third prize in a nationwide sales contest sponsored by his company, Schwaab Label Co. of Milwaukee. The company produces hand stamps (black and white or multi-color) which can make 25,000 impressions without reinking.

In a 12-week contest which ended June 22, young Steinau sold $6,310 worth of Perma-Stamps. Actually he was handicapped because he spent three of the 12 weeks on a sailing trip to Tahiti, which gave him only nine active weeks of selling.

A 1971 graduate of Redwood High School, Steinau plans to enter Sonoma State College this fall to take a business administration course. He started selling Perma-Stamps six years ago and is sales representative in Marin and Sonoma Counties.

ATTORNEY THOMAS H. THORNER of Kentfield has closed his San Francisco law office to join the legal firm of Goldstein and Roth at the Holiday Plaza in Terra Linda. He will join former Municipal Court Judges Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. and Hadden W. Roth.

Thorner, 40, has been practicing law since 1960 in San Francisco. He ran an unsuccessful race in 1970 for the vacancy created by Judge Goldstein's retirement from the bench.

JAMES P. LUTHER of Tiburon, outgoing president of San Francisco Ad Club, received a 10-speed bicycle instead of the traditional wristwatch or pen set at the luncheon held in his honor last month.

Keith Lanning of Marinwood, incoming president, made the presentation. Ironically, Luther showed up on crutches to receive the bike and will not be able to test-ride for a while. He was hurt in a softball game the night before.

Consolidated Services Inc., another new corporation affiliated with Holiday Magic, has set up shop at 70 Mitchell Boulevard in Northgate Industrial Park, the same address as Sta-Power Industries.

Headed by Preuident H.K. White, CSI sets up warehouses and training centers for distributors of Sta-Power products, engine conditioners. Head office of CSI is Reno, Nev.

Another new corporation affiliated with Holiday Magic is Distributor Development Institute, also headquartered in Reno. Its California agent is listed as Harold A. Lipska, secretary of Holiday Magic. This new corporation provides services for Alexander Taylor Inc., a Holiday Magic affiliate which distributes men's clothing.

ETHLYN ANN HANSEN of Lucas Valley, senior highway engineer in the San Francisco office of the Division of Highways, has become the first woman to graduate from the prestigious Institute of Traffic and Transportation at the University of California, Berkeley. She won her master of science degree on June 17.

She and her husband, William Reiner, live in Lucas Valley on Pikes Peak Drive.

JOHN P. FINSLAND of Greenbrae just completed 25 years of service with Shell Oil Company. He is dealer relations manager in the company's western marketing region.

He joined Shell in 1947 and served in Columbus, Ohio, Seattle and in San Francisco, where he assumed his present position in 1969.

Finsland, a fighter pilot in World War II, is current president of the San Francisco chapter of the 7th Step Foundation, an organization assisting ex-convicts.

F. E. (TED) HAWLEY of Corte Madera has been named regional engineer for the U.S. Department of Transportation.

FLORENCE NICHOLS, owner of Florence Nichols Antiques at 7 Mary Street in San Rafael, is back from a buying trip to Spain, Portugal and Tangiers. "But I still find the U.S.A. the best source of supply," said Mrs. Nichols. She finds the New England states the richest in antiques.

Mrs. Nichols has operated the antique shop for six years with the help of her sister, Harriet Nelson.

Big Housing Loan

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Crocker Bank has arranged a $40 million loan for a public housing development in Caracas, Venezuela, and will handle administration of the six-year loan.

Ingenuity Is Solving Problems of Sewage

NEW YORK (UPI) —Little by little, American industrial ingenuity is solving the problems of sewage and waste disposal.

Sanitary engineers have known for years that solutions could be found in incineration, compacting, chemical treatment, landfill, conversion into soil fillers and even building materials.

The trick is to do it at costs the taxpayers and industry can afford.

The city of Houston has just ordered 20 units of an incinerator called the Consummat from Sanitas Service Corp. of Hartford. Eleven of these units, each of which can handle the refuse output of about 5,000 people daily and costs $72,000, have been used around the country for the last year or so. Sanitas also operates fleets of garbage trucks to service some units.

The most rigorous test of the Consummat has been made in South Houston, a town of 12,000 inhabitants.

George Christy, recently retired as South Houston's mayor at the age of 82, said the Consummat solved his town's garbage and solid waste disposal. Using oxygen and any fossil fuel, the Consummat burns garbage, wood, glass, plastics, fabrics, old tires and even some metals, leaving virtually no residue and creating no odor or air polluting effluent. An afterburner takes care of chimney effluent.

Another solid waste experiment is planned by the city of Nashville, Tenn., for whom Carrier Corp. of Syracuse is building an incinerating plant that will produce steam for heating as a byproduct in winter and chilled water for air-conditioning in summer.

The experiment will be continued for several years. Ultimately it may be determined that sewage sludge can be used beneficially on a big scale.

Firm Reports Earning Hike

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Purdue Housing Industries Inc. (OTC) has announced net earnings of $280,516 on sales of $9,230,337 for the year ended April 30.

This compares with earnings of $263,973 on sales of $7,475,176 for the prior year.

Though net earnings increased, earnings per share declined from 48 cents to 38 cents as a result of an increase in the average number of shares outstanding in fiscal 1972.

Prices Nudge Up In Early Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices moved narrowly higher during the first two hours today in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Advances led declines, 611 to 524, among the 1,502 issues crossing the tape, showing the advance was not broad. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 5,310,000 shares.

There was little in the news background to spark major activity. Some analysts said many investors are hopeful some progress will be made in the Paris peace talks which resume Thursday.

Some stocks may be at a low enough level to become attractive to some investors, analysts suggested. One predicted a short-term rally.

Genesco, a big loser Tuesday, was the most active issue, up 38 at 15 7-8 on 169,800 shares. General Electric was second, up 1-8 at 65 3-4 on 132,800 shares. Federal National Mortgage was third, up 1-4 at 20 on 94,500 shares.

Prices were mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange. American Israeli Paper was the st active issue, up 1-2 at 12 7-8 on 62,100 shares.

There were some strong spots among the oils. Superior Oil climbed 7 1-2, Occidental Petroleum 2, Natomas 1 1-2 and Kerr McGee 1 1-4. Occidental reported a major oil discovery off the coast of Nigeria.

IBM, Burroughs and Memorex were point-size gainers in the electronics and computers. Electronic Data Systems, which lost 3 1-8 Tuesday, was off 3-4.

Among the glamors, Upjohn gained 1 1-2.

Steels, motors, chemicals, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed.

Ruegg Challenge On Annex Policy

Novato City Councilman Fred F. Ruegg last night challenged the city's policy of trying to tie in adjacent parcels in annexation proceedings.

"This business of trying to grab as much as we can. . . I just think it's not the proper policy at this time," Ruegg said.

The city is trying to keep open land and "yet by annexing may be forcing" the owners into developing, he said. With annexation, the tax burden becomes too heavy and "they have to develop."

Councilman George C. Quesada suggested that the city establish agricultural preserves within its boundaries, these to be just several acres.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the policy was intended to straighten out the city's boundaries, and that the city tax couldn't be "labeled" as the "force" thet would require owners to develop. "The school district and the fire district taxes have increased, and they are paying these," he said.

Ruegg's comments came as the council was discussing prezoning of 15 parcels totaling almost 196 acres on the south side of Olive Avenue, not all expected to be annexed.

The council introduced an ordinance to prezone the parcels, now limited-agriculture, to one-acre lots, 10,000-square-foot lots, and planned-residential.

The council also introduced an ordinance to prezone 88 acres northeast of H Lane from limited-agriculture with half-acre lots, to one-acre, half-acre and 10,000-square-foot lots.

The council also introduced an ordinance to prezone 33 acres of the Brooke property on the west side of Santa Maria Drive between Oaks Unit No. 3 and Wild Horse Valley Drive from limited-agricultural to planned-residential, with one unit per acre.

Ruegg, a proponent of encouraging business, clashed with George C. Quesada during consideration of precise plans for improvements of two lots at Empire Chevrolet at 7123 Redwood Highway.

As Quesada questioned the adequacy of the plans, Ruegg commented that "motor homes," which are sold at the firm's lot, "bring in a lot of sales tax" and that should be encouraged because the city needs money.

Quesada said he didn't want it represented that he was discouraging business.

"You are, George," Ruegg replied.

The council informally approved plans for improvements of a lot at the south end of the Empire Chevrolet property, but postponed action on plans for improving a lot at the north end along Novato Creek.

During the citizen-comment portion of the agenda, the council heard a complaint from Leone Trice, 1250 Cambridge Street, about "kids on bicycles" who "ran right in front of my car."

She said one bicyclist came within inches of the front of her car last night, and "these kids do this all the time."

Quesada said he had the same experience, and "we've got to start leaning on the kids and lean hard. It's a deliberate effort, sort of a game of chicken with them."

Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps said some cities have a special court for bicycle violations. The council referred the matter to Police Chief Allen V. Klemme.

A Piecemeal Open Space Program Hit

Novato City Councilman George C. Quesada said last night the proposed countywide program for open space should be in "totality," rather than piecemeal.

Referring to San Rafael's intention to drop out of any countywide plan, Quesada proposed that the council ask the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to "force San Rafael to stay in" if the district is created by all other cities and the county.

A similar plea has been made by other cities in Marin.

If San Rafael is out, then other cities could "get out" and it would result in a piecemeal district, he said.

Mayor Pro Tem Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young, the only two other councilmen in attendance, didn't act on Quesada's proposal, but agreed to ask the LAFC, scheduled to act on the open space matter tonight, to continue action.

Ruegg said he didn't favor the creation of an open space district, and would reopen the open space matter at a future council meeting.

The Novato City Council also:

TAXI SERVICE — Granted Robert C. Jennings of San Rafael Taxicabs Inc. a certificate of public convenience to operate taxicab service in Novato, succeeding the Novato Yellow Cab Co., which closed down.

LOMA VERDE PLAN — Adopted an ordinance amending the Loma Verde Master Plan to permit 50 single-family units, townhouse or cluster, on 40 acres at the end of Montura Way.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until July 24 at 7 p.m. at the Novato Community House for a joint meeting with the city planning commission, with the next regularly scheduled meeting at 8 p.m. July 25 at the Novato Community House.

PICKART DEVELOPMENT — Adopted an ordinance to amend the Pickart master plan for 92 apartment units on 5.9 acres at the end of Hill Road between Hill Junior High School and Rancho Elementary School, but postponed action on precise development plans until July 25.

OAKS APARTMENTS — Approved precise plans by Fabian Bobo for 58 apartment units on 3.37 acres at the north east corner of South Novato Boulevard and Yukon Way.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Approved a joint powers agreement with Marin County to provide recreational programs for senior citizens on a 50 per cent matching basis, with the city's share at $3,825.

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain and Councilman David Price Jones, both on vacation, were absent.

Talk Lengthy, But $850,000 Bus District Budget Passes

The Marin County Transit District board yesterday approved an $852,000 budget for fiscal 1972-73 but deferred action on a proposal to hire a full-time general manager.

Adoption of the budget, which carries a tax rate of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, followed lengthy discussion on the district's latest problem — a $542,000 bill for local bus service from the Golden Gate Bridge District.

A full-time manager was urged by several residents, including two supervisorial candidates, who said the complexity of transportation problems needs expert handling.

Candidates Gary T. Giacomini and Barbara Boxer told the board many of the current problems, such as the bridge district bill, could have been minimized if the district had a qualified general manager.

(Currently, administration of the district is assigned to the county's traffic engineer, James B. Robertson, on a part-time basis.)

The two candidates, supported by several members of the audience and representatives from Marin Alternative and the League of Women Voters, said that to delay hiring a manager could throw the district into deeper financial straits.

The bridge district earlier this year set Marin's share of intracounty bus service at $787,000 but, following cries of anguish from Marin officials, revised the figure downward to $542,000.

Transit district officials, who originally thought Marin's share would be about $120,000, have refused to accept the amount which was arrived at by the bridge district through a mileage formula frozen into state law.

Efforts are under way to revise the formula requiring Marin to pay a lesser share of local bus service which keeps bridge district buses and drivers in operation during noncommute hours.

Both bridge district and transit district officials have agreed the mileage formula is inequitable in calculating Marin's share. Revision is months away, however, said Robertson.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell told the transit board that the picture for last fiscal year is not quite as bleak as painted by the bridge district's $542,000 bill.

He said under the county's contractwith the bridge district Marin's total liability for local bus service cannot exceed one year's tax levy — about $355,000.

The board, meanwhile, directed its staff to seek a lower figure through negotiation with the bridge district.

Mitchell said after the meeting that while the district is covered to some extent for last year, it will face the same high charge this year since the $355,000 limitation was for the first year of bus operation.

"If the formula isn't changed," he warned, "the county will be forced to end intra-county service" or reduce it drastically.

The pleas for a full-time manager were favored by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who will face Mrs. Boxer in a November runoff election.

But the boardvoted unanimously to table discussion of a full-time manager to a later meeting. (Members John F. McInnis and Michael Wornum were absent.)

Judge Hurt In Unusual Accident

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) An unusual home accident has sent U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli to the hospital.

Zirpoli was trapped in the garage at his home yesterday when the electric door mechanism failed to function properly.

The judge crawled through a window and in dropping to the ground broke bones in both of his heels.

Old Skeleton Found At College Site

The skeleton of an adult male Miwok Indian, probably several hundred years old, has been discovered by College of Marin students at the Indian Valley Colleges site near Novato.

"It might be someone of importance," said John K. McBeath, anthropology instructor. "It had abalone ornaments buried with it."

The skeleton was discovered Friday about 18 inches below the surface and probably is "fairly late, within the last few hundred years," he said.

Students have been excavating at the site at the entrance to the colleges since early May, McBeath reported. "We knew it was a campsite," but wanted to determine its relationship to a nearby site, which might have been the community center for the area.

Before the latest discovery, students "found the usual assortment of tools and the original fire pits and two other burials," he said. "They were full skeletons, but no ornaments with either, probably a male and a female."

The fire pits probably go back nearly 1,000 years, McBeath said.

The site was selected for excavation after students discovered broken pieces of grinding tools and flints in the area.

Members of the Miwok Archaeological Preserve of Marin have started excavation on a site east of the entrance to the college which might have been a community center, McBeath said.

Barbecue with RAGU'

Old World Style Spaghetti Sauce

SAUCE FOR HAMBURGERS • Cut up and brown thin slices of green peppers, celery and onions. Simmer mixture in Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce.

RAGU' PICKLE RELISH • Simmer two or three tablespoons of sweet pickle relish in Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce. Add slices of pot roast or roast beef. Spread heated mixture (like gravy) over meat on buns.

ON SALADS • To make a "tangy" tossed salad, add to the dressing a tablespoon or two of mayonnaise mixed with an equal amount of Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce.

ON STEAK • After steak is grilled cut in diagonal slices across the grain. Spoon heated Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce on each serving.

Boys' Club Fund Drive Brings In Over $5,000

The Central Marin Boys' Club building fund campaign has netted more than $5,000 in a drive to collect $500,000 to finance facilities, equipment and staff for a boys' club headquartered in San Rafael, Barbara Parks, campaign coordinator, announced yesterday.

She said that the campaign fund had swelled to $5,625 following a $1,000 contribution from Frederick S. Allen, mayor of Ross.

Allen is the first member of the Central Marin Boys' Club's "benefactor club", an honor reserved for contributors of $1,000 or more, she said.

The Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Association has given the group $600, and San Rafael's California Land and Title Co. and Roy Vallerino, a San Rafael attorney, have donated $500 each, Mrs. Parks said.

The boys' club, organized by a group of businessmen in March, hopes to build a large facility in San Rafael and establish satellite clubs in other central Marin cities.

The club has an office in Room 113 of the Holiday Inn at 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael.

Hansberry Play In San Rafael

"The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window," a play by Lorraine Hansberry, will be presented for five weekends throughout the summer by the Fifth Street Actors Co.

Performances at 8:30 p.m. are scheduled for July 21, 22, 28, 29, and Aug. 4, 5, 11, 12, 18 and 19 at the Belrose Studio Theater, 1415 Finth Avenue, San Rafael.

The production is directed by Charles Perry.

Correct Name Of Supplier Of Funds

The Independent-Journal, in a story yesterday on the Bolinas Planning Group, was given the wrong name of a San Francisco foundation which is helping finance a master plan for Bolinas.

The funding is being provided by Youth Project, not the Center for Youth Studies as the article stated.

Loading Door Is Basis For Suit

An Oakland developer has filed a $4 million suit resulting from a dispute over access to the meat receiving door at a Novato supermarket.

The developer, H. L. Bryan, filed the suit in Marin Superior Court against William Jonas and George Riis — partners in Roger Wilco Markets — Crocker Citizens Bank and Great Western Savings and Loan Association.

Bryan, who plans to complete the neighborhood shopping area at Novak Square, Novato Boulevard and Wilson Avenue, with 14 new occupants, said his plans have been blocked.

Bryan and Jonas have been battling since early this year over access to the meat receiving door at the Roger Wilco Market at Novak Square.

Jonas and Crocker Citizens Bank, from whom he leases the market property, filed a suit against Bryan claiming his planned new buildings to abut the market on the east would block the meat receiving door.

Bryan in his countersuit said he tried to exercise his option with Great Western Savings and Loan Association to purchase land at Novak Square for $400,000 and was told he couldn't because Crocker Citizens Bank had a claim for an easement in the area under dispute.

Bryan said he had spent money from Feb., 1971, to May, 1972, to win approval for his shopping center development, but his agreement was broken when he tried to exercise it.

Great Western Savings and Loan Association canceled his option on May 31, although it had previously extended it to June 30, he said.

In addition to his suit, Bryan is seeking an injunction against sale of the easement to Crocker and Jonas by Great Western Savings and Loan Association.

Jonas has contended that access to the meat loading center is vital to his market and he and Crocker Citizens Bank are claiming the easement on the adjacent property.

Earlier this year Jonas and Crocker Citizens Bank won a temporary order against sale of the land to Bryan, but Judge Joseph G. Wilson denied them an injunction April 20 and vacated the preliminary order.

New Rescue Sub Delivered To Navy

SUNNYVALE (UPI) — A 50-foot submarine rescue vessel, which dived to a depth beyond 5,000 feet in a recent test, was delivered to the navy Tuesday.

The sub, to be used by the navy facility at Point Loma on San Diego Bay is the second deep submergence rescue vessel (DSRVS) put into service.

Navy spokesmen describe the vessels as the "primary elements in twin rescue systems designed to move quickly anywhere in the world by land, air and sea to begin rescue operations for crewmen of operational submarines stranded on the ocean floor."

$4 Million Approved For Sewer Upgrade

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Grants totaling more than $4 million to upgrade three Marin and Southern Sonoma sewerage systems have been approved by the State Water Resources Control Board.

The grants, combining state and federal funds, were among 150 wastewater treatment projects totaling $340 million approved for the last fiscal year.

The board also recommended funding an estimated $2,488,000 for six projects in Marin this new fiscal year. The board's action was a first step toward eligibilitq for the grants.

Grants approved under last-year's funds were $275,000 to the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, $222,500 to the City of Mill Valley and $3,586,000 to the City of Petaluma.

Projects recommended this year were $1,289,000 to Stinson Beach County Water District, $309,000 to Bolinas Community Public Utility District, $400,000 to Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, $250,000 to Tiburon Sanitary District, $200,000 to Angel Island State Park and $40,000 to the North Marin County Water District for improvements in the Inverness area.

Fairfax Council Will Continue Budget Review

The Fairfax City Council will continue review of a proposed $727,113 budget for 1972-73 today and tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council will look at the balance of the city's administrative budgets and review a proposed $70,500 capital budget tonight, according to Robert E. Crowe, city administrator.

He said that the council will consider salaries and fringe benefits for employees tomorrow night and then possibly adopt the preliminary spending program.

Crowe said that the council would consider at tomorrow's session expanding the city's police cadet program to allow the police department to remain open 24 hours a day.

Bernstein Will Take Composing Sabbatical

NEW YORK (AP) — Conductor Leonard Bernstein says he will be taking a 10-month sabbatical, beginning in September 1973, to devote more time to composing and writing.

He said yesterday he has been granted leaves of absence from the Vienna State Opera, London's Royal Opera House and the New York Philharmonic.

San Quentin Sale Halted For Present

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to prevent sale of the 444-acre San Quentin Prison property before the Legislature determines its possible use as a public park has won unanimous approval of the Senate Finance Committee.

The bill, SB 229 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, would freeze disposition of the property until January 1974, when the Department of General Services must report on ways it could be used "for the maximum benefit and enjoyment of the people of California." The bill has gone on to the full Senate.

Behr told the committee Monday that the property "would make an ideal state park. It would be a tragedy to sell it to the highest bidder."

The prison is scheduled to be closed by the end of 1974.

No Charge Filed Against Youth In Drug Case

No charge has been filed against the 22-year-old son of a San Quentin prison shop instructor pending analysis of possible heroin found in his possession Saturday.

The district attorney's office announced in Marin Municipal Court Monday it would not file any charge against Brent Russell Stocker so Judge David R. Baty ordered the man released.

Stocker, who lives with his parents in house 78 at the prison, was arrested shortly after midnight in Gerstle Park in San Rafael. Police said the park was closed at 9 p.m.

As police approached, a companion of Stocker's fled, but Stocker remained seated on a bench where police said they found a bent, blackened spoon containing a small amount of liquid and white crystal as well as a plastic vial containing clear liquid.

SQUASHINI IT'S NOT: PUMPKIN MORE LIKE IT

When is a "squashini," not a "squashini?"

When it's a Mexican pumpkin.

The large vegetable described in Monday's Independent-Journal as a possible combination of a squash and a zucchini was identified yesterday by an Ignacio resident as a Mexican pumpkin.

Connie Andrews of 526 Vera Cruz Avenue, Los Robles Mobile Home Park, reported she has Mexican pumpkins growing in her garden and the vegetable shown in the I-J was just such a vegetable.

Schools Will Gain Money In Sausalito

The Sausalito School District board has been informed that about $47,000 in unexpected income from the 1971-1972 fiscal year would be available to the district this fiscal year.

Dist. Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg said the board did not decide how to allocate the unanticipated funds.

The board weighed the merits of two proposed uses, (additional restrooms at the Bayside School or more instructional materials) but reached no conclusion.

The extra money came from unsecured taxes and state funds for transportation costs, according to district accountant Francoise Hayet.

A decision on use of the funds is expected at the school board's next budget hearing July 19.

The Sausalito School District board also:

OFFICERS — Elected as its new officers Dr. Warren K. Hansen, president; Barbara Harris, vice president and Betty Times, clerk and board representative.

COMMITTEES — Elected the following charimen of standing committees: standards and personnel, Mrs. Time; finance and organizational, Mrs. Harris and facilities, Dr. Hansen.

MEETING DAYS — Changed the school board's regular meeting days to the first and third Mondays of each month, beginning in August.

SALARIES — Adopted salary schedules for all district employees, not including cost-of-living raises, with the proviso that salary schedules can be adjusted after salary negotiations are completed.

CENTRAL SCHOOL — Accepted reversionary rights to one-third of a city block held by the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. at the Central School site.

PERSONNEL — Heard a protest from James Morgan, Classified Employees Association president over recent elimination of a district groundsman's position and the reduction to part time of a district carpenter's position. The board maintained the cuts were for economic reasons.

SUMMER — Heard a report on the progress of the Sausalito summer school program and announced an open house for parents at the Martin Luther King School from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. July 20.

Annual Outdoor Living Sale Set At Shop Center

The Strawberry Town and Country shopping center will hold its annual outdoor living sale tomorrow through Sunday, featuring several special displays and attractions.

According to John Rudolph, shopping center spokesman, a car swap meet for antique car buffs, 26 free roundtrip vacations to Utah offered by the Utah Travel Bureau and an exhibit of career opportunities will be part of the outdoor sale.

The career display will include booths and information on such careers as medical technicians, radio and television engineers and executives.

The outdoor sale will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Low Pollution Engine Is Introduced By Company

NEW YORK (UPI)—A small California research company announced Tuesday it has developed a revolutionary engine relying on water that economically makes possible clean power plants and a low pollution car.

J.Lyell Ginter, president of the Ginter Corp. of Glendale, Calif., said his company's invention would make it feasible to have a car operate on low-cost diesel fuel and still far surpass the pollution standards established for cars that will be made in 1976.

In announcing that the device, known as the "thermogenerator," was now available for licensing to manufacturers, Ginter said he also expected to see them in widespread use in centrally located power generating stations because of the "negligible" amount of pollutants it releases into the air.

The gist of the Ginter thermogenerator is a process using water spray to cool air entering a separated combustion chamber in a gas turbine engine. The flame "cooling" process prevents the air from breaking down into noxious pollutants according to Ginter.

Although the firm has not yet produced a car to support its assertions, Ginter said that on the basis of experience with a prototype engine, he is convinced the Detroit automakers will turn to him with their engine problems.

At a news conference at the Overseas Press Club, Ginter said the 20-inch cylinder runs on diesel fuel at much greater efficiency than present cars.

The cars would have a large water tank—the engine uses half as much water as fuel—and would be very quiet, he said.

Memorial Building Rates Hiked; Same Fee To All

By JEFF GREER

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday sharply increased fees for use of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, decided to charge all organizations, commercial and nonprofit, the same rate, and put bookings entirely under control of the auditorium director. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

Ailing supervisor John F. McInnis returned briefly to his board seat yesterday for the first time since May 9. During his one-hour stint he joined fellow supervisors in the 4-to-0 votes (Supervisor Michael Wornum was absent), setting the new use rules and dividing more than $30,000 in "economic development" funds among some 20 Marin and regional organizations.

He also persuaded two other supervisors to agree that none of the $700,000 in this year's budget earmarked for open space acquisition and recreation facilities should be spent until after an election in November on formation of a countywide parks and open space district.

McInnis was hospitalized in mid-May with a serious intestinal ailment. He apologized yesterday that his special diet made it impossible for him to participate in board business beyond noon.

McInnis and chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who were on a Special Committee for revising the memorial building rates and rules, stressed that the new fees were "a trial balloon," subject to revision next year.

The new rates effectively double previous charges, setting the cost of one-day weekend rental of the exhibit hall at $600 and of the theater at $400, and raising other charges for use of the building and surrounding grounds.

Under the new policy, Leon G. Kalimos, audition director, will have complete authority over what events will be booked into the building.

Marin Music Chest spokesmen's protests that they were being charged commercial instead of nonprofit organization rates for their weekend concerts, resulted in a compromise suggested by McInnis.

He pointed out that the Music Chest had been slated for a $2,000 slice of of the economic development pie, and successfully proposed increasing it to $2,600 to offset the higher rates. He also won approval of doubling the Youth in Arts junior theater program allocation from $750 to $1,500.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the extra funds were available because the 5 per cent motel tax that finances the cultural and promotional events had netted nearly $32,000 instead of the $30,000 originally predicted.

The board approved the revised allocation 4-0, with Supervisor Michael Wornum absent. Other than the Music Chest and Youth in Arts, all organizations got the same amount as last year.

Supervisorial candidate Barbara Boxer challenged continuing the $8,500 allocation to the Redwood Empire Association, but its director, Carney Campion, defended it as bringing far more than that in tourist dollars to Marin.

The board also refused to heed a plea from the Mountain Play for $1,000 financial support for the first time in its history, and turned down speakers asking more funds for the Marin Civic Ballet's ballet festival next year, and the Marin Historical Society's request for renovation of its museum on B Street in San Rafael.

As McInnis prepared to depart, he asked that the board agree to instruct staff that none of the $700,000 open space funds in the budget be committed before voters decide in November on Measure A — formation of a countywide park district.

He warned that the board's allocation was "beclouding the issues of the November ballot terribly" and that "the public doesn't understand that the $700,000 budgets and the 10-cent tax rate (possible if the district is formed) won't overlap" because the district cannot levy taxes before fiscal 1973-74 at the earliest.

After McInnis left, Supervisors Arnold M. Baptiste and Louis H. Baar voted to freeze the $700,000 until after the election; Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. objected that "the $700,000 has nothing to do with the formation of the district."

Deadlock On Variance For Tidelands Building

After a two and one-half hour hearing yesterday the short-handed Marin County Board of Supervisors deadlocked over whether Bolinas property owner Marion Conrad should be granted a variance permit to build on a Wharf Road tidal lot.

The deadlock in effect upheld planning commission denial of the variance, based on the Marks-Whitney decision by the California Supreme Court.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar moved that the court's landmark decision be ignored and the variance be granted.

"I'm not going to second it," declared Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste. He explained that he did not want to see any precedents set before a scheduled Sept. 12 meeting at which county officials will explore the complexities of the Marks-Whitney ruling on 144 parcels of tidelands in West Marin.

Board chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. explained to the audience that "it would take three votes to upset the planning commission action." Supervisors John F. McInnis and Michael Wornum were absent.

The Conrads obtained a variance permit to build on their small lot on the water side of Wharf Road in 1969, but failed to build before the permit expired and the Marks-Whitney decision was handed down early this year.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney explained that the court ruling held that state sale of certain tidelands in 1868 — including the Conrads' property — to private owners, did not give the owners the right to block public use of the tidelands. As a result of the ruling, County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel has reduced the assessed valuation of the affected parcels by $1.2 million, Maloney noted.

The Conrad parcel is the first case of development being thwarted by the court ruling, but others are expected to arise soon, Maloney said.

Baar and Arrigoni declared they believed it was "unfair" that the Conrads cannot now develop property they could have used freely before the Marks-Whitney ruling. Mrs. Conrad's attorney, Robert E. Treuhaft of Oakland, stressed that the applicant had received variance approval from the Army Corps of Engineers and every county official below the full planning commission level. Denial of the variance, he argued, would be condemning Mrs. Conrad's land without compensation.

Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin agreed.

Opposing the variance were Robert Gregory of 68 Wharf Road, Barbara Boxer, supervisorial candidate, Merrit A. Robinson, planning commissioner, and Harold E. Gregg of Marin Conservation League.

Gregory, speaking so softly the audience complained he could not be heard, charged that the Conrad plans to build with "zero setback" would create a "Chinese wall" on the lagoon side of the road and block the view of the Kent Island bird refuge.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

BUDGET — By a 3-0 vote adopted a resolution adopting the budget, after bickering between Irate Taxpayers' spokesman Winifred Frederick and Maloney over whether it was the "final" budget or simply "the budget" as Maloney maintained. The 1972-73 total spending program will be $47.5 million.

ROAD — Approved trading four acres of Marin County right-of-way plus $500 for six acres of state land needed for road work near San Quentin Prison.

MARINA — Approved final plans for Alex Tellis's reconstruction of a marina offshore of the heliport, to relocate 11 houseboats, subject to sewer hookup with the Sausalito-Richardson Bay Sanitary District.

APPOINTMENTS — Reappointed Ernest Gray of Novato to the Marin County Human Rights Commission to represent the Fifth Supervisorial District. Other appointments in reorganizing the commission were postponed. Appointed San Rafael's Mayor C. Paul Bettini to the newly created Bay Area Sewage Services Agency board. Named Helen Brubaker of San Rafael, Mary T. Lapin of Sausalito, Leroy J. Syrop of Novato and Kenneth S. Davis of San Anselmo to the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

OPEN HOUSE — Heard County Administrator John F. Barrows announce that the newly complete Marin City fire station and sheriff's substation would have an open house from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

GRAND JURY — Instructed Barrows to obtain department heads' answers to pertinent comments in the recently released grand jury report.

HEALTH REPORT — Instructed Barrows to investigate why the County Comprehensive Health Planning Council could not publicly release its report because its language was "so confusing." Elizabeth Rowan of the California Hospital Commission called the Independent-Journal's June 23 article on the problem to the board's attention.

MORATORIUM — Refused a proposal by Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League that all development activity in the Bolinas Lagoon and Tomales Bay regions be delayed for at least six weeks pending completion of environmental impact studies now nearly completed. "This would take at least four votes," Maloney explained. Only three supervisors were present.

WHITE HOUSE — Agreed to maintain fishing and water access areas at White House Pool if the area is acquired by the State Wildlife Conservation Board. Under the proposal, improvements to the area such as paved parking lots and restrooms would be constructed by the state and maintained by the county. The board said however it did not want the area developed.

OPEN SPACE — Approved proposed duties and powers of the proposed countywide park district which will be considered tonight by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission. If the commission approves, the district will be subject to a vote of the people in November. Under the adopted duties and powers of the district, 90 per cent of all funds would be used for open space land acquisition.

Storage Building Permit Review Set

The Fairfax Planning Commission will meet in special session at 8 p.m. tomorrow to review the Fairfax School District's request for a permit to construct a storage building behind the district office at 58 Park Road.

The public hearing will be held in the firemen's social hall, according to Ernestine Healy, commission secretary.

Youth-O-Rama Starts Thursday In Mill Valley

A youth-o-rama featuring carnival rides and service club booths — will be sponsored by the Mill Valley Optimist Club tomorrow through Sunday on the carnival grounds on Lomita Street, behind the Red Cart Market in Mill Valley.

The annual fair will be open from 6 p.m. tomorrow and Friday and from noon on Saturday and Sunday.

The youth-o-rama serves as a major source of funds for the optimist club and the other participating service organizations.

REALTORS! July 1, 1972

To Marin County Board of Realtors:

You are aware of my efforts to have the authorities of the Town of Ross enforce the law providing for the removal of all unnecessary fire hazards. This they have refused to do.

You are also aware, I believe, of the many unnecessary fire hazards in the Winship Park area of Ross which have been reported to the authorities many times, - also the fact that east of Loma Linda Avenue there is no public road leading out of Winship Park, which means that in case of fire all persons east of Loma Linda Ave. will be trapped.

I believe that any realtor showing dwellings located east of Loma Linda Ave. should inform such prospective buyers of the dangerous fire hazard and the refusal of the Town of Ross authorities to order unnecessary fire hazards removed. Not to do so would violate the Full Disclosure Law.

I hope that you will agree with this thought. If you do not, I will make every effort to inform all real estate agents in Marin County through letter, and also with possible aid from the newspapers.

Sincerely,
C. J. Bradley

New Leader For Shoreline Trustees Named

Leroy R. Erickson of Valley Ford has been elected president of the Shoreline Unified School District board at the group's annual organizational meeting.

Erickson succeeded Robert E. Gallagher of Point Reyes Station.

N. Louise Passalacqua of Bodega Bay was elected vice president; Kenneth P. Kehoe of Inverness, clerk, and Roy A. Parks of Tomales, trustee representative.

The board, meeting Monday, hired two teachers for West Marin School — Ann Wigfield, sixth, seventh, and eighth grades, at $8,295 a year, and Dvid Kennen, fourth and fifth grades, at $9,204 a year.

Trustees also accepted the resignations of two custodians, James Baroni at Tomales Elementary School and John Field at Tomales High School.

HOME CANNERS can produce a variety of eating delights with nectarines. Nectarine currant can be put up in most any type of container. Other suggestions for canning nectarines are pickled nectarines and nectarine ginger chutney. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

CANNING IDEAS

The Personal Touch Is Now Applied

By PHYLLIS HANES
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

An all-round homemaker senses a feeling of real accomplishment after a canning session. Although the canned foods available in markets this day and age have never been matched before in both quality and quantity, many people still like to try their hand at a little personalized home canning.

For this reason, the canning most homemakers do today is not like what our mothers produced — quarts of snap beans and tomatoes, rows and rows of basic jelly and jam favorites.

Today we limit the canning to something a little different, an unusual recipe or pickle that isn't available in every home or on every supermarket shelf.

Because nectarines are now in season and plentiful, this is a good time to consider this fruit for some special canning recipes.

YOU CAN put up nectarine-currant conserve in practically any kind of container — drinking glasses, emptied pickle jars or what-have-you. However, if you plan to send some of it to friends as gifts, go out and splurge a bit on fancy jars.

It's an excellent blend of flavors in an attractive red spread for bread or toast.

For pickled nectarines, use jars with lids and screw bands to form a vacuum seal. This combination of sliced fruit and spicy syrup makes a fine relish for meats.

Nectarine ginger chutney is a reputation maker. You'll earn new praise as a cook from lucky friends who receive a jar of this mixture of nectarines, fresh ginger root, onion, chili pepper and raisins.

This chutney is good with all meat dishes. It's excellent, too, spooned over an omelet for lunch. Or stir some into cottage cheese and serve as a dressing for fresh-fruit salad or lettuce wedges.

NECTARINE-CURRANT CONSERVE

6 or 7 large fresh California nectarines
1½ cups stemmed fresh red currants
1 lemon
1 package (1¾ ounces) powdered fruit pectin
6½ cups sugar

Finely chop nectarines to make four cups. Place with currants in six-to eight-quart kettle. Slice half of lemon and cut into small pieces. Squeeze juice from remaining half. Add lemon pieces and juice to kettle. Mix pectin with fruits. Place over high heat and stir constantly until mixture boils hard.

Stir in sugar at once. Bring to a full rolling boil — a tumbling boil that cannot be stirred down — and boil one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

To seal without paraffin: Skim off foam. Ladle conserve at once into jars, filling to within one-eighth of an inch of the top. Place lids on jars. Screw bands on tightly. Invert a few seconds, then stand jars upright to cool. Shake gently after 30 minutes to prevent floating fruit

To seal with paraffin: Skim and stir alternately for five minutes. Ladle into glasses or jars filling to within one-half inch of top. Cover at once with one-eighth inch layer of melted paraffin. Cool, then cover glasses. Store in a cool place. Makes seven half pints or nine medium-size glasses.

PICKLED NECTARINES

2½ pounds fresh California nectarines
3 cugs sugar
1 cup cider or distilled white vinegar
½ cup water
2 sticks cinnamon, three inches each
2 teaspoons whole cloves

Slice nectarines. Combine all remaining ingredients in six- to eight-quart kettle. Bring to boil; boil 10 minutes. Add nectarines and bring to boil. Boil gently, stirring occasionally, seven or eight minutes or until nectarine slices are transparent.

Remove from heat; skim off foam and discard. Ladle pickled nectarines into jars, filling to within one-half inch of top. Seal with lids and screw bands. Makes three pints.

NECTARINE GINGER CHUTNEY

4 ounces ginger root or 2 to 3 tablespoons ground ginger
1½ cups water
Salt to taste
3½ pounds fresh California nectarines
3½ cups sugar
1¼ cups vinegar
¼ cup Worcestershire
2 medium cloves garlic, minced
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup lime juice
1½ tablespoons canned green chili pepper, chopped
1 cup golden or dark seedless raisins

Pare and coarsely grate or finely chop ginger; cover with water in kettle and add two tablespoons salt and cook at simmer until almost tender, about 20 minutes. (Or use ground ginger.)

Slice nectarines into one-quarter-inch slices. Drain ginger, reserving one-quarter cup liquid. (Use one-quarter cup water with ground ginger.) Mix this liquid with the sugar, two teaspoons salt, vinegar, Worcestershire, and garlic. Bring all this to a boil. Add nectarines, cooked ginger root, onion, lime juice, chopped chili, and raisins and cook over medium-low heat to desired thickness, about one and a half hours.

Chutney thickens when cold. Pour into sterilized half-pint glasses, to three-quarter-inch of the top. Melt paraffin over hot water and pour over chutney to seal. Makes eight half pints.

Spanish Ideas For Pot Roast

Take two ideas borrowed from Spain, add a 20th Century cooking method and combine with a lower cost cut of meat. The end result is pot roast, Aragon style, an answer to inflated household budget problems.

This recipe calls for a rump of beef, but any of the less expensive cuts may be used.

The Spanish influence stems from adding some chocolate to the gravy just before serving and cooking in Spanish olive oil, which has a unique flavor that develops and blends all other flavors during cooking.

A pressure cooker is used to speed cooking time. Instead of three hours of simmering on top of the stove, this pot roast is finished in 35 minutes!

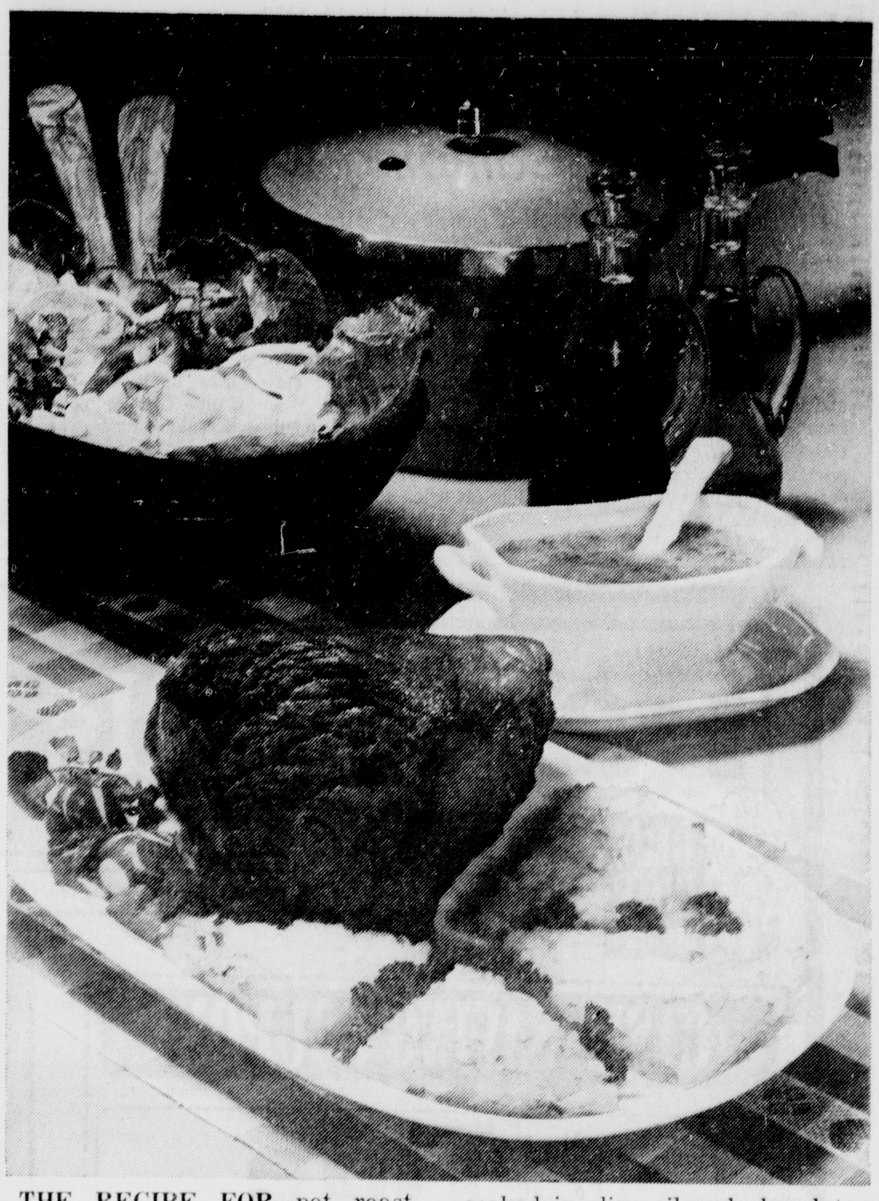

You can't eliminate cooking in the summer but you can make it more convenient in a pressure cooker, and more flavorful with Spanish olive oil.

POT ROAST, ARAGON STYLE

2 tablespoons flour
1 tableupoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 rump of beef, about 4 pounds*
¼ cup Spanish olive oil
4 onions, sliced
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon catsup
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
½ square unsweetened chocolate

*Or use rump of veal, bottom round of beef, or chuck roast.

Mix flour, one tablespoon salt and the pepper; use to coat meat. Heat four-quart pressure cooker. Add oil; then brown meat thoroughly in oil. Stir in onions, parsley, vinegar, catsup, one teaspoon salt, and the water. Close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 35 minutes. Let pressure drop of its own accord, about 15 minutes. Remove pot roast to serving platter. Add chocolate to drippings; stir until melted. Thicken, if desired, using about two tablespoons flour mixed with one-fourth cup water. Serve gravy over meat. Makes six to eight servings.

THE RECIPE FOR pot roast Aragon style comes from the Aragon region of Spain and is typically Spanish because it is cooked in olive oil and chocolate is added to the gravy. It can be cooked in a pressure cooker for a cool, quick, hearty summer meal.

Try Marin Lemons For Ice Cream

With plenty of lemons ripening on Marin County trees, try making this refreshing lemon ice cream in your refrigerator freezer section.

FRESH LEMON ICE CREAM

2 cups half & half (or heavy cream)
1 cup sugar
1 to 2 tablespoons fresh grated lemon peel
⅓ cup fresh squeezed lemon juice

In large bowl, stir together cream and sugar until sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Mix in lemon peel and juice. Pour into ice cube tray, 8" square pan, or directly into sherbet dishes. Freeze several hours until firm. Makes about one and one-half pints. Garnish with lemon cartwheel twist by cutting cartwheel just to center and twisting.

Try serving ice cream in lemon boats for a spectacular surprise. Cut lemons in half lengthwise. Remove juice, and use in recipe; scrape "clean" with spoon. Edge may be left plain or notched with kitchen shears or paring knife. Boats may be filled with ice cream and frozen until ready to serve.

Process Cheese

Process cheese consists of one or more natural cheeses melted, pasteurized and blended with an emulsifying agent. Heating stops the ripening so the flavor and texture of process cheese remain uniform.

Watching The Cholesterol? Some Ideas For Uses Of Egg Whites

Eggs start off the day for millions of Americans at breakfast. They find their way into sandwiches and salads at lunch, turn up for dinner in a meat loaf and appear in the piece of cake later on.

Eggs have been around since chickens and are an American favorite. In moderation, they help provide a nutritionally balanced died, according to Dan Reuter, director of the Marin County Heart Association. But egg yolks contain more cholesterol than any other food. Too much cholesterol can speed the development of atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, the underlying cause of heart attack and stroke. And so the Marin County Heart Association advises that individuals limit themselves to three whole eggs a week.

Does following a low cholesterol diet mean that the status of the egg is declining? Definitely not, said Reuter because egg whites are a good source of protein and they are many tasty recipes calling for egg whites only. Yellow food coloring is a good substitute for the yolk.

You can actually make scrambled eggs, French toast and omelets -- and not use the egg yolk.

Here are a few recipes.

NEVER FAIL MAYONNAISE (1 cup)

½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
dash of red pepper
1 egg white
1 cup vegetable oil
4½ teaspoons vinegar

In mixer bowl combine sugar, dry mustard, salt and red pepper. Add egg white and beat well with rotary beater. Beating constantly, slowly add half the oil. Continue beating while adding one and one-half teaspoons vinegar, then the remaining oil, a little at a time, and finally the remaining three teaspoons vinegar.

To prepare in blender: Place sugar, dry mustard, salt, red pepper and egg white in blender. Cover. Blend about two seconds. With each of the following additions, briefly turn blender off and on:

8 tablespoons vegetable oil, 2 tablespoons at a time
1½ teaspoons vinegar
6 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons at a time
3 teaspoons vinegar
2 tablespoons oil

If necessary, stir in last portion of oil with long-handled rubber spatula.

CANTONESE OMELET (2 servings)

5 egg whites
1 teaspoon vegetable oil
1 three ounce can mushrooms sliced, well drained and dried
1 scallion, minced
¼ teaspoon soy souce dash of monosodium glutamate
dash of salt
yellow food coloring

Spread oil in heavy skillet or teflon pan. Beat egg whites and fold in remaining ingredients. Follow standard procedure for omelet preparalion.

INSTANT SCRAMBLED EGG WHITES (1 serving)

2 egg whites
1 tablespoon instant flaked mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons skim milk

Beat egg whites. Fold in remaining ingredients. Mix well. Using a teflon skillet, following standard procedure for preparation of scrambled eggs.

Variations: Add either chopped tomato, chopped onion, chives, or curry powder.

FRENCH TOAST (3 Servings)

1 egg white
¼ cup skim milk
3 slices day old bread
1 drop of yellow food coloring
dash of salt
dash of cinnamon
dash of nutmeg

Whip egg white. Add milk, seasonings and food coloring. Dip bread slices in the mixture, turning to coat each side. In a teflon skillet, without fat, brown the dipped bread on each side, and serve immediately.

Sausage Care

For safe picnicing and camping, remember to refrigerate all sausage except for dry sausage (salami) which may be kept whole indefinitely in a cool place. Once the casing is opened, however, refrigerate dry sausage also, recommend food technologists from Union Carbide.

Pineapple Pie Can Be Fancy Treat

Pineapple has always been one of the most traveled of tropical fruits. But now with very rapid transit, it comes to us even fresher and sweeter, for it can be more nearly ripe when shipped.

Fresh fineapple makes excellent pies. Every good cook's file should include a recipe for fresh pineapple pie.

FRESH PINEAPPLE PIE

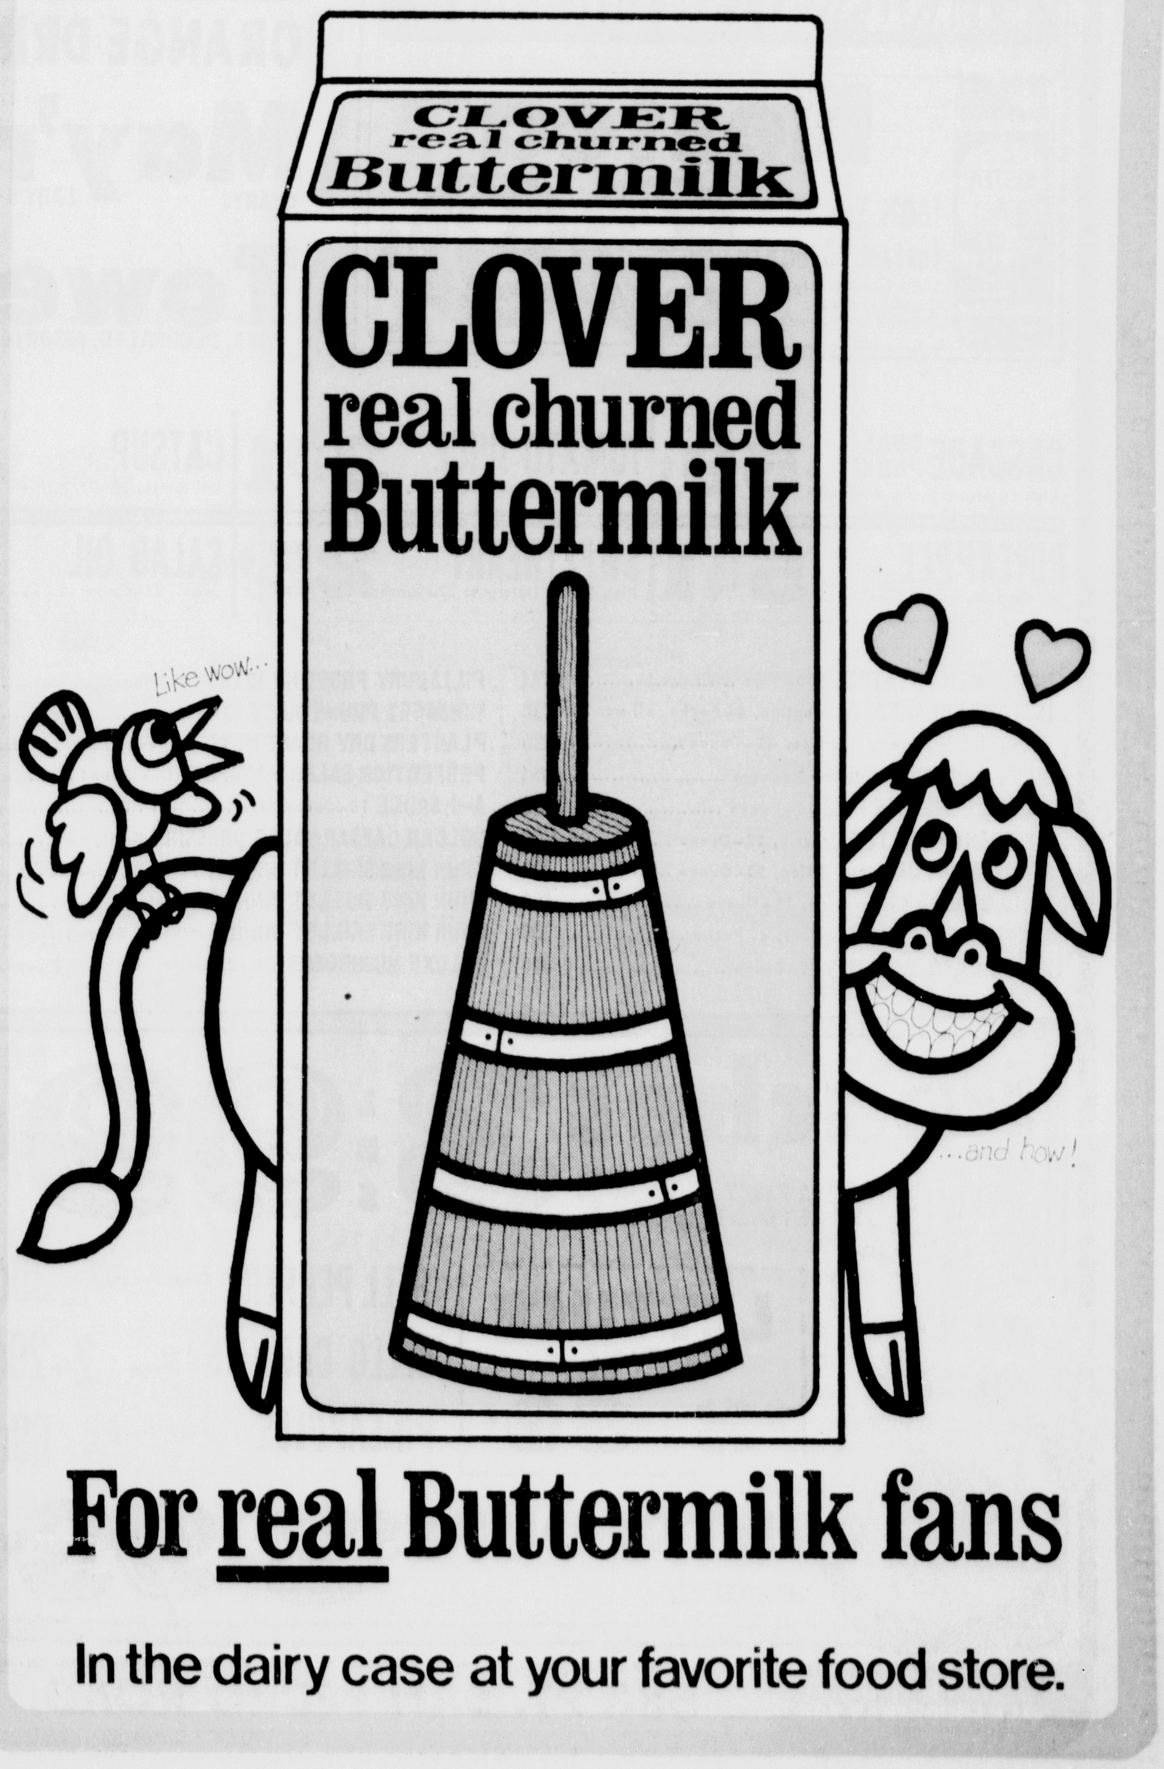

1 recipe double crust pastry for (9-inch) pie
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup water
¼ cup lemon juice
1 medium pineapple, pared and diced (about 3½ cups)
Milk
Sugar

Mix together sugar, corn starch and salt in two-quart saucepan. Stir in water, lemon juice and pineapple. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, comes to a boil and boils two minutes. Cool to room temperature.

Line the bottom of a nine-inch pie pan with one-half of the pastry. Turn pineapple mixture into pastry lined pan. Roll out top crust, cut slits to allow for escape of steam and lay over filling. Seal and flute edge. Brush with milk; sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a 425 degrees (hot) oven 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

Mild Sausage

Bologna is a mildly seasoned sausage made of finely ground pork and beef. The meat is packed into casings and smoked. There are several varieties of bologna including all-beef bologna and Lebanon bologna which originated in Lebanon, Pa., and is known for its long, slow smoking.

Some Easy To Prepare Recipes For Those Camping Out Trips

It's camp out time. Whether for a weekend or a week, a fishing trip or a family vacation, meals for campers can be fresh fish near a mountain stream or complete meals of canned goods.

If you're really roughing it and fresh meat and produce aren't available, you'll appreciate a friendly campfire and a selection of quick and easy casseroles which can be heated in disposable containers.

Make a master "canned" menu plan as part of the preparation for your trip. Pack everything needed for each meal in individual paper bags. Let the children choose dinner from your "brown-bag" assortment. For a starter, here are four "canned casserole" recipes.

As the casseroles grill to bubbly doneness, remove the labels and lids from your canned vegetable favorites and heat them over the fire. Drain off the liquid and top with a pat of butter.

Chop suey casserole and canned golden whole kernel corn with sweet peppers will be sure-fire family favorites for your next camp out!

To finish your "camping capers with cans" add canned fruits or puddings and your fireside dinner will be complete!

BEAN BONANZA CASSEROLE

1 -16-oz. can baked beans
1 15-oz. can kidney beans, drained
1 16-oz. can diagonal-cut green beans, drained
½ cup chili sauce
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 12-oz. can luncheon meat
Brown sugar

Combine baked beans, kidney beans, green beans, chili sauce, mustard and instant onion in a 9x9x1¾-inch disposable aluminum cake pan. Cut luncheon meat into six to eight slices and place over meat mixture; sprinkle with brown sugar. Cover pan with heavy duty aluminum foil; poke several holes in foil to allow steam to escape. Place on grill over hot coals for 25 to 35 minutes. Serves six.

SUNNY SIDE UP CASSEROLE

1 25-oz. can corned beef hash
1 12-oz. can vacuum-pack golden whole kernel corn, drained
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup chili cause
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon instant minced onion
5 to 6 eggs

Combine corned beef hash, corn, salt and pepper in a 9x9x1¾-inch disposable aluminum cake pan. Combine chili sauce, mustard and onion; spread over hash mixture. Make five to six depressions in hash mixture and break an egg into each. Cover pan with heavy duty aluminum foil; poke several holes in foil to allow steam to escape. Place on grill over hot coals for 25 to 35 minutes or until eggs are cooked to desired doneness. Serves five to six.

CHOP SUEY CASSEROLE

1 10½-oz. can condensed cream of chicken soup
1 10½-oz. can condensed chicken with rice soup
1 2½-oz. jar sliced mushrooms, drained
1 8½-oz. can sweet peas, drained
1 6½-oz. can tuna, drained and flaked
1 2-oz. jar sliced pimiento, drained
2 teaspoons soy sauce
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 3-oz. can chow mein noodles
½ cup salted cashews

Combine soups and mushrooms in a 9x9x1¾-inch disposable aluminum cake pan. Stir in peas, tuna, pimiento, soy sauce, pepper and half of chow mein noodles. Top with remaining noodles and cashews. Cover pan with heavy duty aluminum foil; poke several holes in foil to allow steam to escape. Place on grill over hot coals for 25 to 35 minutes. Serves six.

ENCHILADA CASSEROLE

1 12-oz. can vacuum-pack golden whole kernel corn with sweet peppers, drained
2 10½-oz. cans condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 14-oz. can beef enchiladas with chili gravy
1 5-oz. jar sharp process cheese spread
Corn or tortilla chips

Combine corn and soup in a 9x9x1¾-inch disposable aluminum cake pan. Remove parchment paper from enchiladas; place over soup mixture. Dot with cheese and sprinkle with chips. Cover pan with heavy duty aluminum foil; poke several holes in foil to allow steam to escape. Place on grill over hot coals for 25 to 30 minutes. Serves six.

Spicy Snack

For a spicier snack, spread slices of salami with a mixture of 3 ounces cream cheese, 2 tablespoons bleu cheese and 1 tablespoon milk, beaten together. Chill until firm and slice in wedges.

Men's Lib Movement Makes Effort To Mold New Image

By ANDREA CHAMBERS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The neo-Tarzan image of the American male is on its way out, if members of a new men's movement have their say.

Why, members of "men's lib" groups ask, must men be stalwart and aloof, smothering their emotional responses behind a tearless veneer and toiling endlessly to support Jane and the kids? Why must men go off hunting and fishing or to the football field, but never just "to talk"?

These questions are debated in "Brother: a forum for men against sexism," a male-liberation periodical published in Berkeley and in small men's groups known to be meeting in New York, Boston, San Francisco, Denver and Chicago.

Members of the Boston movement estimate that more than 300 men have joined groups in the area at one time or another.

ALTHOUGH INTEREST in the new lib movement comes from men of different ages and interests, interviews here show that most of the members are between 18 and 35, and many are graduate or undergraduate students. Those from the working world are more likely to be in small businesses or the arts than in high-powered corporate positions.

Many have wives or close friends involved with the women's-liberation movement.

The men's movement, unlike the women's, is first taking aim at emotional stereotypes. Political goals come later. As one Harvard student and member of a Cambridge men's group put it: "Cliched sex roles affect men, too. We're forced to always prove ourselves whether as bread winners or in sports. Always, we're competing against the next guy for a job, a date or a touchdown."

Last summer many of the Boston-area groups met together for the first time in workshops at an outdoor Men's Festival in Cambridge. A more formal gathering took place in June, 1970, in Chicago where a men's group "Men Against Cool" (MAC) demonstrated against the Playboy Club and owner Hugh Hefner as "an exploiter of the insecurities of men" as well as an "oppressor of women."

In both men's and women's movements there were numerous splinter groups. Consciousness-raising (as weekly male meetings are termed) is only part of the effort to retailor the male image.

For the members of a Cambridge men's group, one of the principal male issues is an equal sharing of child-care duties. To permit men as well as women to enjoy and benefit from the care of children, they formed a babysitting collective: 30 child-loving males who volunteered to allot one evening per week to free sitting.

"WE LISTED the number of the coordinator in the 'People's Yellow Pages' (a guide to counter-culture events and services in the Boston area)," explained Henry Norr, one of the male sitters, "and people just called whenever they needed help with their children." Poor coordination between the calls and the sitters, however, forced the experiment to break down after a year and a half. So far, nothing comparable has replaced it.

For some men, teaching in a day-care center is one way to spend more time with children, as witnessed by the growing number of men in this field.

"We feel it's very important to have male teachers," emphasizes the director of a Dorchester, Mass., factory-sponsored day-care center. "This creates more of a family environment.

And according to one Swedish psychologist, Per Olva Tiller, the continuous presence of men as well as women may be important for children, especially sons. Growing boys, he says, may become uncertain in a one-sided, mother-dominated home environment.

Children are central to another segment of the men's movement — that concerned with the legal fights of men in cases of illegitimate children, divorce, and alimony. And men have already seen some breakthroughs.

Recently the U.S. Supreme Court was confronted with a case of alleged discrimination against a man: an unwed father's claim that the law favored unwed mothers. The appeal, by a Chicago man, sought custody of his three illegitimate children who had become wards of the state after their mother's passing.

This, claimed the father, was a violation of his constitutional right to equal protection under the laws. The court agreed and ruled in his favor.

In another case, Dr. Paul E. Hanson, a Baltimore college professor, is challenging the constitutionality of the Maryland law that forces the husband to pay his former wife's attorney fees in their divorce suit. Dr. Hanson placed a newspaper ad announcing the formation of a "male lib" group to fight such inequities.

In response, he received a flood of applicants, including current wives of divorced men who are paying heavy alimoney to former spouses. One applicant was a Baltimore businessman who spends his nights and weekends in civil jail for refusal to pay alimony.

CALIFORNIA'S NO-FAULT law has helped relieve the alimony burden, especially for those struggling to support two households. Under the 1970 state law, couples must attest to "irreconcilable differences" and appear before a judge. No longer must the divorce be based on either spouse's statement of guilt.

Property is divided equally and alimony determined by duration of the marriage and the wife's ability to support herself without interfering with the best interests of the children.

New York has a similar no-fault divorce provision.

Massachusetts, however, recently turned down 10 divorce-reform bills. Says one Boston man who has recently gone through a bitter divorce, "You see, it's considered the gentlemanly gesture for the man to accept the blame. This hollow nobility and false image of strength is just what we're trying to get away from."

There are also signs of change in other areas. Recently, men have won equal job rights as airline stewards and as nurses. One male restaurant worker even successfully sued for the right to grow his hair to his shoulders — so long as he is willing to wear a hairnet required of female employees.

Unlike the women's movement, the men's has no Gloria Steinems, Betty Friedans or Germaine Greers. The one exception is Warren Farrell. As coordinator of the NOW (National Organization for Women) Task Force on the Masculine Mystique, Farrell travels around the country lecturing on men's liberation.

Speaking at local civic clubs and men's luncheons, he fields a host of questions "Male liberation? What's that?" . . . "Do you mean men don't work?" . . .

An often-repeated question is "How did it start?" A handful of men and women at a Boston area university course on "Male Role and Personality" offered some answers at a recent class meeting.

The back-to-the-earth movement has changed some men's ideas about work, according to one student. "Why accept a hard-driving, competitive job in the city when there are more natural, more enjoyable ways to earn a living?" he questioned as others nodded in agreement.

THE VIETNAM war is another factor, according to a graduate student. He explained that the war has provoked men to refuse the draft. Today, in some circles, the draft evader is a hero, while others still brand him unmanly. The split, said the student, has made some young men ponder and discuss the meaning of masculinity.

The men at the seminar meeting agreed that a relationship with a woman in the women's movement often prompts their initial interest. Often, it's simply a desire to understand a woman's feelings of sex discrimination that propel a man into a men's-liberation group.

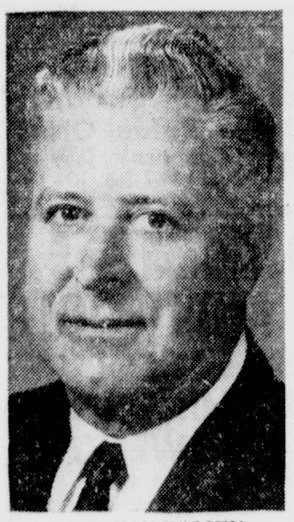

Most American men, meanwhile, remain as far from the men's as they are from the women's movement. But the new call for emancipation is at least one voice in favor of a new breed of male.

Singles Club Sets Dinner In Petaluma

The Social-Lites Singles Club of Sonoma and Marin counties will have an installation dinner tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Sonoma Joe's restaurant in Petaluma.

M. E. Van Hoosen of Novato has been elected to an eighth term as president of the singles group. Other officers are Thelma Rovetti, Santa Rosa, vice president; Nell Garland, Santa Rosa, second vice president and publicity chairman; Eleanore Waldren, Cotati, third vice president and membership chairman; Gloria Hansen, Novato, secretary and June Schultz, Santa Rosa, treasurer.

Van Hoosen said 18 couples who were members of the club have married and formed an alumni group.

Be Sure Swimming Is Adequately Fenced

Be sure that swimming pools are adequately fenced or covered to keep younger children from danger when adults or competent older children are not present.

Never let children use the pool without adult supervision, advises the California Medical Association.

Use Bubble Gum

NEW YORK (UPI)—If you're on a picnic or a hike and otherwise out of reach of a dentist and a filling comes out this summer, fill the hole with bubble gum. Dentists may not agree, but an out-door type at the Newsfeature Department of United Press International claims the technique has helped him a few times during dental emergencies. Hold gum in place with your tongue, applying a little pressure now and then.

Pearl Industry Opens Drive

That there is a natural affinity between brides and cultured pearls has long been a recognized fact according to couture specialists and editors of the nation's top bridal magazines.

For several years the trend toward more informal weddings has been growing in this country, they say. Now, girls are going back to churches for formal ceremonies, with all the trimmings.

The cultured pearl industry has launched a campaign to reach the more than 2,300,000 American girls who will marry this year. A major portion of the program began late last fall, when designers of wedding dresses showed their spring-summer collections to buyers and press. Cultured pearl industry representiatives worked with bridal manufacturers in advance of these showings, arranging for cultured pearl necklaces and earrings to be shown with the gowns.

FRIENDS AND FAMILY members honored Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bunds on their recent golden wedding anniversary. Bunds, a science teacher, began his teaching career in Marin county in 1921.

Couple Observes 50th Anniversary

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bunds of San Rafael was celebrated recently at a gathering of 25 family members and friends in Sutter Creek.

Their daughter, Mrs. Edward A. Swift of Sutter Creek was the hostess and was assisted by their son, Clifford Bunds Jr. of Novato, and their other daughter, Mrs. Betty Bunds Lockwood of San Rafael.

The couple was married June 6, 1922, at Santa Clara. Mrs. Bunds is the former Sarah Jenkins of Santa Clara. Her husband began his teaching career in Marin County at the Hitchcock Military Academy, which later became the Tamalpais School for Boys in San Rafael, now no longer in existence. A science teacher, Bunds later taught at both Redwood and Sir Francis Drake high schools until his retirement six years ago.

The teacher is a Stanford graduate, and his wife attended San Jose State College before their marriage.

"The days are never long enough," Mrs. Bunds says of their busy retirement years. Their family includes seven grandchildren. They enjoy peaceful excursions to the family ranch near Mount Hamilton, and take their trailer on trips to the Northwest. They plan a fishing trip to Idaho later this summer. Mrs. Bunds is an enthusiastic rock gardener.

Carcione Will Address Wives

Wives of officers of the Sixth Western Air Force Reserve Region at Hamilton Air Force Base will be hostesses at the Officer's Club at the Hi and Bye coffee at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Chairman is Mrs. Rollin Moore, wife of Maj. Gen. Moore, commander of the WAFER at Hamilton.

Speaker will be Joe Carcione, "Greengrocer" of the San Francisco Chronicle and radio station KCBS, who will present a program on how to choose fruits and vegetables.

Artist New Women Club President

MRS. ROLAND WALLEM
Sonoma club president

Mrs. Irma Wallem, an artist and art gallery owner, has been installed as the new president of the Sonoma Valley Woman's Club. Mrs. Wallem has been a member of the club for four years and has held the offices of first vice-president and arts and crafts chairman.

The woman's club, said Mrs. Wallem, "serves the community in educational, philanthropic and artistic endeavors." All interested women in the community may join.

Plans for the coming year focus on additions to the club's activities with new sections for creative writing, crafts, music and drama. Also included will be sections for gardening and bridge.

She and her husband, Roland, have been residents of Sonoma for 12 years. Mrs. Wallem also is active in the Sonoma Valley Business and Professional Woman's Club and the Sonoma Valley Art Center.

A native of Everett, Wash., Mrs. Wallem attended the Chicago Art Institute, San Francisco State and Fresno State Colleges. She also is a former special education teacher. Mrs. Wallem has two married daughters, Mrs. Marcia Smith of La Junta, Colo., and Mrs. Vickie Smith of Reedley.

Officers serving with Mrs. Wallem will be Mmes. Alfred Springer, first vice president; Albert J. Chiaroni, second vice president, Gerald E. Foster, treasurer; George S. Jones, secretary; Walter Carter, corresponding secretary; and H.M. Buley, parliamentarian.

Betrothal Of Miss Morand Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Morand of Tiburon have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Ellen Morand, to Robert Julian Meier of Mill Valley.

A Sept. 16 wedding is planned.

Nance is a graduate of Redwood High School and was formerly employed with Mist Air, Inc., in San Rafael. She is the sister of Paul Morand of Los Angeles and Michael, Michelle and Denise Morand of Tiburon.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Erika Meier, brother of Patricia Meier and grandson of Mme. Bella Resek, all of Mill Valley.

He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and has attended the College of Marin and San Francisco State College. He is employed by Surgical Plastic Products in San Francisco.

Robert Damon, Nancy Sparks Are Married

Nancy Angela Sparks became the bride of Robert Major Damon in a ceremony at St. Thomas Catholic Church in Oroville on June 24.

Nancy, who is the daughter of Mrs. Celeste Sparks of San Anselmo and the late Colin A. Sparks, was attended by Joan Crosson of Redwood City as maid of honor.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Donna Damon of Oroville and Beverly Preslik of Chico.

Michael Damon, the bridegroom's brother, served as best man, and the guests were seated by Jim Thompson and Steve Monetta of Oroville and Gilbert Stresser of Yuba City.

A reception was given at Lott Home Gardens in Oroville.

Nancy and Robert took a wedding trip to Banff and Lake Louise in Canada, and will live in Chico.

The bride is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and Chico State College and is an elementary school teacher in Hamilton City. She is the sister of Colin A. Sparks.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Yes, Midwest 'Square,' It Was Wise To Leave Communal Scene

DEAR HELEN:

While in California I met a man who is kind, considerate, loving, wonderful and 12 years older than me. He lives in a sort of commune with three other guys and two girls. Will is 32, the rest of them in their early 20s.

He has had a very rough life: orphaned at three, adopted at three, adopted by a mean aunt who hated him. He has spent a total of 10 years in prison for attempted rape and murder, also theft.

He paid his debt to society with five years in the Army, 30 months in Vietnam — and an honorable discharge.

We fell in love, but one thing blocks our marriage. He wanted me to live in the commune as a "member of the family," until he could afford an apartment. I thought I could do it so a week before our marriage I moved in as a test.

It was a nightmare, Helen. These people live very "free," take Sunshine (acid) —two of them are pushers; get drunk and high, swear with every breath, and sleep together any which way.

Starting the first night, Will spent almost no time with me — he was always "with the group." They wouldn't accept me and I couldn't accept them, so I left and moved back to my home state. Will was furious at first and accused me of hating his friends, being a snob, etc.

But now he's started writing and begging me to come back. "Have patience," he says, "until we can afford to leave the group." I'm afraid he never will. They're the only "family" he's got. I guess I'm just a midwest "square."

I still love him deeply. Should I give it a second try? — BEWILDERED

DEAR B.:

A midwest "square" and an ex-con swinger-doper have as little in common as Jane Fonda and John Wayne (no comparisons intended).

Consider this: your wonderful guy went to prison (at 17?) for crimes of violence; spent over half of his Army years in violent combat duty; now lives with drug-pushers where violence is just beneath the surface — and he likes his life! Which might leave him permanently "kind, considerate, and loving," but somehow I doubt it.

You made the right choice. Don't weaken! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A grade school teacher recently sent this to our local newspaper. It was written by one of her 10-year-old students and gives a revealing child's eye-view of the world:

MY DEFINITIONS FOR

MRS. DONALD JEFFRIES
23-year member

Ross Woman Sunny Hills President

Mrs. Donald Jeffries of Ross brings to her new duties as president of the board of directors of Sunny Hills a background of 23 years of service to the organization.

Mrs. Jeffries has served on the board since 1949, and is a former secretary and treasurer. She was president of the Sunny Hills Guilds, composed of volunteer groups, and was finance chairman for the Bargain Box when it was first organized.

The new president is enthusiastic about the new therapeutic activities center which will open in September at Sunny Hills, a residential treatment center in San Anselmo for youths from the Bay Area who have trouble adjusting to family and community life.

Assisting with the new center, where craft skills will be taught, are the direct service volunteers, who share their skills with Sunny Hills youngsters. Tutorial help also is given by direct service volunteers.

Long active in Bay area community affairs, Mrs. Jeffries was on the board of the former Community Chest of San Francisco (now the United Bay Area Crusade), the League of Women Voters, the Camp Fire Girls, and the Stanford Convalescent Auxiliary.

Because of her long association with Sunny Hills, Mrs. Jeffries recalls the days when Sunny Hills volunteers were driven to the institution in limousines delivering goodies in the tradition of charity of an earlier time. Now she finds board members increasingly involved and informed about the treatment center program, and knowledgeable about working with foundations and governmental agencies.

Jane Jeffries is the wife of Donald Jeffries, who was vice president of the Powell-River Newsprint Co., before his retirement. They have two children, Schuyler Jeffries of Santa Rosa and Sue Brownell of Spokane, Wash., and four grandchildren.

Also on the incoming board are Mrs. Samuel Crowell, San Rafael, first vice president; Rev. Charles C. Griffin, San Rafael, second vice president; Mrs. James Clark, Belvedere, third vice president; Mrs. Richard Tully, Ross, secretary, and Mrs. John McGee, San Anselmo, treasurer.

A New Twist

THE SMART SHOPPER

All Could Reap On Closing Costs

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON —All home buyers may benefit eventually from the proposed regulations and maximum rates announced last week by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on real estate closing costs.

The proposals actually apply only to six metropolitan areas — Cleveland, Newark, Seattle, San Francisco, St. Louis and Washington, D.C. — and relate only to mortgages backed by the Federal Housing Authority and Veterans Administration.

But a HUD spokesman said similar regulations and maximums will probably be established for 75 to 100 other large areas within a year. And there may be an indirect effect on mortgage deals without government backing, which make the bulk of all real estate transactions.

The twin purpose of the HUD proposals is to set ceilings on rising settlement costs, especially where "excessive fees and charges are being collected," and to bar certain charges entirely.

THE MOVE comes in response to increasing public complaints to legislators and government agencies. Last November, Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis. released preliminary results of a staff study showing what he called excessive charges in many cases.

"Custom rather than reason underlies many of the title costs the home buyer must bear," he said. "Everyone seems to benefit from these 'customary' charges except the home buyer. Lawyers get forwarding fees, real estate agents get commissions, lenders get compensating balances and the home buyers get taken."

Proxmire concluded what many home buyers have suspected: that title insurance is required even when there is "absolutely no risk of loss to the lender."

Data uncovered by his staff indicated that title insurance firms paid out only 2.5 per cent of their gross income in actual losses in a recent 24-month period. Over 60 per cent of their gross profits went for personal expenses and commissions.

Separate surveys by HUD and VA confirmed the results of Proxmire's study. In many cases, closing costs came to more than buyers could pay so they had to cancel the deal.

PROXMIRE introduced legislation to require lenders to absorb title costs and prohibit kickbacks from title insurance companies to lawyers. Only the latter point remains in the Omnibus Housing Bill which passed the Senate. But a House committee is seeking to restore other provisions.

HUD's proposals set maximum fees for credit reports, field surveys, title examination, title insurance, closing fees and pest and fungus inspection certificates. Appraisal fees are already regulated. Maximums vary by areas.

In Washington, D.C., for example, the maximum charge would be $55 for a field survey, $90 for title examination ($130 for Maryland and Virginia); $50 for closing fee; $15 for pest report and $2 per $1,000 of title insurance for the lender, and $3 per $1,000 for owner's policy or $3 per $1,000 plus $10 for both. Fees for the other five areas are in the same general range.

It is estimated that these ceilings and the prohibition of kickbacks to lawyers from title insurance companies would cut closing costs in the area by 50 to 75 per cent. Any comments must be sent by July 31 to HUD Rules Docket Clerk, 451 Seventh St. SW., Washington, D.C., 20410.

Extension of such rules to nongovernment mortgages, however, depends on Congress. Action in the House on legislation similar to HUD proposals may be affected by the views expressed by interested consumers.

Take It Easy

CHICAGO (UPI)—When following summer's sun, take it easy—if you're concerned about your skin. Dermatologists recommend against boiling yourself the first time out. The best course: expose yourself gradually to the sun to avoid a painful sunburn. Light-skinned, blue-eyed persons and red heads ought to be especially careful.

Hay Fever Nearly Year Round Problem

Hay fever is one of the most common allergies, according to the California Medical Association. Seasonal hay fever, caused by pollens in the air is the most common type. Spring hay fever is caused by tree and grass pollens. Summer and fall hay fever is caused by grasses and weeds.

In some sections of California, pollen may be in the air nearly the whole year. Various eye or nose drops, sprays or oral medications, prescribed by a physician, may be useful in relieving the symptoms of hayfever.

MRS. WILLIAM REINER
San Rafael resident

U.C. School's First Woman Graduate

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Mrs. William Reiner of San Rafael is the first women to graduate from the Institute of Traffic and Transportation at the University of California.

Known professionally as Ethlyn Ann Hansen, she is a senior highway engineer in District Four of the state Division of Highways and received a master of science degree from U.C. last month.

A native of Salt Lake City, Mrs. Reiner joined the Division of Highways in 1951 after graduation from the University of Utah with a degree in civil engineering.

She then advanced upward until being named to her present position. She is responsibile for uniformity and quality in design practices for all state highways within the nine Bay Area counties.

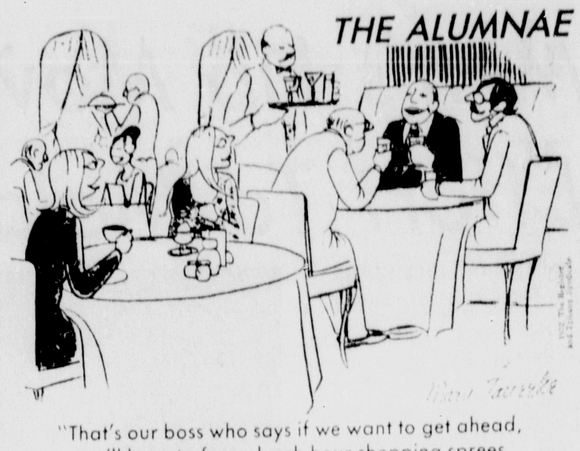

As a gradute student Mrs. Reiner made extensive studies in the environmental, economical and social consideration of transportation planning. She developed a series of environmental classes for district highway staff designed to increase awareness of ecological facts in relation to the professions.

Mrs. Reiner is the mother of Jenifer Ann, age 2. She is a member of the women's Architectural League, Northern California Chapter of the American Institute of Architecture; the Institute of Traffic Engineers; National Society of Professional Engineers; Professional Engineers in California Government; and the Society of Women Engineers.

Barbecue with RAGU'

Old World Style Spaghetti Sauce

BEEF WITH RICE • Fry sliced onion, strips of green pepper and ground beef. Add one cup of Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce, one cup cooked rice and stir until thoroughly heated.

GREEN BEANS ITALIANO • Parboil beans in salted water. Drain. In fry pan saute chopped onion in oil. Add the green beans and Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce. Simmer until beans are tender. Great with steak!

Whenever the recipe calls for tomatoes or tomato sauce, substitute Ragu' Spaghetti Sauce. It's great.

Publication Budgets Show Funding Hikes

Publication budgets for 1972-73 reflecting increased state funds were approved last night by the Petaluma Board of Education.

Schools Supt. Lesley H. Meyer said the high school district budget totaled $6,987,284, reflecting an increase of $242,299 over the tentative budget and $1,125,540 over last year's budget of $5,871,744.

The district expects 500 students more than last year.

The elementary district budget totaled $2,721,680, showing an increase of $106,096 over the tentative budget and $102,674 over last year's budget of $2,619,006.

Meyer said the district will receive an additional $16.25 per student from the state next year.

The board set a special meeting for Aug. 1 at 8 p.m. to meet with teachers and teachers' groups to discuss how the extra funds will be spent. Final hearings on the budgets will be held Aug. 8 at 8 p.m.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

ELECTION — Elected Arthur L. Laffranchi and board president; Daniel Plumley, clerk; and Robert Stimson as representative to the Sonoma County Committee on School District Organization.

BOUNDARIES — Endorsed a plan to remove the northern and uninhabited section of Rohnert Park from the Bellevue School District and place it in the Petaluma High School District and Cotati School District. The change would place the entire City of Rohnert Park within the same school districts.

ADVISERS — Appointed five persons to the Northern Area Advisory Committee. They are Elmer Hamann, Thomas R. Goff, Edward Littleton, Mrs. Norman Richtik and Grace Gilbert.

Teachers — Accepted resignations from teachers Stephen Kutchins and Carleen Madsen and hired Nancy Dole, part-time, $4,243; Carol Geyer, part-time, $4,875; Cheryl Gould, $8,307; Edgar Howard, $8,307; Johnnie Walker, $9,787; and Rosemary Worth, $7,800; Catherine Banks, $7,800; Mark Reischling, $8,992; and Jerrene Rogers, $8,595.

Commission Deadlocks On Use Permit

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night denied a use permit for a 170-lot, single-family subdivision at McNear and Peacock Drives in a 3-3 deadlock vote.

The action came after a three-hour debate on the development of the 72-acre bowl shaped parcel, according to Herbert G. Hotchner, planning director.

"Although the bulk of the commission and audience agreed that single family use was appropriate, commissioners deadlocked on approval at this time," he said.

The use permit — the first to be denied under the city's building moratorium — was requested by American Savings and Loan Association, owner of the land.

Representatives of the Save San Pedro Hills and Shoreline group and the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association expressed concern with the project's architectural configuration and landscaping.

"The Save San Pedro group requested a model of the project," and raised the possibility of interschool busing if the use permit was approved, Hotchner said.

Evelyn Wood and Linda Showers, both of Marino Court, presented the commission with a petition signed by 200 homeowners urging preservation of the land in its natural state, he said.

The firm was given 60 days in which to submit a tentative map for the project pending possible appeal to the city council on the permit denial, Hotchner said.

Commission chairman Joseph J. Garbarino was absent from the meeting.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

APARTMENTS — Continued until July 25 consideration of a use permit request by the McCarthy Co. of Northern California for 168 apartment units and 124 townhouse units on portions of a 54-acre site southeast of the Marin County Civic Center. Las Gallinas Valley and Terra Linda property owners have opposed the proposal.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a two-lot subdivision requested by owner Carolyn C. Regalia for a parcel at 111 Clark Street.

AUTO SHOP — Approved a use permit for an auto repair and used car sales shop at 181 Paul Drive. Owner Paul Allsmen was told that he could sell used cars at the shop only if all vehicles were kept inside the existing building.

SCHOOL — Continued until July 25 an application by the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael for an elementary school for 50 students at its Sunday school building at 1510 Fifth Avenue.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to July 18 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss use permit procedures.

UNCLAIMED — Introduced an ordinance stating that unclaimed property, except bicycles, found or recovered by the police department or any other department, shall be kept four months, then sold at public auction. Bicycles will be kept three months.

TOWING — Passed a resolution establishing towing and storage fees for autos towed away in the city.

Pair Is Arraigned On Heroin Dealing Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — John Henry Wade, 30, and his wife Marie, suspected of supplying heroin for Marin Distribution, were arraigned today in U.S. District Court on charges of possessing the narcotic with intent to distribute it.

They are to enter pleas July 24.

A heroin sale charge against one of Wade's younger brothers, James Wade, 20, of San Rafael, was dismissed last month in district court when the prosecutor was not prepared to proceed with a preliminary hearing. The youth may be indicted later, however.

The charges stem from the arrest June 6 by federal and Marin agents of James Wade in connection with a $5,400 heroin sale near the Cow Palace. The agents, after arresting James Wade, raided the Daly City home of his brother John and his wife and seized five ounces of suspected high grade heroin.

Agents said the older brother, who has an extensive criminal record, was supplying James and another brother, Jerry Ray Wade, 22, of Santa Venetia with heroin which was sold in Marin.

Jerry Wade was sentenced to state prison last month from Marin Superior Court in connection with heroin and bad check cases.

Ayers Bound Over On Fraudulent Check Charge

Thomas Wade Ayers, 20, of Lagunitas, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a charge of writing a bad check in order to obtain a color television set. He is to appear Monday.

Ayers is charged with writing a $346 check at the Music Shoppe in San Rafael May 20 without sufficient funds in his account.

Market Theft Case To Superior Court

A Mendocino County man was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing a San Rafael grocery clerk. He is to appear July 26.

Francis James Mayer, 24, of Talmage, was arrested July 2 in Richmond following a chase by San Rafael police.

Officers said a man armed with a .22-caliber revolver held up the Short Stop Market at 141 Bellam Boulevard and made off with cash and two packages of cigarettes.

Police said they found a pistol, a sack containing $81 and a package of cigarettes beneath the front seat of Mayer's car.

Festival's '12th Night' At Sonoma State College

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will present "Twelfth Night" at Sonoma State College tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

The cast of 40 will perform in full costume in the quadrangle of Stevenson Hall. Balconies, staircases and steps of Stevenson Hall will be used in the performance.

Sentence Of Five Years To Life In Slaying Case

Russell Gilbert Wonnacott, who claimed he was insane when he killed the boy friend of his estranged wife, was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to five years to life in state prison.

Judge Henry J. Broderick also ordered the 48-year-old Eureka resident to pay $2,500 for his defense during the criminal and sanity trials.

A jury found Wonnacott guilty of second degree murder after 12 hours of deliberation in May and a second jury found him sane last month.

Wonnacott killed Charles P. Ely, 37, last Nov. 13 after taking his wife, children and the victim to dinner at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

All then went to a room at the motel and Wonnacott produced a gun from a desk drawer and fired six shots into Ely, according to police.

The defense maintained during the three-week trial that Wonnacott was not sane enough to understand the charges against him and claimed during the sanity hearing he was not sane when the crime was committed.

Burglary, Grand Theft Charge Against Kelly

A Mill Valley man arrested inside a closed San Rafael jewelry store was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and grand theft.

William Jule Kelly, 26, is to appear July 26 in superior court.

San Rafael police said they found Kelly hiding inside the Herbert and Rohrer jewelry store at 1219 Fourth Street June 26 when they answered a burglar alarm.

The store's front door had been shattered and jewelry cases were strewn about, police said. Store employees said a $450 watch was taken.

Parking Lot Plan Passes

A proposal to convert Sausalito's municipal parking lots 3 and 4 to attendant-operated lots and remove the meters from both facilities was approved last night by the city council, City Clerk Miriam K. Ansell reported.

The plan, by City Mgr. Albert St. yr. will cost the city $27,153 annually, compared to $13,593 for meter operation.

St. Cyr told the council the change would raise annual revenue derived from the lots by $28,707, from the current $170,208 to $186,172.

Cost for parking will be 75 cents per hour.

Rental spaces in lot 4 will not be affected.

The Sausalito City Council also:

DRAPES — Ordered drapes for city hall at a cost of $260.

LANDMARKS — Asked the city's landmarks committee to prepare, within six months, a list of landmarks which the city should preserve.

Raise Granted For School Personnel

The San Rafael Board of Education last night approved, with little discussion, 3.2 per cent salary increases for teachers, administrative personnel and classified employees in the elementary and high school districts.

The salary scale increase will cost the districts about $240,000, according to Dr. John F. Plank, district superintendent.

The raises were included in the publication budgets adopted last night by the board. The elementary proposed spending program is $5.6 million and the high school district is $6 million.

In other action, the board approved a second alternative high school for the district, at an estimated cost of $32,742 for the school year.

A group of about 20 students from Terra Linda High School greeted the approval with enthusiasm. Board member Paul McMullen voted against the new program, however, saying he didn't think it possible for students to get as good an education in a school with only two teachers as in the traditional set-up.

San Rafael Board of Education also:

SCIENCE — Approved a science course for freshman which, in combination with a health education class, would fill high school graduation requirements.

APPRAISAL — Continued to the Aug. 2 meeting further discussion of a teacher evaluation system required by state law.

CRUISE — Approved the 1973 Terra Linda High School music cruise to Hawaii to be paid for by the students.

DENIAL — Turned down a request by teacher Eleanor Ellsberg for a second year leave extension.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Sharon Brandenburger, elementary resource teacher; Tom Dooley, San Rafael High School physical education teacher, Dwight and Evangeline Manning, elementary teachers, and Tim Thompson, high school instructional aide.

LEAVE — Granted a child care leave to Linda Wylie, physical education teacher, for 1972-73 school year.

Tiny Disk's Aim: Store All Words

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A one-inch computer memory disk may store all the words in the English language within 10 years.

John M. Harker, of the IBM research laboratory here, said present technology indicates a disk can be developed which would carry 15 to 30 million bits per inch, or 750,000 words.

School Board Discusses Stadium Improvements

The San Rafael Board of Education last night discussed tighter controls and improvements to the San Rafael High School football stadium to cut down brawling during games.

Supt. John F. Plank called the proposals for additional bleachers, fencing, lighting and hiring of more off-duty police during games an "outgrowth of concern for the safety of spectators."

"Let's quit pussyfooting around. We're talking about fighting and drinking," Board Pres. Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. said.

"For around $18,000, we can make the stadium a safer place to observe football games," Plank said. He suggested fencing and other controls to stop gate crashers and better controls and lighting in parking areas.

Additional seating for 450 persons was also proposed as was the hiring of about six off-duty policemen in uniform at each game.

"We haven't had any real vicious injuries yet — no stabbings," Plank said about the football stadium. He said gate crashing and lack of crowd control have caused problems however.

He suggested that football games, formerly used as money raisers by high school student bodies, be viewed as self-supporting events with income used to pay costs.

Board members suggested higher ticket prices to help cover costs of additions to the stadium, used by several county high schools.

"If people want night football, they should pay for it," board member Herman L. Childress said.

Plank was instructed to determine how much money could be raised by higher ticket prices and to investigate possibilities of donations for bleachers from boosters' clubs.

Contact Lenses Really Old Stuff

CHICAGO (UPI) — Contact lenses may be the latest thing in eyeglasses but they've been around a long time.

The first contact lenses to be used as refractive devices, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, were made 85 years ago.

Contact lenses made of plastics have been available a long time, too—34 years. But they did not attain wide popularity until after 1950.

Gathering In The Good Tricks Is A Way To Find The Evidence

When the contract may depend on a guess, declarer's best course is to play as many tricks as possible in order to gather evidence. If the defenders see what is going on, they should produce false evidence to lead declarer in the wrong direction.

ENDS IN DUMMY

Declarer took the first heart, drew three rounds of trumps and then ran the rest of the hearts, ending in dummy. It was then clear to the defenders that South had nine sure tricks in spades and hearts. He would make his game if he could get one trick in clubs or diamonds.

East could see that declarer couldn't have a problem in clubs but might have one in diamonds. He therefore concocted a plan to mislead declarer.

CLUB FROM DUMMY

After finishing with the hearts, declarer led a club from dummy. East put up the king of clubs to win this trick. The idea was to convince declarer that East had the ace-king of clubs.

Then East led a low diamond. South had to guess: Should he play the king or a low diamond?

PLAYS LOW

South thought that East had started with the ace-king of clubs. He was not likely to have the ace of diamonds as well, considering the fact that he had never entered the action. Hence South played a low diamond from his hand, hoping that this would be enough to produce the ace from West.

DEFEATS CONTRACT

As it happened, West produced the queen of diamonds, and the defenders speedily took their four tricks to defeat the contract.

If East had played the jack of clubs on the first round of that suit, South might very well have read the hand correctly. He could have made the contract by putting up the king of diamonds.

Group Will Support Marijuana Initiative

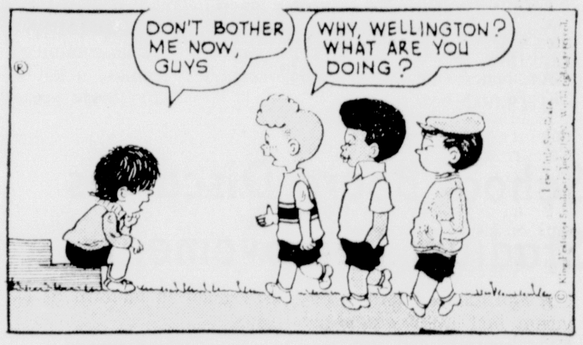

An organization to raise funds to support the California Marijuana Initiative has been formed in Fairfax.

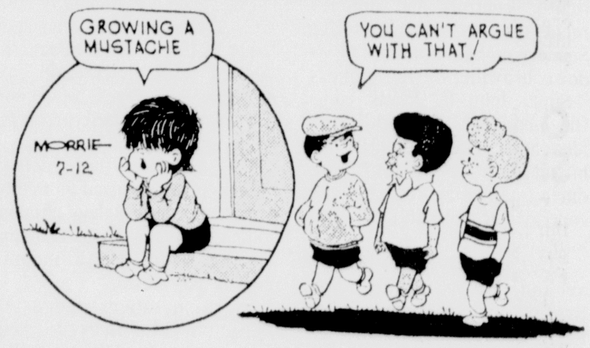

Known as "Free Marijuana," the group will collect money for advertising in favor of the initiative, which will appear on the November ballot. The measure would decriminalize personal possession and use of the drug.

According to the organization's coordinator, Lisa Walters of 11 Bolinas Road, the group will also support efforts to legalize or decriminalize marijuana in other states.

Okamoto Wanted To Kill Himself

TEL AVIV (UPI)—An army general testified today that Kozo Okamoto wanted to commit suicide "in the shortest possible time" after his participation in the Lod airport massacre.

Maj. Gen. Rehavam Ze'evi was recalled to the stand in the military court trying Okamoto for his life to present his written agreement with the young Japanese. The agreement was that, in exchange for a confession, Ze'evi would give Okamoto a pistol and a bullet so he could commit suicide.

Okamoto has admitted in court that he was a member of the three-man Japanese death squad which made the attack.

Ze'evi gave the document to the court, first extracting a razor blade from his wallet to cut off the name of a third person who signed the contract May 31, about eight hours after the machinegun assault that killed 26 persons and wounded 79.

"It might be harmful to the state to publicize the third name designated to keep this document," said Ze'evi, chief of the central command that includes the Lod area.

Under cross-examination by Defense Attorney Max Kritzman, Ze'evi said no time limit was attached to the agreement.

"Both parties to this agreement realized that it was for a few hours," Ze'evi said. "The demand for an immediate implementation hung in the room all the time. I will not exaggerate if I say that he (Okamoto) was thinking in terms of minutes. He wanted to commit suicide in the shortest possible time."

On Tuesday, Ze'evi said he did not provide Okamoto with the means to commit suicide because Okamoto reneged on the agreement.

"I warned him that if he didn't tell the truth I would leave," Ze'evi said. "I made a unilateral decision that our agreement was null and void and since he wasn't telling the truth he wouldn't get the pistol from me. He tried to convince me but I didn't heed his plea and just left the room without coming back.

"He told us his name was Mr. Namba of Japan." Okamoto's signature on the agreement appeared as "Daisuke Namba."

The three-man bench deliberated for 90 minutes before denying a defense motion for a psychiatric examination of Okamoto.

CHP Names New Chief Of Forces

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The chief of the California Highway Patrol since Gov. Reagan took office has retired and will be replaced by the first commissioner to rise through the CHP ranks to the top post.

Harold W. Sullivan, CHP commissioner since January 1967, resigned yesterday — three months before reaching the mandatory retirement age of 60.

Replacing him will be Deputy Commissioner Walter Pudinski, 45, who became a highway patrolman in 1951 and rose to the No. 2 position in the agency in August 1970.

Sullivan was appointed by the governor last Friday to a spot on the State Air Resources board when it was reorganized from 14 to five members.

Pudinski is the seventh commissioner for the CHP, which has 5,500 uniformed officers and 2,500 civilian employees.

His son, Stephen, 21, plans to become a CHP officer later this month.

Sullivan joined the Reagan administration after rising through the ranks of the Los Angeles Police Department, where he was deputy chief in charge of the traffic division.

Pudinski's appointment was announced by Frank J. Walton, Business and Transportation Agency chief.

Meeting Cancelled

The San Anselmo School District board last night cancelled its annual organizational meeting for lack of a quorum and rescheduled the session for tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Red Hill School, board member Mary H. Olive said today.

Jean Varda's Yacht May Return To Bay

Someday in the near future, artist Jean Varda's yacht, "Cythera," may again become a familiar sight on San Francisco Bay.

The Chinese lug-lateen rigged vessel, designed and built by Sausalito's "grand old man" of art has been drydocked since Varda died in Mexico in 1971.

Now the boat has been acquired by the Sausalito Arts Association which hopes to obtain enough money to do extensive repairs to the vessel.

To that end, the Sausalito Art Center will hold a two-part benefit party, at the center and the ferryboat Vallejo Friday from 6 p.m. to midnight to raise funds for the boat's restoration and launching.

Once the work is complete, the association hopes to train a crew to sail and maintain the "Cythera."

"We would like to make the boat available for outings for artists, civic groups and other art-related groups," said Shelagh Considine, art center director.

The benefit will begin with a potluck supper, music and a film of a Varda sail by Michael Bry. From 9 p.m. to midnight the party will move to the art center for dancing by the San Francisco Dance Sutdio and Harem Bellydancers, a slide show and music by the Logos rock group.

KTIM Program To Hear Building Moratorium Plan

Four speakers will appear at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" to discuss a four-month moratorium on new building and rezoning imposed last week by the Corte Madera Town Council.

Lois Miner and Alberta M. Damas will speak in favor of the council's decision, while the opposing side will be taken by James W. McClintock, member of the town planning commission, and a speaker to be announced.

The program, for which audience questions will be accepted, is scheduled for tape rebroadcast at 9:40 a.m. Sunday.

'Fiddler' To Be Given Saturday

The Marin Jewish Community Center will sponsor a live performance of "Fiddler on the Roof" Saturday at 8 p.m. at Temple Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

The show will be presented by the University of San Francisco Drama Group.

Tickets are available at the center.

U.S. Music Heritage Talk Slated

Lecturer-pianist-historian Anne McClenny Krauss will include rarely heard works in an illustrated lecture dealing with American musical heritage Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Cominican College, San Rafael.

Among the rarely heard works will be those by Alexander Reinagle, Raynor Taylor and Benjamin Carr, all from the post-Revolutionary War period.

As part of her program, which is sponsored by the American music research center at Dominican College, Mrs. Krauss also will show slides of early manuscripts, printings pianos made in America during the 18th century and early theaters and concert rooms.

Mrs. Krauss is particularly interested in the interrelationship of the early American cultural environment, concert life, perfection of keyboard instruments and music of the period.

Each year about 183 million tons of pollutants go into the air of the United States, averaging about 1,500 pounds per citizen.

Director Of Teacher Corps Is Sworn In WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. Tuesday swore in Mrs. Louise R. White, 41, as director of the Teacher Corps.

Mrs. White, who has worked as a teacher in Hot Springs, Ark., and Los Angeles, will direct a $37 million-a-year program for training teachers of disadvantaged children. The corps will have 2,680 teacher interns teaching in 127 local school districts and attending 78 colleges by the beginning of the next school year.

Sonoma State Is Reaccredited By Association

Sonoma State College has been fully reaccredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, according to President Thomas H. McGrath.

The commission report indicated "the stated objectives of the college are being carried out in an admirable fashion and that the potential for further developing them if properly supported, are indeed great."

The 75-page report praised the campus atmosphere as one "of congeniality and mutual trust."

In spite of what the report called "serious financial handicaps and shortages of space" on campus, the committee found "a spirit of cooperation and dedication prevalent through the campus."

The committee did suggest, however, that faculty members could show a greater understanding of the work and objectives of other departments. It also cited the need to study new curricula areas in vocations or professions that fit the needs of the college's six-county service area.

Old Adobe Art Show Deadline

Deadline for entries in the third annual art and photography contest at the Old Adobe Fiesta in Petaluma is Aug. 11.

The contest is restricted to amateurs and winning entries will be displayed at the Fiesta on Aug. 20. Entrants will be judged at various age levels, with subject restricted to Vallejo's Old Adobe or surrounding lands.

Information is available at Fireside Books and Northbay Federal Savings and Loan Association, Petaluma, or from Marjorie Irving, 1101½ B Street, Petaluma.

All entries must be submitted by Aug. 11 at 5 p.m.

Class Booted For Nobel Laureate

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Nobel Laureate William Schockly, a Stanford physicist, was to teach an undergraduate course in genetics and intelligence but academic credit has now been withdrawn from the course.

He was informed by official letter Tuesday that some professors "questioned your competence" to teach in this particular area. Shockley has been criticized and his classes disrupted for his belief that blacks are less intelligent than whites because of genetic factors.

TERRA LINDA BRUSH FIRE: ARSON SUSPECTED

Youngsters, attracted by billowing clouds of smoke, seek shade trees to avoid heat from one of two brush fires that broke out yesterday in the Terra Linda hills near Los Gamos Road. The blazes, one at 3:48 p.m. and the other about 45 minutes later, consumed about 25 acres. Firemen, who responded from San Rafael and county stations as well as Terra Linda, said youths were seen setting one of the blazes, and the other is presumed to have been set as well.

Col. Sanders To Open In San Anselmo

Colonel Sanders got slim approval for one of his takeout chicken stands in San Anselmo last night despite worries about the city's image.

The city council voted 3-2 over the objections of councilmen Lewis W. Stewart and Martin G. Blinder to overthrow planning commission denial of the franchise chicken business at 526 Red Hill Avenue.

David A. Strassman said from the audience that the colonel would bring the Hub area a little closer to being a Francisco Boulevard or an El Camino Real.

"You go through those areas and you don't know what town you are in because all you see is franchise signs," he said.

Stewart worried about traffic and said the colonel's portly visage and Southern fried chicken is "not the most favorable face that the city of San Anselmo should reveal to the public."

Dr. Blinder's worry was more medical. He objected because he has heard the chain feeds its chickens arsenic to stimulate their appetites and preserves them in formaldehyde after they are killed.

But Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro said the store's building and an office building it plans for the rest of the lot are "two very desirable buildings".

Mayor Warren R. Perry, despite his "natural aversion to the influx of franchises into the community," said the site is useful only for such a business and Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson moved to overturn the planners.

That didn't appease opponents. "I think people should stay home and fry their own chicken," Sophia Spencer of 18 Jordan Avenue said.

San Anselmo Council also:

DECK — Approved unanimously an eight foot rear yard setback variance to permit an already constructed deck at the home of Russell and Genevieve Johnson of 205 Oak Springs Drive although the planning commission had turned the couple down.

SORICH AREA — Recommended that the county planning commission turn down plans by Max Schenck to build 48 clustered units on unincorporated land running up the hill next to Sorich Park.

BIG TREES — Referred to the planning commission a proposal by Stewart to bar cutting of all "heritage trees," a term yet to be specifically defined.

PARK DISTRICT — Reindorsed a regional a regional park for Marin and urged the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission not to exclude San Rafael, which doesn't want to join such a district.

FLEA MARKET — Approved a fund raising flea market to be put on by the country days parade and fair committee on July 23 in the city parking lot at the Hub.

POLICE — Promoted Officer Bernard Del Santo to sergeant-inspector at a monthly salary of $1,047 and hired Deputy Sheriff Lawrence W. Woodall as a police officer at $850 a month.

STREET SIGNALS — Authorized $2,400 to be paid J.H.K. Associates for a study of traffic signal improvements on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the Red Hill shopping center.

DEATH INITIATIVE — Heard from City Atty. John J. Buresh that police had acted properly in leaving initiatives to restore the death penalty for public signature in the police station since they didn't devote duty time to the drive and didn't solicit any names.

WORK-STUDY — Reached agreement with the College of Marin to hire two students in the parks and recreation department at a cost to the city of $851 a year.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Renewed the agreement with the county to continue the city senior citizens program.

Dogs, Land, Noise Are San Anselmo Topics

By LARRY MOWELL

San Anselmo is going to the dogs. Noisemakers are out of control. Greedy developers have staked out prize open space.

That was the impression given the San Anselmo City Council last night by Councilman Martin G. Blinder and some of his backers. Dr. Blinder offered a variety of motions to curb the activity of dogs, disturbers of the peace and builders alike.

Dog control was the only one of the three that went through the council last night after it heard that some residents are under siege by dogs.

One woman who didn't identify herself said she drives down her driveway to pick up the mail and carries a club when she goes out on her patio as protection against roving dogs. "I'm scared," she concluded.

John F. Hulpke of Oak Knoll Avenue said he wasn't overly surprised that he was bitten while campaigning for the San Anselmo School District Board but complained that his wife had been knocked off her bicycle and each of his daughters have been bitten by dogs.

Blinder said he had been deluged with mail telling of similar harrowing experiences and suggested a stiff leash law and fines escalating from $25 to $100 for the owners of dogs running loose.

Turning the strict law down the council instead voted unanimously to raise the fine in the existing law which requires only that dogs be under control.

From $7 for kirst offenders and $10 for second, the council raised the penalty to $10 for first offenders, then $15 and $25 for second and third timers.

It also asked the Marin County Humane Society to conduct a 20-day sweep, asked the town of Ross to control its dogs, favored a low-cost spaying clinic and decided to take a tougher attitude toward irresponsible dog owners.

Builders, unlike the dogs, had a spokesman at the meeting and fared somewhat better. One of Marin's most talked about planning tools, moratorium, was one of the least discussed last night.

Suggesting a rezoning moratorium, Dr. Blinder said the county is on the verge of a park district but "competing for these lands, many of which are on ridge tops where they may be seen by all, are developers who are racing against the public to develop as much land as they can before restrictions are finalized."

He proposed an immediate urgency ban on all rezoning that would increase density, on subdividing any large parcels and on using any steep areas.

The rest of the council, however, referred the proposal to the planning commission for a public hearing after David Greenlee, executive director of the Marin Builders Exchange, argued his case.

He said the Tiburon moratorium is costing that city $17,000 because of the tax break given temporarily useless land. He said it isn't "morally justified" to stop development on the off-chance voters might pass a bond issue for open upace and felt passing a moratorium would be to say the planning commission is incompetent.

Mayor Warren R. Perry backed sending the moratorium notion to the planning commission to consider at its meeting on Monday. "If they come to the conclusion the sky is falling, I'm sure they'll tell us," he said.

Blinder's third idea for improving the quality of life in San Anselmo was an objective noise control ordinance that would make noises of more than a certain scientifically measured magnitude illegal.

The mayor appointed Blinder and Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson to look into the possibilities.

Off Duty Officer Nabs Pair On Drug Charge

An off-duty deputy sheriff, who witnessed what he thought was the sale of drugs in a San Rafael bar about 6 p.m. yesterday, led police to arrest two persons, San Rafael police reported today.

Earl Eugene Butler, 42, of Berth 54, Loch Lomond, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of sale of dangerous drugs. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Roxanne Lyn Baldi, 21, of 22 San Pablo Avenue, San Rafael, was booked into Marin County jail on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs. She is out on $1,000 bail to appear Friday in Marin Municipal Court.

Warren Wright, the off-duty Marin County deputy sheriff, saw what he thought was the sale of drugs in a booth at Anjo's Bar at 535 Fourth Street. He called San Rafael police who took the two to the San Rafael police station.

Police reported finding a small plastic bag with many white pills in it and a small plastic pill bottle with several unidentified pills in Mrs. Baldi's purse.

Rabies Vaccination Clinic Tomorrow In San Rafael

A rabies vaccination clinic will be held tomorrow from 6 to 8 p.m. at the city schools administration building at Third and E streets, San Rafael.

The clinic is one in a series being sponsored by the Marin County Department of Public Health for dogs at least four months of age.

Publication Budget Wins Fairfax Board's Approval

Fairfax School District trustees last night approved a publication budget of $1,304,336 for this fiscal year.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said the total represents a tax rate around this year's figure of $3.955 per $100 assessed valuation, or somewhat less.

The district's preliminary budget figure was $1,252,430, but Hammond said anticipated increased income figures brought the total up to $1,321,336. However, after considerable discussion trustees felt they would like to cut the amount by $17,000 in an attempt to lower the tax rate.

Hammond said the $17,000 represented some six or seven cents, but it is impossible at this stage to predict whether there will, in fact, be a drop in that amount until the district's override figures are known.

The official public hearing on the 1972-73 budget is set for Aug. 1, but the board's next meeting on July 25 will take the form of an extra public hearing on the publication budget.

Hammond said trustees hope members of the public will bring as many of their questions on the budget as possible to the July 25 meeting, as he will be out of town on Aug. 1.

Bogh meeting will be at 7:45 p.m. at Whitehill School.

The Fairfax School District Board Also:

PART-TIME — Postponed discussion of a salary schedule for part-time employees until the superintendent's recommendations are prepared in September.

IN-SERVICE — Approved a staff request for a minimum day for staff in-service program; effect of the program is that students will be released early from school each Wednesday in the school year, elementary students at 2 p.m., seventh and eighth graders at 2:15 p.m., starting Sept. 20.

WAREHOUSE — Agreed to publish bids next week for the district warehouse; contingent on the district's plans being approved by Thursday's meeting of the Fairfax Planning Commission and Design Review Board.

WHITE HILL — Approved resurfacing the asphalt area at White Hill School at an estimated cost of $3,400.

ELECTION — Relected Dr. George C. Stone president and Jane S. Durr clerk, and elected Laurence G. Hermann, trustee and county school board representative, and Thomas A. Truchan, legislative representative.

Committee Named To Undertake Pay Study

The Novato Sanitary District board has named a three-member committee to review salaries and make recommendations on raises, according to Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph.

Joseph said the district's preliminary 1972-73 budget hasn't been prepared but he plans to "put in an allowance" to cover any pay raises that might be granted.

The committee, appointed Monday night, consists of directors Edwin V. Grundstrom Jr. and Clayton D. Payne and Joseph.

Joseph also reported the baord will meet July 25 instead of July 24, as scheduled, and Aug. 17 instead of Aug. 14.

Belvedere Board Reelects Chairman

George L. McCoy was reelected chairman of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission last night, and Shirley Backen was elected secretary.

Commission members discussed plans for the city's 75th anniversary celebrations on July 29, said commissioner G. Roger Felton, and worked on the parade and other activities for the day.

San Rafael Police Nab Trio In Robbery Probe

Three of four persons, suspected of robbing a 79-year-old invalid in his San Rafael home on June 28, were arrested yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of 105 F Street, San Rafael, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of armed robbery and held in lieu of $20,000 bail.

Danny Ray Pyles, 23, of 1108 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, booked similarly, was held in lieu of $5,000 bail. Both were to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

The third person taken into custody was a 13-year-old boy who was released to his parents, police reported. His name was withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Wilson.

Police are still looking for a fourth person.

According to police the four went to the home of Ralph D. Hoy at 1818 Fifth Avenue on the pretext of needing television repair service which he conducts in his home. They held a toy pistol to his head and demanded money. They took his wallet containing $300 and fled in a 1964 model car, after knocking him out of his wheelchair.

From a description of the car, San Rafael police traced them to 1516 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, where the three were arrested.

Armed Robbery Plea Changed

A 19-year-old Novato youth has changed his plea to guilty of an armed robbery at a Novato market.

Under the plea bargain with Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court, James Clifford Bennett will be sentenced to six months in jail. Sentencing is scheduled for Aug. 28.

The district attorney recommended state prison.

Bennett was arrested May 16 after a clerk at the Short Stop Market told police he had been robbed by a man who acted as though he had a gun in his pocket.

Minutes after the report, Bennett was arrested in a field behind the store at Rowland and South Novato boulevards. Police said they found a paper bag containing $127 in his jacket, but no gun.

Sanitary District Service Charge Added To Tax Bill

The Tiburon Sanitary District board has decided to tack the district's recently approved sewer service charge onto the county's annual property tax bill.

The board empowered the county to collect the service charge rather than adding the fees to the district's regular tax rate.

Former City Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood argued that the charge itself was inequitable by placing an excessive burden on dwellers of multiple units.

After listening to the objections of Mrs. Ellinwood and two other residents, Nathaniel Marans and Robert Peterson, the board appointed the trio as a citizens committee to study the new sewer service charge ordinance and make recommendations for its improvement.

Under the new ordinance, single-family homeowners are charged a fixed rate of $12 a year, while multifamily units are charged according to the number of fixtures in each living unit.

The sanitary board has estimated that the average apartment dweller might be charged about $75 per year.

In the past, sanitary board members have said the service charge was designed to relieve the single-family homeowner of his disproportionately large share of the city's property taxes.

In other action, the board heard Edwin Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, predict that the planned low and middle income Hilarita housing project would soon seek annexation to Tiburon Sanitary District. The association is sponsoring the project.

Currently, Hilarita's sewage is treated by the sanitary district on a contract basis.

Weed estimated that sewer connection costs would run about $45,000. Sanitary board member Robert A. Sterling guessed the figure would run between $15,000 and $25,000.

Weed asked, however, that the sewer service charge levied against the project be computed at the single-family unit rates.

Hikers Assert Baltimore Trail Right Of Way

Eighty-eight hikers walked the 10-mile Baltimore Canyon trail above Larkspur Sunday to assert the public right of way.

Joi Losee of Larkspur said the Sierra Club hike was a tradition for generations, but Sunday's expedition was specifically to counteract misinformation that the trail is closed.

She said the trail, which begins in Madrone Canyon, crosses the Tiscornia Estate, but hikers found no fence or impediment to their route which went up to the 1,750-foot elevation.

The lands of Baltimore Canyon are part of the North Ridge area being considered for inclusion in a proposed regional park system.

Levee Repair Is Under Way

ISLETON (AP) — Repair of the Andrus Island levee break is expected to be completed by late this month or early August, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers says.

But officials predicted yesterday it still will take several months to pump all the water from the flooded Delta island from which 3,000 residents fled last month.

The levee broke June 21, permitting waters from the San Joaquin River to surge over more than 13,000 acres of land, including the community of Isleton.

Convict-Visitor Bill Rejected By Senate Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A Senate committee has rejected a bill expanding the rights of convicts to receive visitors after the state Department of Corrections expressed opposition to the proposal.

A spokesman for the department told the Judiciary Committee Tuesday the measure by Sen. David Roberti, D-Los Angeles, would allow "too much in the way of freedom."

The bill would have allowed a prisoner to be visited for 72 hours by a woman with whom he has cohabited for one year prior to confinement.

Currently, such "conjugal" visits are limited to the wife of the prisoner.

The measure also would have guaranteed the right of a prisoner to be visited by his clergyman and to receive visitors between 9 a.m and 3:30 p.m two days a week.

The committe defeated the bill on a 5-2 vote. Seven votes were needed for approval.

McGovern's Aides Cut Teeth In Rough, Tumble 1968 Drive

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — South Dakota Democrat Sen. George McGovern goes into the drive against President Nixon surrounded by advisers who cut most of their political teeth in the party's 1968 primary campaigns.

Here are brief sketches of McGovern's key advisers:

Gary Hart, 35, campaign manager. A Denver lawyer who was Rocky Mountain coordinator for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968, Hart went to work for McGovern in spring 1970.

He was the architect of McGovern's successful drive for the nomination, supervised floor activity at the Democratic National Convention and is planning McGovern's fall election drive. Low-key and pragmatic, Hart insists he won't take a Washington post if McGovern is elected. His goal: to bike around the country.

Fred Dutton, 48, political adviser. Top aide to Kennedy in the 1968 presidential campaign, Dutton participated in early McGovern for president meetings, then dropped out until this spring's California campaign.

He is an increasingly influential adviser who could have a key role in the fall.

Frank Mankiewicz, 47, national political director. A lawyer and onetime press secretary to Kennedy, Mankiewicz left a syndicated column to join the McGovern campaign in 1971 after working for him at the 1968 Democratic convention.

Much of his time is spent on the telephone, cajoling politicians, and the press.

Ted Van Dyk, 36, part-time adviser and speech writer. In 1968, Van Dyk was Hubert Humphrey's chief traveling aide. He opened a Washington public relations firm after serving briefly as vice president of Columbia University.

Gordon Weil, 35, executive assistant. An economist and writer, Weil joined McGovern in 1970 as press secretary, has become his top traveling aide with major influence on foreign and economic issues. He's also the man who guards access to the candidate.

Kirby Jones, 32, press secretary. After serving with the Peace Corps in Latin America, he worked for Kennedy in 1968 and in former Rep. Richard Ottinger's unsuccessful Senate campaign in New York in 1970 before joining Van Dyk's public relations firm. He became traveling press secretary earlier this year despite a lack of newspaper experience.

Richard Stearns, 27, assistant campaign manager for non-primary states. Active in the 1968 Eugene McCarthy campaign and with the party reform commission headed by McGovern, Stearns joined McGovern after attending Oxford University as a Rhodes scholar.

He masterminded the efforst by McGovern workers in non-primary states.

William Dougherty, 40, lieutenant-governor of South Dakota and political trouble-shooter. One of those with the longest connection with McGovern — he drove the car in the senator's first race for the House in 1956 — Dougherty handles a lot of the day-to-day political chores, like touching base with local officeholders. He organized Kennedy's successful South Dakota campaign in 1968 and the McGovern drive set up after Kennedy's assassination. Dougherty hopes to go to the Senate if McGovern is elected.

Pat Donovan, 36, personal secretary. She joined McGovern's staff when he first went to the House, worked for him when he headed the Food for Peace program and then joined his Senate staff.

Richard Dougherty, 50, speech-writer and political adviser. A political writer for the New York Herald Tribune and the Los Angeles Times, he joined McGovern in late 1971, served briefly as press secretary before moving behind the scenes.

It's Work Crew For Pot-Growing Pair In Fairfax

Two Fairfax residents, arrested after Fairfax police learned marijuana was growing at their home, pleaded guilty yesterday to reduced misdemeanor charges and were ordered to work 15 days each for a parks and recreation department.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court also placed Michael Arthur Timmel, 21, and Camas Eve Brown, 18, on probation for one year.

Miss Brown, who had been charged with a felony count of growing marijuana, was allowed to plead to a misdemeanor possession charge. Timmel pleaded to a misdemeanor count of being in a place where drugs are used — reduced from growing pot and possessing narcotics paraphernalia, a misdemeanor.

The two were arrested May 27 after police found about 15 stalks of marijuana growing in a planter box at their residence at 11 Crescent Lane.

Bids Add 34 To Area Bus Fleet

Twenty-eight more luxury buses for the Golden Gate Bridge District's fleet, equipped for the first time with individual reading lights, will cost $1,668,818 according to the sole bid by General Motors.

Flexible Bus Co. of Ohio, which took out bid specifications for the buses, did not bid. The company was underbid by General Motors when the district bought its initial fleet of 132 buses last year.

General Motors, in bid opening Monday afternoon, also bid $311,910 to provide six slightly smaller buses for service to West Marin, apparently losing out to Motor Coach Industry Inc. of Canada. The latter company, a subsidiary of Greyhound, bid $311,556.

The district's bus transit manager, H. Donald White, said General Motors bids were $47,463 for each of the 28 buses and $50,987 for the more posh, though smaller vehicles. Delivery would be $998 each.

General Motors' winning bid last year for buses similar to the 28 new ones was about $44,000. White said the difference was due to inflation and the individual reading lights asked by commuters.

Motor Coach Industry's bid $50,915 for each of the six smaller buses, plus $1,011 delivery.

The bids will go to the full board at 10 a.m. Friday. The district hopes to get a federal grant paying two-thirds of the cost of the new buses.

Suicide Center Event Is Monday

The Marin Suicide Prevention Center will hold a fund-raising spaghetti dinner Monday night at Le Tonneau, 5625 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

Dinner will be served from 6 to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will benefit operation of the center, a 24-hour telephone counseling service.

Jail Term For Home Burglary

Robert Paul Hollenbeck, 24, of Novato, has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to nine months in jail for the burglary of a Mill Valley home.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed the admitted heroin addict on four years probation Monday on the condition he undergo drug tests and attend Marin Open House, a drug treatment facility in San Rafael.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas recommended a sentence of state prison since Hollenbeck already was on probation in two other cases, but the judge stuck by a plea bargain made in May.

Officers responding March 22 to a burglary alarm at 685 Sequoia Valley road arrested Hollenbeck on the patio as he was trying to leave with a color television set.

The man told his probation officer he has had a $120-a-day heroin habit for five years.

City's Inclusion In Park District Asked

Michael R. Peevey, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, yesterday urged the Local Agency Formation Commission to reject the San Rafael City Council's plea that the city be excluded from the proposed countywide regional park district.

Peevey, himself a resident of San Rafael, said he was "deeply concerned about the steady loss of open space within Marin's largest city, as well as throughout the county."

In a letter to commission chairman Hugh G. Marchant, Peevey said a truly countywide district "must include San Rafael."

The commission will consider creation of the district at 7:30 p.m. today at the Civic Center. Its staff has recommended that San Rafael be included in the district, which will be on the November general election ballot.

The city council last month asked that the city be excluded and called a special election Sept. 19 to seek voter approval of a 10-cent tax levy to sell some $2,250,000 in bonds to buy open space.

Peevey's position echoed one taken Friday by the Marin County Labor Council, which accused the San Rafael City Council of trying to "torpedo" the proposed district.

McCarthy's Idea On The Nominee

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Four years ago in Chicago, Eugene McCarthy was fighting for the presidential nomination.

This year in Miami Beach, after a perfunctory effort in the primaries, McCarthy is an observer, not a serious candidate. But he still has his sense of humor.

The former Minnesota senator suggested yesterday that the Democrats ought to nominate the vice presidential candidate first, then let him choose the presidential nominee. He said it would save a lot of time and party squabbling.

"You can quote me on that," he told reporters. "It would be a whole new concept in political Americana."

Nothing like it on meat, fish, eggs and rice.

In Plain Talk . . . BONDED BEEF is beef that Lucky guarantees to be flavorful, tender and superior in quality. If, for any reason, any cut of Lucky's beef fails to please you, the purchase price will be refunded cheerfully without question.

Lucky's BOND is a Guarantee . . . an Unconditional Guarantee of Satisfaction.

Because today's homemaker prefers lean, tender and flavorful beef, we BOND our beef unconditionally because we have our own strict quality standards specifically designed to warrant the confidence and satisfaction of Lucky customers. Our many years of experience in selecting beef, backed by extensive research studies made by leading universities, have shown that beef from youthful steers properly fed to produce a small-to-modest amount of intramuscular fat and a thin layer of outside fat, produces a tender and lean beef. Bonded Beef must be just old enough to have developed a full-bodied flavor, yet young enough to be tender and juicy. It must have enough marbling (streaks of fat throughout the meat) to give it a delicious taste, but without excessive fat which would only raise the cost per pound to the consumer, and is an economic waste.

Lucky Unconditionally Bonded Beef means quality that is consistent . . . beef you can always serve with pride and confidence . . . beef that is trimmed to give you more servings per pound.

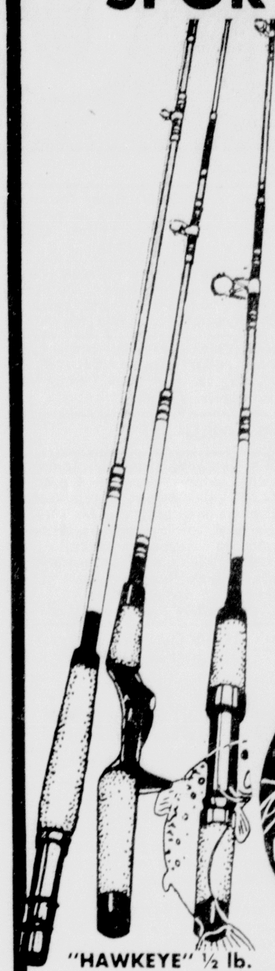

With these important facts about Bonded Beef, we feel you will find meat shopping easier and more economical. Meat is important at Lucky . . . it's important to us because it's important to you. That's why you'll always find over 300 meat items available at Lucky at low everyday discount prices . . . every day of the week!

Lucky Bonded Meats... it's a Tender Subject!

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 63574

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Hall of Justice, Civic Center

In re the marriage of
Petitioner: SANDRA LOUISE DAWN
Respondent: GREGORY WENDEL DAWN

To the Respondent:

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorney's fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Television Flickering May Bring An Epileptic Seizure To Some

Imperfect television images are simple annoyances to most of us, but to others, the flickering may bring on an epileptic seizure. In fact, some persons first realized they had epilepsy when they blacked out during their favorite program. Children with an inherent sensitivity to light (photosensitivity) are likely candidates. And today it is not difficult to be exposed to repetitive light. The bout occurs frequently while watching a television screen that has "snow," ghosts, or a flop over. Seizures also occur while viewing amateur cinematography, psychedelic rock music festivals, or sitting under a fluorescent light.

Epileptic bouts can also be evoked by waving the hand back and forth while looking at the sun. The attacks may also occur when glancing at a display of striped fabrics, while walking along a picket fence, or driving on a tree-lined street on a sunny day. Now and then the seizure stems from reading or combing the hair.

MOST VICTIMS of photogenic seizures are in their teens. Many develop temporary blackouts (petit mal) rather than convulsions. Dark glasses specially designed to eliminate the red spectrum may be helpful. Medications, such as phenobarbital and the anticonvulsant drugs, are used to prevent the attacks.

No one knows why the bouts occur in the photosensitive group except that the pupil of the eye cannot expand and contract fast enough to protect against flickering light. The flashes zing through the nerve networks and burst into the brain where certain receptor cells are triggered by light.

SOME CHILDREN deliberately induce a seizure because it "turns them on." Others do so to get attention. The child who resorts to self-induced epileptic attacks often requires the attention of a psychiatrist.

EXCESS SALIVATION

B. F. writes: What causes excess saliva during pregnancy?

REPLY

The cause is not known, but excessive salivation tends to diminish during the latter part of pregnancy.

LIVER ENLARGEMENT

E. A. D. writes: Does an enlarged liver mean cirrhosis?

REPLY

There are many reasons why the liver enlarges, of which cirrhosis is one. Special tests are needed to determine the cause.

ILEITIS

R. J. B. writes: Can you tell me something about a condition called ileitis? I've been bothered with this for years. Now, my doctor tells me I may need surgery.

REPLY

This is inflammation or congestion of the ileum, the last third of the small intestine. The symptoms resemble those seen in appendicitis, with abdominal pain, tenderness, and fever. The bowel may also be obstructed. Surgery is recommended when conservative measures fail. The diseased part is removed or the intestinal contents are rerouted around the area. The late President Eisenhower had this operation. Our leaflet on this disorder can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Moore Workers To Solicit Funds In Novato Area

Volunteers for Harry J. Moore for Assembly will conduct a door-to-door drive for campaign funds in Novato tomorrow through Sunday, according to Kim Marshall, drive chairman.

Moore, principal at Hill Junior High School, Novato, is the Democratic candidate challenging William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, for the Marin and Southern Sonoma state assembly seat.

About 25 volunteers of college and high school age will conduct the drive from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Miss Marshall reported. The volunteers for Moore will have letters identifying them, she said.

Strong Hijack Measures Asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Democratic assemblyman has demanded that the state take action to require airlines operating totally within California to take strong steps aimed at prevented hijackings.

"It is time to put an end to the nightmare of skyjacking," Assemblyman Leroy F. Greene of Sacramento said Monday in a letter to the state Public Utilities Commission.

"Let us start here and now in California to demand our intrastate airlines that they equip themselves, train their staffs and check their customers and baggage to prevent future skyjacking," Green said.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

'Help Wanted' Examination

The want ads said: Help Wanted: Women.

This sex classification of jobs was recently ordered to be stopped. It is illegal to discriminate in employment, though there are exceptions. Women often have complained that the classified ads for women are for poorer jobs, smaller pay, and fewer opportunities.

The Civil Rights Act says that anyone who puts job listings under male and female headings must base this on "bonafide" occupational qualifications for the job." The law says the employer must be able to prove that the jobs listed under "Help Wanted: Male" be such that women can't perform them. Listings based on job categories rather than by male-female designations are encouraged whenever possible.

Even though the want ads may be listed for men and women, either sex may apply and gain employment. Any discrimination in pay is illegal. In one case 2,000 women workers won over one million dollars in back pay from the employer. He had different pay scales and fringe benefits for women though they were performing the same work as men.

Another company had a policy of not hiring women who had preschool age children. However, it would hire men with children of the same age. This policy was declared illegal. There was no valid basis for the company's distinction. It was merely "age-old" prejudices at work.

Now the courts are looking at maximum and minimum wages, hour standards for women and men, etc. Women have the same rights to compete for hard labor, low pay and long hours as men do.

How about women students in strictly male schools or colleges? Here the courts said that a state supported school could not deny women educational opportunities if other schools weren't offering similar educational opportunities nearby.

Labor unions come within the provisions of the Civil Rights Act as well as the labor laws. Not only must the union act fairly for all its members, it may not discriminate in providing the means for employment.

A number of state and federal agencies will investigate complaints of discrimination by women. In most cases the burden of proof is on the employer to justify any questionable policy. Even if the agency rules against the complaining party, the courts may still review the agency decision. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

President Of Board Reelected

President Ronald D. Schenck and other officers of the Novato Unified School District board were reelected at an organizational meeting last night.

Marrett B. Boissevain was reelected vice president; Carolyn M. Crabtree, clerk, and William T. Eckhoff, trustee representative.

Trustees discussed the problem of finding new quarters for North Marin High School which must move from its location at 856 Sweetser Avenue because the building doesn't meet the state's earthquake resistant standards.

No action was taken, but acquiring portable classrooms or using existing classrooms elsewhere in the district was considered. North Marin High, a continuation school, had an enrollment varying from 24 to 39 students the past year.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

COMBINE — Approved a program at West Novato School which would establish combination kindergarten-first grade classes to work with second grade classes two hours daily.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignations of two elementary teachers, Ruth Laughlin, who retired, and Karen Terzi, who is moving from the area.

LEAVE — Granted William L. Washburn, teacher at North Marin High, leave of absence for the 1972-73 school year.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato High School lecture hall.

Trustees William G. Schneeflock, Crabtree and Boissevain were absent.

Pair Recuperate From Injuries

An elderly San Francisco couple injured Sunday night in a three-car collision on Highway 101 south of Marin City was recuperating today in a local hospital.

Hazel Casassa, 72, was reported in good condition at Marin General Hospital where she is being treated for a scalp wound and abdominal bruises. Charles Casassa, 70, was reported in good condition with a lacerated finger and possible chest injuries.

Treated for cuts and bruises sustained in the same pileup were Edward H. MacKay, 63, Ronald L. Smith, 29, and Emily Pike, 50, all of San Francisco.

The California Highway Patrol reported the three-car rear end collision occurred at 11 p.m. when the MacKay car ran out of gas and was unable to pull off the roadway. The Smith car plowed into MacKay's, and the Casassa car ran into the rear of Smith's car.

Judge Gives Sentence To 1969 Case

A bearded, 31-year-old prospective soldier, who found he could not enlist until he cleared his record, has been sentenced to 112 days in jail on a felony battery charge left over from 1969.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed Burt Hamilton Walker on probation for three years Monday. The sentence came three years after he failed to appear for sentencing.

Walker's attorney, Carl B. Shapiro, argued that Walker would have received only 10 or 15 days in jail if sentenced in 1969 and noted he had already spent52 days in jail, but the judge said, "I want to add several months to what he would have got then." He ordered him to stay in jail 60 more days.

Walker who took part in marijuana and LSD experiments conducted by drug advocate Dr. Timothy Leary at Los Angeles City College in 1962 and 1963, has been under a psychiatrist's care for six years, according to his probation report.

He gave himself up in May and asked to be kept in jail until the case was cleared up and he could fulfill "a life's ambition" by joining the Army.

He was arrested March 14, 1969, after a struggle in a bar with a Sausalito policeman whom he kicked in the ribs when the officer tried to remove him from the building.

Drama Group Gets $50 Grant

The Lucas Valley Homeowners Association Monday night seeded the budget of a fledgling teen-age drama group with a $50 grant.

The money will help pay production costs of the Drama Burgers, a group of about 30 Lucas Valley teen-agers who plan to produce "Apollo of Bellac" for a showing on July 22 at 8 p.m. in the Lucas Valley Community Center, according to Joan Fernandez, association vice president.

The group, which was formed last month, also plans a fundraising car wash at the community center at 1201 Idylberry Road on Saturday from noon to 5 p.m., she said.

The group needs money for costumes, lighting and stage construction costs, she explained.

Sale Halted Of Actor's Railroad Car In Marin

Auction of a private railroad car in order to partially pay $42,000 the government claims actor Sterling Hayden owes in back income taxes has been indefinitely postponed while the ownership of the car is determined.

The auction had been scheduled for today by the Internal Revenue Service in connection with taxes allegedly owned by Hayden, former Sausalitan, for 1968-69.

After the auction had been scheduled, an attorney for Hayden's daughter, Gretchen, said she owned the railroad car, not her father. The car is stored on a Greenbrae siding.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Ex-Public Defender Wins Disability Pay

Former public defender Jerome C. Durham has been granted a service-connected disability by the Marin County Retirement Board.

The action entitles him to $928-per-month retirement pay.

County Treasurer Stanley Fontez, an ex-officio member of the board, said the disability was approved Monday on the recommendation of a board-appointed hearing officer, San Rafael attorney John L. Rockwell.

A year ago, the board authorized Durham a nonservice connected disability entitling him to one-third his regular monthly salary of $1,856.

Durham, however, appealed the ruling, seeking a service-connected disability entitling him to a monthly retirement check of one-half his previous salary.

Fontez said today the board voted 5-1 to uphold the hearing officer's recommendation for the service-connected disability based on a finding that Durham's hqpertension was related to his job. Board member James Burdick dissented in the vote.

The board's ruling provides Durham with retroactive pay to June 1971 when he applied for retirement.

The former public defender retired in March 1971 while under fire for incompetence and "smelling of liquor" while on the job.

The charges were lodged by Jack R. Gorman, a convicted murderer previously represented by Durham, and by Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves. Graves was representing another convicted murderer.

Durham became a deputy public defender in 1959 and was appointed to head the department in 1965.

Senior Citizens Set Election

Senior citizens in Southern Sonoma will elect delegates to the Sonoma County Council on Aging at a meeting July 24 at 11 a.m. at the Rohnert Park Community Center.

The Fun After 50 Club will sponsor the election. Nominations will begin at 11 a.m. and polls will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Members will also circulate a ballot box by car and will call on senior citizens in their homes in Petaluma, Cotati and Rohnert Park so they may vote.

Persons can arrange transportation to the meeting by calling the Senior Opportunity Services Office, 609 Fifth Street, Santa Rosa.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Daily News announced today it has ceased publication, effective immediately, and has been sold to the Washington Evening Star.

Marshland Parking Lot Plan Attacked

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has recommended that no action be taken on a plan to convert a marshland area behind the Tamalpais High School athletic field into a commuter parking lot until an overall study of commute parking can be prepared.

The idea, raised by city councilman Robert E. Burton, drew fire from a handful of Almonte residents at the commission meeting Monday night.

The commission's recommendation that the city council urge the Tamalpais High School District to refrain from converting the marshland into a parking lot did not satisfy the Almonte residents.

According to planning commissioner William A. Lewis, those opposed to the parking lot claimed such a facility would endanger their children, cause traffic problems and destroy a natural marshland.

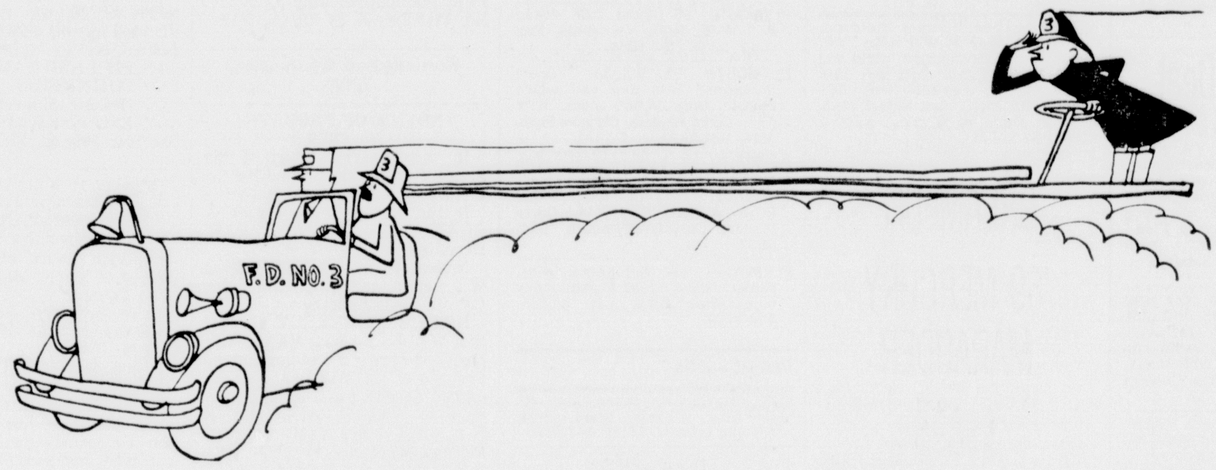

The idea was conceived by Burton as a means to replace commuter parking that will be lost with reconstruction of Miller Avenue.

The subject, not on the commission agenda, ultimately was tabled.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission also:

MORATORIUM — Expressed its preference for the revised boundary lines covering a proposed building moratorium in East Mill Valley, as tentatively changed last week by the city council.

OFF-STREET PARKING — Approved a report from its parking subcommittee which recommended that five off-street parking lots be acquired by the city to replace the middle-of-the-street parking that will be eliminated in the Miller Avenue business area by the reconstruction project.

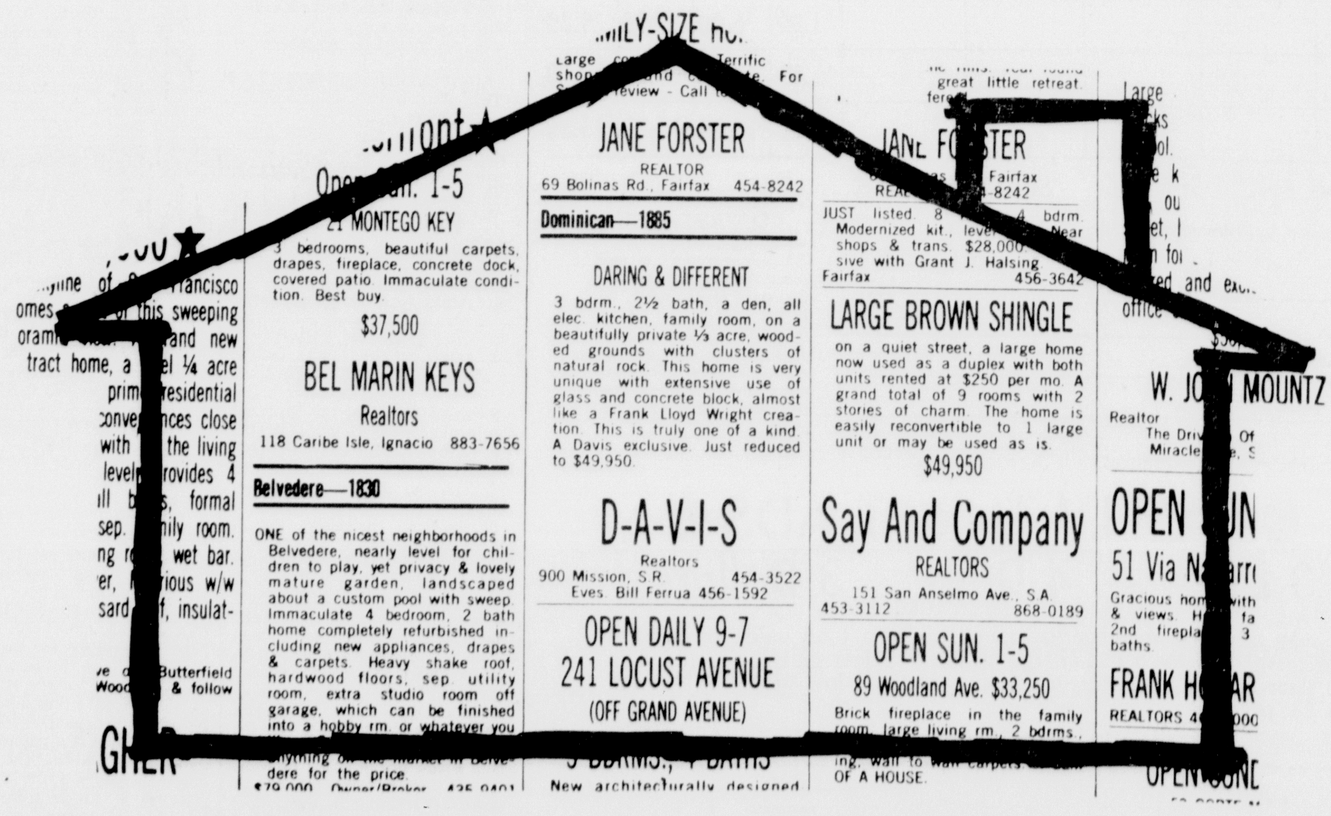

That's where it's at, Chief . . .

9 Months In Jail For Bennewitz

A San Francisco man, arrested in March following a wild struggle with a policeman at Ross Town Hall and a chase that ended on Highway 101, has been sentenced to nine months in jail on counts of burglary and battery on a police officer.

Completing a plea bargain Monday, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed James Michael Bennewitz, 24, on probation for three years and ordered him to undergo periodic drug testing.

After Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas recommended a year in jail, the judge said he would have sent Bennewitz to state prisonif the penal system weren't winding down and shortening sentences.

Bennewitz was surprised inside the town hall about 2 a.m. March 16 by Patrolman Michael Schladweiller. The officer placed one handcuff on Bennewitz before he spun around and hit Schladweiller in the face with the cuffs.

In the scuffle the officer sprayed chemical mace in Bennewitz's face, but the suspect took the officer's gun and fled.

He was arrested following a chase in Corte Madera.

Booked on suspicion of eight different counts ranging from attempted murder to possession of drugs, Bennewitz was charged only with burglary, felony battery on an officer and taking the officer's gun.

Because of the plea bargain, the battery count was reduced and the gun charge was dismissed.

No Objections To Pier Plans

No objection has been filed to an application for permission to install a pier, ramp and floating dock on Corte Madera Creek in the 900 block of South Eliseo Drive, Greenbrae reports the district office of the Army Corps of Engineers.

The application was by Belardo Co. of Greenbrae and the floating dock is to serve residents of a ten-unit apartment house.

An application for architectural supervision of the floating dock was approved by Larkspur Planning Commission on June 27, subject to a walkway to the dock ramp being curved.

Butterfly Wins As State Insect

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A bill naming the dog-face butterfly the official state insect passed the California Legislature Tuesday.

The orange and black butterfly, officially called Zerene Eurydice, was first recommended as the state insect in 1929 by entomologists. It is found primarily in coastal areas from San Francisco to the Mexican border.

The Senate sent the proposal to Gov. Ronald Reagan on a 290 vote.

Angela Supporter Off On Vacation

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—Roger McAfee, the pro-Communist farmer who posted Angela Davis' $100,000 bail, has been harassed, threatened, fired upon and nine of his cattle poisoned, a member of his cooperative dairy farm says.

On Tuesday he wanted to get away from it all so with his five sons McAfee left for a camping trip in the Sierras. "He wanted to take off—he deserves a rest," said cooperative member Jeanne Lawson.

College Board To Consider Budget For Publications

The Marin Community College District board will be asked to approve a "publication" budget for fiscal 1972-73 at its meeting tonight.

A tentative budget of $12,869,830 already has been approved by the board, although it does not include 4 per cent increase in classified salaries approved on June 28.

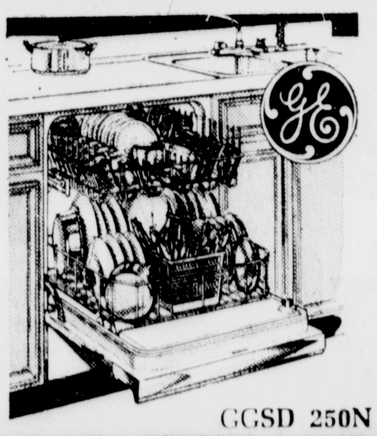

Trustees also will be concerned at tonight's session with several aspects of development of the new Indian Valley College campus in Novato. They will be asked to approve an extra $6,500 worth of soil investigation at the site, set up two workshop meetings on plans for the campus and arrange an extra board meeting for Aug. 7 to approve preliminary plans for the campus.

The board meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in room C101.

Boston's Pattin Barely Misses No-Hitter Against A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — Marty Pattin has to be some kind of a guy.

Here he is with a no-hitter within reach and he's thinking about something that happened back in the second inning.

Pattin, the journeyman right-hander the Boston Red Sox got from the Milwaukee Brewers last winter in a 10-player deal, hit Sal Bando with a pitch Tuesday night enroute to a one-hit, 4-0 victory over the Oakland A's and it so unnerved him that he couldn't think about anything else.

Yet, Pattin took his no-hit bid into the ninth, only to see Reggie Jackson spoil it after one out with a solid single to right-center.

After Pattin nailed Bill Voss on a foul popup to catcher Carlton Fisk for the final out, he walked off the mound to be greeted by his teammates, most of whom felt sorry for him, but the first thing he asked was "how is Sal?"

If you are looking for the All-America boy in the big leagues, you could come close if you picked Pattin.

He's average in size—5-foot-11 and 180 pounds—he married his high school sweetheart, went to college in his home town where he earned a master's degree in industrial arts, and he never has given a single baseball manager one moment of concern.

When they told Pattin Bando, another "nice guy," wasn't hurt as a result of his beaning, Marty said "I'm glad he's okay. I was really worried about him."

Pattin, who broke into the majors with the California Angels in 1968, never has pitched a no-hitter in his professional career, although he had three of them with his high school team in Charleston, Ill. Naturally, a big league no-hitter remains his goal.

"It's my biggest dream," said the 29-year-old Pattin. "I guess this is as close as I'll ever come."

As for the pitch that Jackson lined for the only Oakland hit, Pattin said it was a fastball that he got up a little higher than he wanted.

Still, he wasn't all that upset about things.

"Winning the game is the dig thing," he said, "although a nohitter would have been nice."

Pattin who won 14 games in each of the last two seasons for the lowly Brewers, hasn't exactly been a ball of fire with the Red Sox this year. In fact as recently as June 20 his record stood at 2-8. But since then he has won four consecutive decisions and said that has done a lot for his confidence. It's also made contenders in the American League East of the Red Sox, who now have won nine of their lat 11 games and stand only four games off the lead.

Fisk drove in two of Boston's runs with his 11th homer and a single. A fielder's choice ground-der by Danny Cater fetched across the third run and the fourth scored on a triple by Juan Beniquez and a wild pitch by reliever Darold Knowles.

Four A's reached on Pattin before Jackson's hit—three on walks and Bando when he was hit. Marty struck out seven, including the first batter in the ninth. The closest the A's came to a hit before the ninth was in the third when Bert Campaneris, whose hitting streak was snapped at 17 games, lined a shot through the box.

Pattin got his glove up to slow the ball down and shortstop Beniquez was able to throw out Campaneris on a close play.

Bando wasn't hurt seriously. He seemed to freeze on an inside pitch and it glanced off his batting helmet by the ear region. Sal was shaken up but he walked off under his own

A Chat With Two Red Sox Pitchers

By RALPH CHATOIAN

I went over to Oakland Coliseum last night with hopes of seeing Boston's Bill Lee, the former Terra Linda prep pitcher, throw a pitch or two against the A's. Instead I saw a young man by the name of Marty Pattin miss the Hall of Fame by two outs.

Pattin, a quiet speaking right-hander, went 8⅓ innings without giving up a hit before Reggie Jackson laced a 2-2 pitch in right-center with one out in the ninth. The ball barely ticked the glove of Red Sox second baseman Doug Griffin, who made a valiant stab at it.

The 5,539 fans in the Coliseum were treated to an excellent pitching show put on by Pattin, who walked three (Jackson twice) during his 4-0 masterpiece. One of his fast balls got away from him and struck Sal Bando on the head and although bringing up a good sized bump, didn't injure Bando seriously.

"YEH, I KNEW about the no-hitter all the way but nobody on the bench said anything about it," Pattin told the writers gathered around him in the clubhouse after the game. About the pitch that Jackson ripped, Pattin said it was a fast ball "that I got a little higher than I wanted."

He said he really started thinking about the possible no-hitter in the eighth and ninth innings when he started going more to the fast balls after fooling quite a few batters earlier in the game with his slider.

GRIFFIN WAS only inches away from saving the no-hitter for Pattin. "The ball just hit the end of the fingers of my glove," Griffin said with lowered head. "If I had only been over a couple of inches . . ."

Before the start of the game I was able to get in a chat with Lee, who is now 5-3 in the win-loss category. He also has three saves and a 3.73 earned run average. Has he changed his feelings about being a relief pitcher now that the Red Sox have traded away Sparky Lyle, making Lee the number one bullpen man?

"I STILL DON'T like it," said Lee. "I would rather be a starter but they (management) feel I'm a better pitcher when I come out of the bullpen."

He said he might get a chance to be a starting pitcher in winter league ball in Venezuela after the Red Soxs season is over. "Luis Aparicio is managing a team in Maracaibo and he's talked to me about playing there. There are 60 games so it means I would get 12 to 15 starts. And when I'm not pitching they might let me play outfield. Boy, I'd really love that. I love to hit."

Lee, in his fourth season with the Red Sox, has started wearing contact lenses. "Now I'll really be able to hit the ball." Hey, wait a minute, Bill. You're a pitcher, not a hitter.

"I WISH I COULD have made it as an outfielder. I would love to be able to play every day. I'm too hyper-active to just sit around."

About the Red Sox' chances of dethroning the Baltimore Orioles, Lee said, "You never know. We've got a good team this year and a lot of young kids who are playing a lot. After all, we're only four games out."

Leach, Palacio In State Amateur

Ray Leach of Novato and Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael qualified for the match play portion of the State Amateur Golf Championship which got underway today at Pebble Beach.

Leach, a Brigham Young University graduate who has already announced that he will turn professional after this tournament, shot a 78 yesterday after an opening round of 74, for a 152 qualifying score. He was to face the tourney's youngest qualifier, 15-year-old Mark Tinder of Pebble Beach, in his opening match today.

Palacio, a winner of the state title back in 1936, came back with a 75 yesterday after an opening 80 to win a berth in the 64-man match play field. He was to oppose Ray Alderette in his opener today.

Marin's two other hopefuls, Bob Cranston and Richard Thompson of Sausalito, failed to qualify.

Mark Pfeil of Palos Verdes was medalist for the two qualifying rounds, 73-73—146. Gary Sanders, USC graduate from Anaheim, had a 147 and Sandy Galbraith of San Carlos, last year's runnerup, had 149.

The match play will include single rounds today and tomorrow, survivors then playing Friday, Saturday and the finals Sunday.

Marr, Beard Fire 70s In British Open

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) —Dave Marr, who got into the tournament by the back door, today shot a one-under-par 70 to share the first round British Open Golf championship lead with Frank Beard with half the field back in the clubhouse.

Marr, the 38-year-old former PGA champion from Houston, Tex., got into the tournament by beating former British Ryder Cup player Peter Alliss in a sudden death playoff for the final qualifying place.

TREVINO, SANDERS

Marr shot halves of 34-36 to tie Beard, of Louisville, Ky., for the early leadership. Just one stroke behind the co-leaders were defending champion Lee Trevino of Dallas and another Texan, Doug Sanders of Houston, the man who finished joint runner-up to Jack Nicklaus when he won here in 1966 and in 1970 when he won at St. Andrews. Nicklaus was a late starter today.

Marr's outward 34 was the best of the tournament with the first half of the 153-man field having completed their rounds.

He played the opening three holes in regulation figures then went birdie, eagle before a double bogey six at the par four 444-yard eighth stopped his progress. But he made amends with another birdie at nine.

BIRDIE

Bogeys at the 12th and 15th when the rain was at its heaviest ruined his card but he birdied the 17th and then saved his par at the 18th by dropping a four footer.

Marr holed from 25 feet for his birdie at the fourth, then he hit a four wood to the fringe of the fifth green and putted in for his eagle.

At the eighth he found trouble and needed four to reach the green, but wedged to within three feet at the ninth to make his birdie.

On the back nine he found a sand trap at the 12th, missing an eight-footer which would have saved his par, while he needed three to reach the green at the 15th. He made the green in two at the 17th for a birdie.

SURPRISED

Marr said: "My best finish this year was ninth or tenth in the Pensacola back in February, so I'm pretty surprised to be in contention. I have not been playing well."

Trevino birdied the par 5 fifth, but bogeyed the 11th and

Henderson Saves Giants' Triumph

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even if Kenny Henderson is having trouble hitting his weight, he's a good man to have in the lineup.

San Francisco took injury-riddled New York 6-1 before 39,314 Tuesday night for its fourth win in a row, and it was a play by Henderson that saved the team's bacon.

It was only 3-0 going into the fifth when the Mets finally got to a perspiring Ron Bryant. Ted Martinez ended Bryant's no-hitter with one out by getting a double. Wayne Garrett doubled him home and Bobby Bonds bobbled the ball to allow Garrett to get to third.

The Mets filled the bases on a misplayed fielder's choice and a walk to Willie Mays when Bud Harrelson flied out to Henderson in medium deep left. He caught it and nailed Garrett at home on a perfect throw for the key twin killing.

The Giants broke it up with three in the seventh and Bryant, now 7-4, finished with a two-hitter and his fourth win in a row.

Willie McCovey got the Giants off winning with his sixth homer and then San Francisco scored twice more when Harrelson seemingly caught the third out in the third, but then was crashed into by Wayne Milner. The ball popped loose, two runs scored, and Milner was removed on a stretcher with a sore neck to join the likes of Cleon Jones, Rusty Staub, Tommie Agee and Jim Beauchamp on the injury shelf from the New Yorkers.

The string of injuries cost New York directly in the seventh when Bryant walked, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Bobby Bonds single. Garry Maddox singled Bonds to second and both scored when Duffy Dyer, a catcher playing in the outfield, let Speier's ball drop for an error.

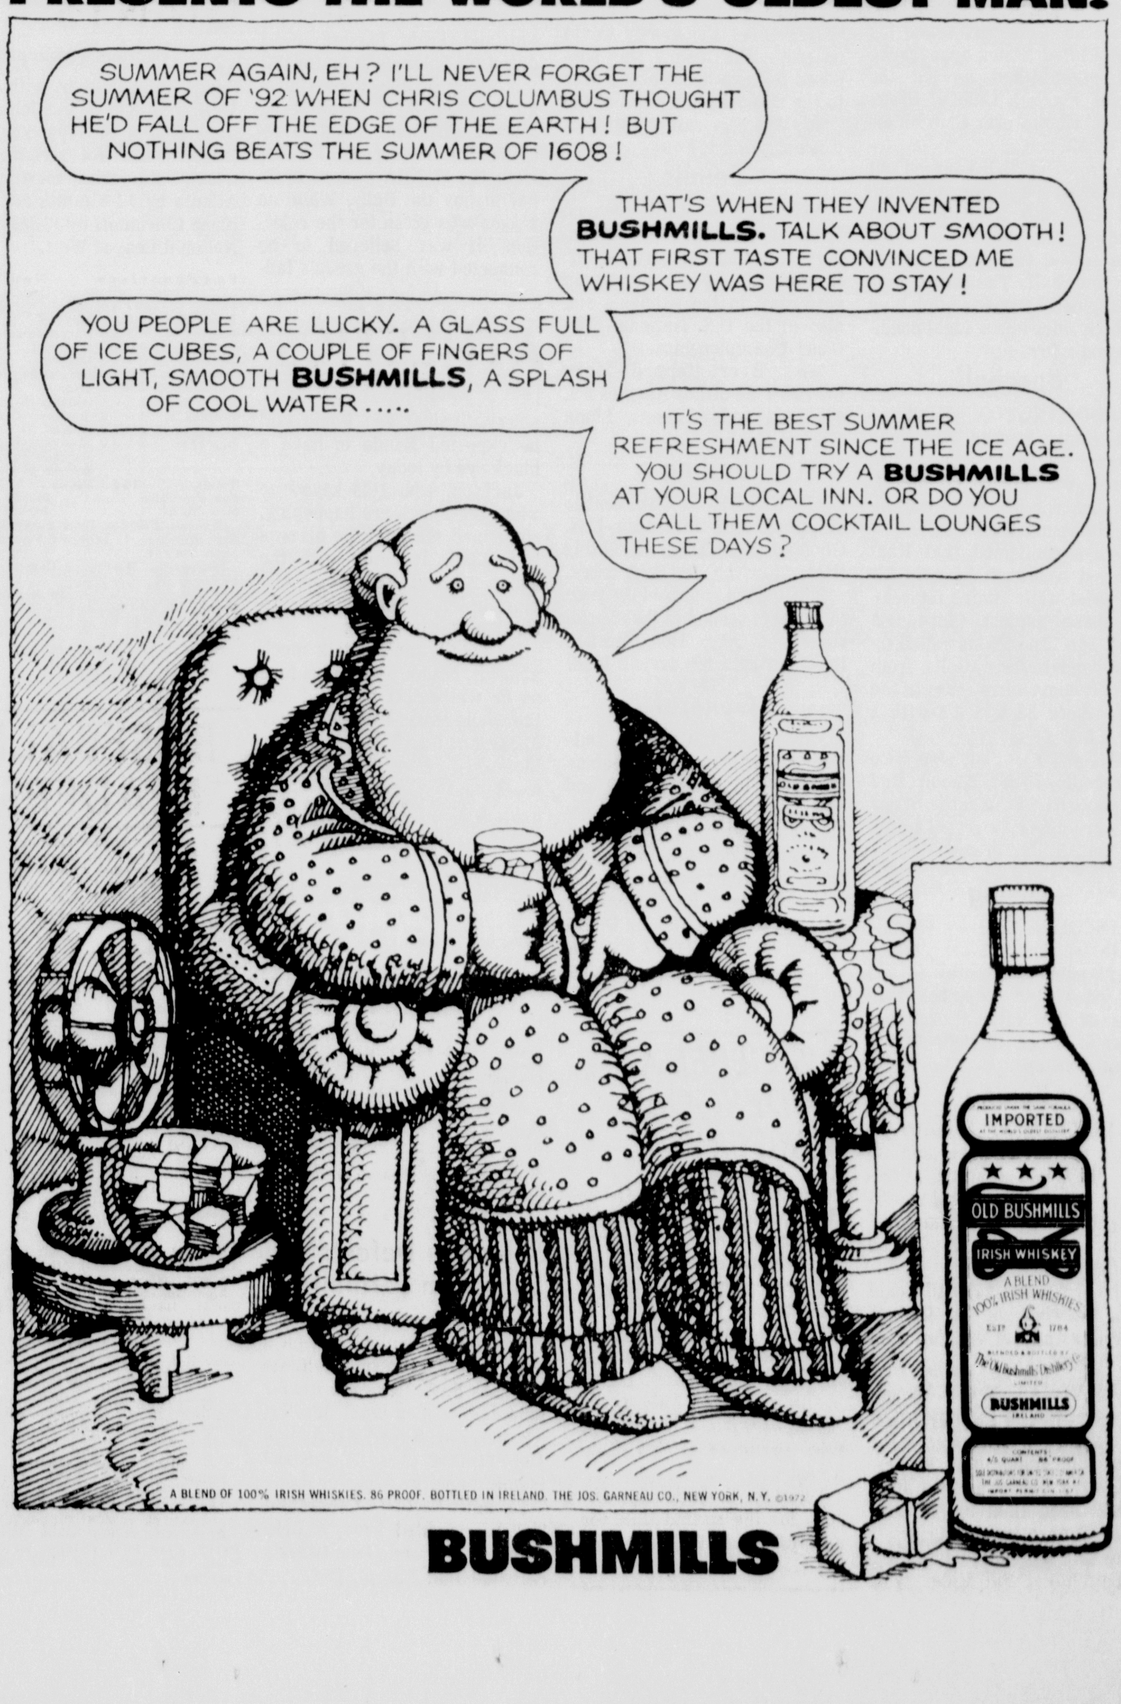

It was Speier who also hit the ball thet caused the collision as he had a unique night at the plate.

The Giants hope to keep

JACK HANLEY

A Trying Season For Giants' Healy

NEW YORK — This has been a trying year for several Giants, including Francis Xavier Healy, who began the season as No. 1 catcher but lost the job to Dave Rader. Riding the bench has broken the team spirit of more than one player, but not Healy. "He's a team man," said manager Charlie Fox.

What's it like going as long as three weeks without a catching assignment?

"Rough," said Healy. "Melancholy. It's tough maintaining an objective outlook and not permitting the natural selfish motives to dominate you. After all, it's my bread and butter. But baseball, like the weather, changes every day. I'm not going to quit. I got to fight back but it's going to be an uphill struggle from an .070 batting average."

WHEN HEALY'S batting average dipped under the .100 mark May 3 after he had caught the first 14 games, Fox gave the catching job to Rader. The manager needed some punch in the lineup, particularly with Willie McCovey out of action with a broken arm and other members of the team in batting slumps.

There was a reason why Healy's batting average plummeted at the outset of the season, but he has never used it as an alibi. In the last inning and on the last pitch of the team's final intrasquad game at Casa Grande just before the Giants moved their spring headquarters to Phoenix for the Cactus League exhibitions, a vicious tip fouled off Chris Speier's bat and almost broke the wrist of Healy's glove hand.

"I HAD A KIND of premonition then," said Healy, "that this wasn't going to be my year. The wrist didn't get better until the strike (the preseason, 13-day walkout of players in their pension dispute). Then, in our first series at Candlestick with the Phillies, Dick Selma plunked the wrist with a fast ball. In a way, it was worth it because the bases were loaded at the time and forced in a run. We won 7-6 but I'd rather have been hit in the ribs."

Unable to grip a bat properly, as he could last season when he hit .280, Healy watched his average sink to .070.

"I REMEMBER taking a scoreboard peek at it and thinking it was the temperature," said Healy, obviously a fellow with a sense of humor and ability to enjoy a laugh at his own expense.

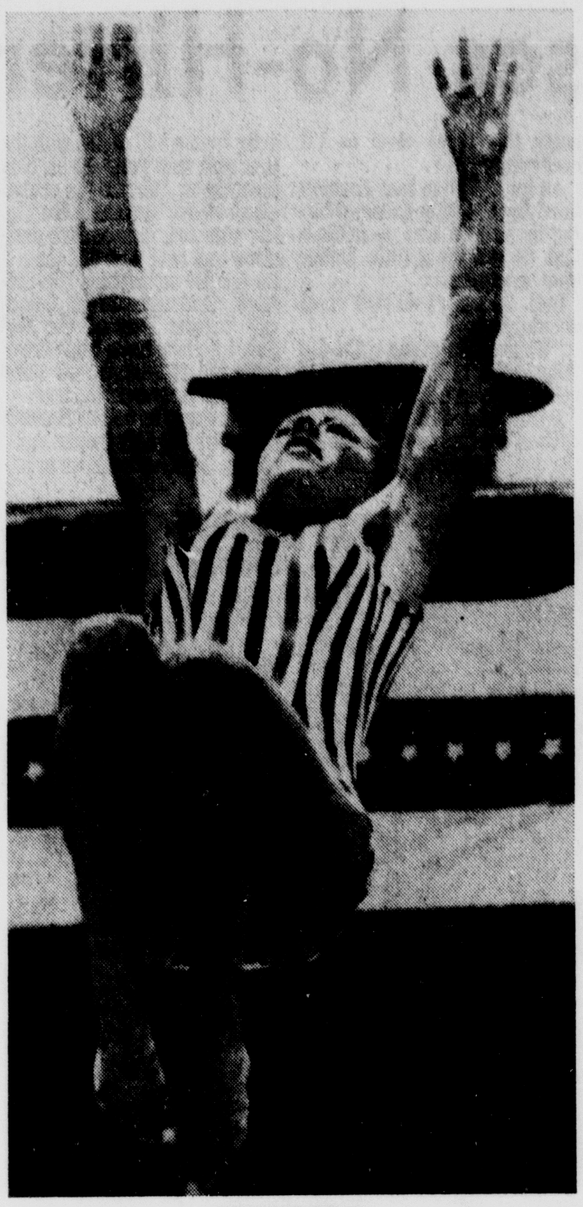

"I'm glad I didn't allow my miserable batting to interfere with my catching. I think I gunned down 17 or 18 thieves trying to steal second. It fortunately wasn't my throwing wrist that took the beating."

Healy is so wrapped up in baseball that during library visits on assignments for his college degree as a history major (just one semester away) he finds himself unable to pass up a book on baseball.

"I ALMOST BLEW my last assignment because I got tied up with Roger Kahn's Boys of Summer," said Healy. "After I get my degree, I'll decide whether it will be law. I think I'd like to be a lawyer. But right now baseball is my No. 1 love and my No. 1 job.

"I never had any doubt as a youngster that I wanted to be a ball player. The talk around our house in Holyoke where I was born and still live always was baseball."

That's understandable. Healy's father, Bernard, played in the St. Louis organization. An uncle, Frank, caught for the Giants and Cardinals in the '30s.

New Jersey Realtor Buys Boston Celtics

NEW YORK (UPI) —Robert Schmertz, a real estate executive from Lakewood, N.J., has received unanimous approval from the National Basketball Association Board of Governors to purchase the Boston Celtics, but another group was rejected in its bid to buy the Chicago Bulls.

Schmertz, who also is part owner of the New England Whalers of the newly-formed World Hockey Association, becomes only the second sole owner of the Celtics in the club's 26-year history.

The other was Walter Brown.

After receiving approval to buy the Celtics for $5.1 million from Investors Fund Inc., Schmertz said he intended to keep the team in Boston and retain Red Auerbach as president and general manager. Schmertz, a part-owner of the Portland Train Blazers, must divest his holdings in that club.

A group of Milwaukee-Chicago businessmen, headed by Marvin Fishman, failed to receive the required 13 votes from the 17 NBA owners in its bid to buy the Bulls. While no reason was given for the rejection, it was believed to be connected with the group's failure to renew a lease for Chicago Stadium.

The Bulls' lease on the 20,000-seat Chicago Stadium expires at the end of this season and the stadium is owned by Arthur Wirtz, who hopes himself to buy the club. Fishman has been guaranteed a three-year lease for use of the Chicago Amphitheater, where the Bulls once played, but it would have to be remodeled for basketball and could hold no more than 10,500 seats.

Fishman, a member of the group that founded the Milwaukee Bucks four years ago, said his group would "pursue every area open to us" in its bid to buy the Bulls.

Jackson, who gets keyed up when big things are happening, confirmed the pitch he hit was a fastball. It came with the count 2-2 and Reggie seemed more upset at ruining the nohitter than Pattin.

He didn't want to talk much about it, but the looe on his face as he walked off the field told the whole story. In his own way Jackson is an All-America type, too.

Suburban Defeats Sohner In Softball

Jess Munyon pitched a nohitter for five innings and hit a home run on his own behalf last night as Suburban Auto Reapir defeated Sohner Tree Service, 7-2, in a San Rafael Recreation Department class A softball league game.

In other action, Connection Tavern defeated Perry's Delicatessen, 7-5, and Gene Hiller's defeated Don Rumpf, 12-6.

Pele Scores Twice Before 21,103 Fans

Combined A.P. & UPI

LOS ANGELES — Pele, the superstar of soccer, made his final United States appearance last night when he led the Santos Football Club of Brazil to a 4-2 victory over Club America of Mexico.

A crowd of 21,103 turned out in 70-degree weather at Memorial Coliseum to witness the International match in which Pele scored two goals, both in the first half. The match was highlighted by outstanding play on both sides under ideal conditions on a firm turf.

Baseball

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Jim Kaat, leading American League pitchers with a 10-2 record, was placed on the 21-day disabled list yesterday by the Minnesota Twins.

X-rays confirmed that Kaat suffered a broken bone in his left wrist while sliding intosecond base against Chicago a week ago. The Twins called up right-hander Dave Goltz from their Tacoma farm team in the PCL where he was 8-8 with a 3.89 ERA.

OAKLAND — Shortstop Rico Petrocelli of the Boston Red Sox says he will undergo minor eye surgery in two weeks during the All-Star break.

Diving

LINCOLN, Neb. — Cynthia Potter of Houston, Tex., tallied 446.82 points yesterday to win the one-meter springboard finals at the National Amateur Athletic Union Outdoor Diving Championships.

Boxing

CASABLANCA, Morocco — Fight promoters here said today they had reached agreement with former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali to come July 29 for an exhibition bout.

The organizers said Ali would fight heavyweight Ba Sonkalo of Mali as part of the Moroccan Youth Festival.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A suit to collect $21,300 in unpaid rent for the Convention Center where the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry fight was held June 27 has been filed by the Las Vegas Convention Authority.

The suit was directed against fight promoter Bill Miller, who assured the convention authority yesterday the money would be paid. The money was supposed to have been turned over to the authority the night of the fight, but the suit claimed it was not paid.

Tennis

ATLANTA — Little Jeanne Evert, 15-year-old sister of Tennis star Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., advanced yesterday in the women's singles in the U.S. National Clay Court Championships.

Miss Evert topped Mary Christienson of Los Angeles 6-2, 6-3, and today meets Linda Wert of Mobile, Ala.

Sailing

BERKELEY — Two Seattle skippers still dominate U.S. Olympic Star Class Yachting trials after the first four races.

Bill Buchan captured the race to move to second in the overall standings. Alan Holt finished third but held his overall lead.

General

SANTA ANA, Calif. — Dale Drake, who began as a mechanic at the Indianapolis 500 and ended up owning the engine company that dominated America's most famous auto race, is dead of a heart attack.

Drake, owner for the past 26 years of the firm making Offenhauser engines, died at a hospital in nearby Orange Monday night at age 70.

A'S CEPEDA UNDERGOES SURGERY

OAKLAND (UPI) — Orlando Cepeda of the Oakland A's is reported in good condition and "resting comfortably" after knee surgery at Merritt Hospital.

The 34-year-old first baseman, obtained by Oakland in the deal for pitcher Denny McLain, batted only three times for Oakland in pinch-hit roles because of his knee injury.

Carlton Grabs 7th Win In Row

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Steve Carlton is happy with the script despite a weak cast of supporting actors.

Carlton, traded by an unhappy Gussie Busch during the offseason, recorded his seventh straight victory Tuesday night as the weak-hitting Philadelphia Phillies won two games in a row for the first time in a month with a 4-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In other National League games Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 5-0, San Francisco defeated New York 6-1, Atlanta edged St. Louis 5-4 in 15 innings, Chicago and Houston split a doubleheader with the Astros taking the opener, 6-5 and the Cubs capturing the nightcap 9-5, and Montreal edged San Diego 6-5 in 12 innings.

Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, became unhappy with Carlton because of a bitter salary squabble two years ago. He traded the veteran lefthander to the Phillies in exchange for Rick Wise.

Carlton, tied with Gary Nolan of Cincinnati for the league lead in victories with 12, raised his major-league leading strike out total to 182 with eight strikeouts. It was Carlton's fifth straight complete game.

The victory improved Carlton's season record to 12-6 compared to a 12-5 log at this time last season.

"I'm pitching more consistently this year and getting my three pitches (curve, slider, and fastball) over more," Carlton said.

The victory was the second in three decisions for the Phillies under the direction of new field manager Paul Owens who doubles as the club's general manager.

Carlton got all the runs he needed in the second when the Phils battered starter Don Sutton for four runs on a three-run double by Don Money and an RBI single by Denny Doyle.

Johnny Bench backed up Jack Billingham's shutout pitching with four straight hits, including his 22nd home run of the season, and drove home three runs as the Reds shut out Pittsburgh.

Bench's homer, coming off rookie righthander Gene Garber, was the last of his four hits and put him ahead of San Francisco's Dave Kingman in the National League's home run derby. The Reds' catcher also leads the league in RBI with 66.

Home runs by Rick Monday, Billy Williams and Joe Pepitone powered Chicago to a nightcap victory over Houston after the Astros won the opener with a four-run rally in the seventh inning.

Williams went 8-for-8 in the doubleheader. He belted his 17th homer in the opener and No. 18 in the nightcap, both with the bases empty.

A wild pitch by Lowell Palmer with the bases loaded in the 15th forced home Gil Garrido with the winning run and gave the Braves a victory over St. Louis.

Clyde Mashore doubled down the left field line with one out in the 12th to score Bob Bailey with the winning run in Montreal's victory over San Diego.

Race Horse Dies After Trampling

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UPI) — Dualamar, a five-year-old Irish-bred gelding, led a field of 10 horses as they approached the final fence of the $16,475 midsummer hurdle handicap at Monmouth Park Tuesday, and then stumbled over the barrier and was kicked to death by another horse.

Jockey Gerald Goswell, who rode Dualamar, suffered a slight shoulder injury but was not taken immediately to a hospital. Dualamar, winner of two hurdles races in five outings this year and second in the Indian River head hurdles at Delaware last month, was dead before he was removed from the track.

"Dualamar was going to win if he hadn't fallen," said Leo O'Brien, rider of the winning horse, Gran Kan. "I feel very badly for Gerry (Goswell)."

After falling over the 11th and final hurdle, Dualamar was kicked in the head by Shadow II, who, along with his rider, was not injured. The race was marred early when Antiqua's Star went down at the first fence but neither jockey nor horse was injured.

Gran Kan held a slight lead through the first half of the 2 1-16 mile race and was clocked in 4:09 4-5 as he picked up his fifth consecutive victory. The six-year-old carried top weight of 158 pounds and returned $6.80, $5.00 and $3.40.

Dream Magic finished second and Ghost Charger finished third.

Suyderhoud, La Point Boys In Water Ski Meet

World's slalom and jumps champion Mike Suyderhoud of San Anselmo plus the La Point brothers, Bob, of Novato, and Kris, of Castro Valley, will participate in the 14th annual Masters Water Skiing Invitational Tournament at Callaway Gardens, Ga. Friday through Sunday.

Bob, of San Marin High School, the national boys slalom champion, plus Kris and Suyderhoud, will be among the 13 men in the event, which will be taped and televised by the American Broadcasting Company's Wide World of Sports show at a later date.

Laura Baugh Pebble Beach Golf Medalist

PEBBLE BEACH (UPI)— Pretty Laura Baugh may be the U.S. amateur champion, but the 17-year-old Los Angeles blonde is still playing in the junior miss ranks.

She was medalist Tuesday in the California Junior Girls Championship at Monterey Peninsula Club and thus led 15 other girls into today's first round of match play.

Her even par 73 was two shots better than Maryanne Stangeland of Long Beach.

White Sox Top Indians, 4-3, To Gain Ground On Athletics

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

While Marty Pattin of Boston was handcuffing Oakland on one hit Tuesday night, the Athletics' chief rival was taking advantage of the situation.

The Chicago White Sox closed to within 4½ games of first-place Oakland in the American League West by edging the Cleveland Indians, 4-3, and Detroit remained one game in front of Baltimore in the East by beating the Texas Rangers, 6-5, while the Orioles were shading the Kansas City Royals, 2-1, in 10 innings. Elsewhere, the New York Yankees beat the California Angels, 7-3, and the Milwaukee Brewers tripped the Minnesota Twins, 5-4.

The White Sox, trailing 3-1, rallied for three runs in the seventh as Rick Reichardt hit a two-run homer and Ed Spiezio followed with a solo shot. Ray Fosse had hit a two-run homer for Cleveland.

Mickey Stanley snapped a 5-5 tie with his ninth homer of the year in the sixth inning and Chuck Seelbach limited Texas to two hits over the final 3⅔ innings to gain his fifth victory for the Tigers. Dave Nelson had a homer for the Rangers.

Pinch-hitter Tom Shopay drew a walk with the bases loaded and none out in the 10th to enable Baltimore to snap a five-game losing streak. Jim Palmer went the distance for the Orioles, allowing Kansas City seven hits, to stretch his record to 12-4.

A two-run single by Felipe Alou and a two-run double by Ron Swoboda highlighted a six-run Yankee rally in the third inning as New York beat California and Joe Lahoud's two-run homer in the top of the ninth inning lifted Milwaukee past Minnesota.

Milwaukee Open Begins Tomorrow

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Par could be in for a beating starting Thursday at the Tripoli Country Club as three former champions head a field of the nation's top pros into the $125,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

Tripoli measures a short 6,514 yards and some hint of what was to come may have been made Monday when 48 of the pro tour's lesser lights hit par or better in the qualifying round for non-exempt players.

Bob Dickson, former U.S. and British Amateur champion, led the way with a six -under 65.

The top players on the tour will again be absent, with most of them in Britain for the British Open. Among those who will be on hand, however, are three former champions — Deane Beman, Ken Still and Dave Eichelberger—and Bruce Crampton, who finished as runner to Jack Nicklaus in both the U.S. Open and Masters.

Nicklaus is trying for the third leg of golf's grand slam this week in Britain.

Charles Coody 1971 Masters champion, is also in the GMO field this week and others entered include Chi Chi Rodriguez, Grier Jones, J.C. Snead, Bob Rosburg, Homero Blancas, Ken Venturi, Bob Lunn, Hale Irwin and Miller Barber.

Omaha Sells Butler To Portland Club

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—Bill Butler, who had a 5-3 record for the Kansas City Royals' Omaha farm club this season, was sold Tuesday to Portland in the Pacific Coast League.

Butler, 25, had a 9-10 record as a rookie in 1969 but became afflicted with arm ailments.

Davis Cup Committee Backs South Africa

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Davis Cup committee today voted for South Africa's continued participation in the tournament next year, the president of the committee said.

The specialized Davis Cup committee took the decision just before the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) started its annual general meeting here this morning.

The American president of the committee, Walter E. Elcock said the voting was confidential.

The seven members of the committee are the United States, France, Britain, Australia, Argentina, India and the Soviet Union .

Elcock said the question put before the committee was to decide if South Africa's entry was detrimental to the interests and rules of the Davis Cup competition. The decision was expected Tuesday but Soviet delegate Dimitry Gosudarev then failed to show up.

Gosudarev said today he could not comment on the voting.

The Soviet Union has also proposed the expulsion of the South African Lawn Tennis Union from membership in the ILTF.

An expulsion requires a majority vote and the committee of management of the ILTF council have recommended it be rejected.

Raiders Begin Camp With Wells

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI) — Buoyed by the return of wide receiver Warren Wells, the Oakland Raiders open camp today.

Wells and quarterbacks Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler will join a crop of rookies in the first day's workouts with most of the veterans not checking in until the weekend.

Late rookie arrivals will include receiver Mike Siani and linemen John Vella and Dave Dalby, who are working out with the College All Stars in Chicago.

A superior judge has ruled that Wells, who is on probation, can play this year as long as he lives in a Catholic retreat house in Danville when he is not playing.

The Raiders failed to win at least a divisional championship for the first time since 1967 last year and many thought the absence of Wells was the reason.

Olympic Electronics Scoreboard Switches

NEW YORK (UPI)—All the numbers won't be posted on the face of the scoreboard in the 1972 Olympic Games to be held in Munich this summer. Twenty-five thousand RCA electronic switches will be running their own race behind the scene.

Beneath two massive scoreboards in the two main Olympic stadiums, tiny transistor-sized switches will activate 25-watt light bulbs in the scoreboard display section. The electronic displays will use 75,000 bulbs to present messages and pictures relating to Olympic events. A computer will control the siwtches to develop the proper sequence in lighting to change the messages and diagrams.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

New Proposals For Life Preservers

A whole new system of grading or classifying life jackets for use on pleasure craft is in the works. Target date for making the new regulations effective is next Jan. 1 and until then the proposals are open to public discussion.

The proposals are being made under authority of the Federal Boat Safety Act of 1971 by the Coast Guard and its civilian advisory body, the Boating Safety Advisory Council.

Coast Guard officers have stressed that the new life jacket regulations — the interim phase of which went into effect April 17 with the mandatory carrying of "personal flotation devices" on practically all boats — must be co-ordinated with an intensive education program. This is to acquaint boatmen with the capabilities of the various types of personal flotation devices which will ultimately have Coast Guard approval.

Five types of PFDs (personal flotation devices), have been tentatively proposed. Type 1 — a high performance PFD for critical or dangerous conditions; Type 2 — a good performance device with the ability to turn a wearer face up in the water; Type 3 — a jacket that is comfortable to wear but has no head turning ability; Type 4 — throwable devices such as buoyant cusions, rings and horsehoes; Type 5 — special purpose flotation devices, none of which have yet been approved.

As proposed, pleasure craft must carry these specific types: Boats less than 16 feet and all canoes — types 1, 2, 3, or 4, one for each person aboard; boats 16 to 26 feet — types 1, 2, or 3, one for each person aboard; boats over 26 feet — types 1, 2, or 3, one for each person, plus one type 4, a throwable device.

Unless there is considerable public reaction or oppostion, these regulations will come into effect next January 1.

That there is considerable thought given to the need for life saving devices aboard a boat is indicated by the questions we got:

Q. Are there children's size life preservers?

A. Yes. But sometimes, even the smallest size is too large for a child and care should be taken that the lifesaving device is tied on securely enough so that the child's head will not slip through, and the whole thing come off. It does happen.

Q. I left our live-saving cusions outside for a month or so. They got soggy. Will they be all right if I dry them out?

A. Sure they'll be all right . . . to sit on, or lay your outboard motor on. But you wouldn't trust your life to them . . . or would you? Even when brand new cusions are really only a very poor substitute for a well-fitting life preserver or buoyant vest. Try one out and see if you don't agree.

Q. Are there other than "approved" kinds of life preservers made and sold?

A. A few . . . Construction crews, logging companies, fire departments, the Navy and other groups working over or around water may use special types which are not approved for pleasure craft.

Q. In buying a life preserver, what's the most important consideration?

A. I would say proper fit . . . and the best way to get this is with a tryout. Remember the thing which a life preserver must do above all . . . it must keep the wearer's nose and mouth out of water if the wearer becomes unconscious. Even in warm waters it is not difficult to lose consciousness due to exposure. In northern latitudes this transcends all other considerations.

Q. Should lifejackets get any special care?

A. Just the very best. Keep them clean and dry. I've seen vests used to wipe up spilled oil and gasoline. This is a stupid practice, to say the least.

Q. I've got jacket-type life preservers that are 12 years old. Should they be replaced?

A. It's likely that they are no longer acceptable by the Coast Guard. After July 1963 all devices that used kapok for flotation were required to have it in sealed plastic inserts . . . so that it wouldn't get waterlogged.

Q. I've got buoyant cusions which have stamped on them: "do not wear on back". Why is this?

A. This is the point we started with. If you put your arms through the loops so that the cusion is on your back it will float you face down. Then if you should pass out, you'll drown for sure. If the cushion is worn in front it's a little better, but not much. Cushions are really intended for grasping only.

Q. I've heard a lot of criticism of buoyant cushions. Are they any good at all?

A. They have their place. But they are not honestly offered as a substitue for a well-fitting lifejacket. Cushions are easily grabbed in an emergency and they are good for a small boat that doesn't venture far from shore. They'll keep you aflat until help can get to you . . . if you don't lose consciousness.

14th. He struck back with a birdie four at the 17th.

SLUMP

Beard topped the money winners list in 1969 and has bettered $100,000 for the past five years on the PGA tour but this season stands a lowly 83rd with only $16,000 in prize winnings.

Arnold Palmer came in with a two-over par 73, after dropping strokes at the 10th, 11th and 17th holes.

Conditions deteriorated in the early afternoon with the wind picking up a little more and brief rain showers adding to the difficulties.

Kansas City's Robinson Retires

Combined AP & UPI

LIBERTY, Mo. — Johnny Robinson, one of the last of the original American Football League players in 1960, is retiring after 12 years with the Kansas City Chiefs.

The formal announcement will be made later today at a news conference in coach Hank Stram's office at the team;s training camp site.

Robinson, 32, is the last of the original Chiefs, who began with the old Dallas Texans before the club moved to Kansas City in 1963.

The free safety, many times an all-pro choice, has not recovered from a groin injury he suffered in the playoff loss to Miami last Christmas Day.

Robinson did not attend the Chiefs' annual picture-day session yesterday and it was then that United Press International learned he would not return. When a reporter asked Stram when Robinson would show up, the coach answered tersely, "He won;t." Stram did not elaborate. Other sources said Robinson made his decision to retire Monday night.

Robinson owns a health club in Kansas City, Kan.

He was a halfback in the same backfield with Billy Cannon on Louisiana State's 1959 national championship team. He was the Detroit Lions' No. 1 draft choice in 1960, but chose to sign with the fledgling Texans and the AFL. Robinson was running back for two years before switching to defense in 1962.

In 10 years as a safety, Robinson intercepted 57 passes. He intercepted 10 passes in 1966 and 1970 and was a vital cog in the Chiefs' defense, which carried them to two Super Bowl games.

In other football news:

Wide receiver Mac Haik of the Houston Oilers, suffering leg and ankle injuries the last three seasons, yesterday retired from professional football.

"I'll miss the game," Haik said in announcing plans to work fulltime in his real estate business, "but I wouldn't want to play just to pick up my check and qualify for the pension plan.

"There were times last year when I was more of a real estate man than a football player," the 1968 University of Mississippi graduate said. "It wouldn't be fair to myself or anybody else if it were that way again."

Frank J. Smith, former University of Washington football player, has sued the Los Angeles Rams for terminating his contract when he injured his left knee in his first training session in 1968.

The suit filed yesterday in Seattle, Wash., asked for $14,000 — the amount of the contract — plus an unspecified sum for other benefits and money which he said he would have received if the contract had been kept in force.

Guard Royce Smith, first round draft choice of the New Orleans Saints, signed his rookie contract yesterday and departed New Orleans for the College All-Star Game in Chicago.

Smith, a 6-3, 250-pounder from Georgia, is one of four Saints draft choices on the all-star squad.

Larry McCutcheon, a third round draft choice from Colorado State, has impressed the Los Angeles Rams in preseason practice, but sacrificed a tooth to a jarring tackle yesterday in their Long Beach camp.

The remainder of the veterans were expected to show up at the Dallas Cowboys summer camp today to join a host of rookies who went through their first full scrimmage yesterday in Thousand Oaks.

The Cowboys cut four rookies yesterday. They were free agents Max Arreguin of Kansas State, Stan Watts of Murray State and Dennis Maupin of Bowling Green. Also cut was the Pokes' sixth-round draft choice, Charles Bolden.

Darnell Roebuck, signed by the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League as a free agent, will miss training camp opening today because of injuries suffered in a traffic crash in Pennsylvania.

Roebuck was signed as a defensive backfield prospect after graduating from Duquesne University where he was a regular on the starting basketball team. He did not participate in college football.

Sharon Loses

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael lost to Joyce Williams of Britain, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1 in a first round match of the Welsh Tennis Championships yesterday at Newport, Wales.

Rochester Americans May Soon Be Sold

SEATTLE (UPI) — Lyman Walters, senior vice president of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, said Tuesday that the Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League will be sold.

The Canucks organization owns the Rochester team as well as the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League. Walters said the sale of the Amerks to "four wealthy Rochester businessmen"" would be significant for Seattle because it would mean the Canucks would have to stock only two teams with players.

Petaluma Picks Reischling As Cage Coach

Mark Reischling has been appointed head basketball coach at Petaluma High School, replacing Bob Donahue, principal Gerald Dadey announced yesterday morning.

Reischling, 26, has been head coach at Gridley High in Butte County for three years, compiling a 40-23 record including a 16-6 mark last season.

A native of San Mateo, Reischling played basketball at Hillsdale High, College of San Mateo and Chico State, as it was then called. He will teach English at Petaluma in addition to coaching.

Mixed Success For Marin Rookie Trio

Three Marin County baseball players who signed professional contracts last month have broken into minor league ball with mixed success.

Former Drake High School star Al Curtiss of Fairfax is hitting .276 with nine runs batted in after just 29 at-bats for the Oakland Athletics' Class A Northwest League farm at Coos Bay, Ore.

Statistics were furnished by Player Periscope of Novato.

Also in the Northwest League is ex-College of Marin star Mike Parnow, playing for the Los Angeles Dodgers' farm at Spokane, Wash. He batted .259 last week to raise his seasonal average to .186.

Clifford Hall of Marin City and Tamalpais High was batting just .154 after 13 times up for the Chicago Cubs' Rookie League team at Gulf Coast, Fla.

John Dolinsek of Novato appears to like Class AAA International League pitching even better than the American Association hurling he feasted on earlier this year.

Dolinsek batted .393 last week for Peninsula, Va., and raised his average to .315 for the Montreal farm. Earlier, he hit .307 at Oklahoma City.

Tom Corder of Novato, returning to action after a U.S. Army summer camp, hit .400 in brief appearances and nudged his average up to .244 for the Dodgers' Bakersfield team in the Class A California League.

Tom Thomas of Novato batted .273 for Gastonia, N.C., in the Class A Western Carolina League, allowing his season average to slip slightly to .282. He is the property of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and started the year for the Bucs' Salem, Va., farm, also Class A.

Pitcher Russ Dillon of Novato had a tough outing for Richmond, Va., in the International League, yielding six walks and five hits in six innings and taking his fifth loss against just three victories for the Atlanta Braves' farm team.

Public Links Tourney Begins In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The 47th annual national public links golf championship opened here today with 150 contestants vying for the title.

Par is 70 for the 6,350-yard coffin course.

The four-day, 72-hold grind winds up Saturday, but only the low 60 and ties will be in contention after the first two rounds.

Few sub-par rounds were turned in through three days of practice, and the consensus was that even par 280 might win the test.

The small greens were described as "beautiful" but the narrow fairways "tight" by most players. Most contenders were satisfied to play leisurely rounds to learn where potential trouble spots are on the hilly, tree-lined layout.

"The course is tight and hilly and there are no level lies often," said Alphonsa King, Kansas City, Mo.

Eiguten Named Pro At Olympic Club

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) Len Eiguten, 29, if the new golf Lou Eiguten, 29, is the new golf pro at the prestigious San Francisco Olympic Club.

He was named Tuesday to replace Kyle Burton, who recently retired.

The new pro had been an assistant at the Olympic Club since 1968 after his graduation from the University of Nevada. Rochester

Player Draft By New WHA Slated Today

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A two-day meeting of the general managers of the 12 teams in the newly formed World Hockey Association got underway today with a player draft tentatively scheduled to begin this afternoon.

A spokesman for the Cleveland Crusaders, hosting the meeting, said each of the league's clubs has frozen 50 names from its original player selection list but all remaining players, some 600, would be put in the selection pool for the draft.

The order of the draft was to be determined by the drawing of lots. WHA Chief Referee Vern Buffy was to preside over player selections.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
42 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Price Of Ecology: More Costly Home

The era of ecology will undoubtedly add to the cost of construction.

Prices of Marin County homes, already inflated as compared with other counties farther removed from the population centers, will zoom even higher because the developer will pass on these higher building costs to the consumer.

The constant struggle between two forces, one calling for preservation of hills, cows and natural terrain and the other demanding paving and building on every available inch of open land, must arrive at some workable compromise if Marin homes are to remain within reach of the moderate income families.

IN WORKING toward such compromise, both the developers and the buying public must be ready to pick up their shares of the tab, architect David Jay Flood told a national conference on "Housing and Environment" sponsored by Professional Builder Magazine in San Francisco last month.

Flood, who is architect and land planner, outlined a practical approach calling for each side to yield a little without capitulating completely.

The architect pointed out that the developer must pay more attention to the impact his project will have on the environment, even though such attention will mean added cost in preserving trees, creeks and open space. It would be in the developer's self-interest to do so.

COMMUNITY PLANNING groups are becoming increasingly conscious of the size and intensity of the environmentalist pressure. The unyielding developer will find his project, on which he has spent thousands in preliminary work, turned down flatly by a community planning body that can be just as unyielding.

Flood also urged ecologists to start thinking in terms of public use, not selfish interests, and consider the needs and rights of all people, not just those of a small but highly vocal group.

Almost every new homeowner in Marin becomes an environmentalist, even for a brief period. Each newcomer who "finds" Marin and its pastoral setting is eager to build and move into his new home. And each of these new homeowners, the moment he moves in, becomes a staunch environmentalist who wants the rest of the pastoral setting left untouched for him and his family to enjoy to perpetuity.

THERE IS NO magical date, such as July, 1972, on which a moratorium can be imposed and construction banned permanently from private lands, unless such lands are purchased by public funds at prevailing prices.

Even environmentalists must concede that some building will have to be allowed on such private lands. The only question is the degree of control, and what types of environmental amenities the developer will be required to provide.

The more stringent the requirements, the more expensive will be the homes.

CONFRONTATIONS between the environmentalist and the developer will become even more frequent and more intense. In each of these clashes, it behooves both sides to realize that esthetics and economics are inseparable, and neither can go it alone without some understanding and compromise from the other side.

Briggs Will Try Again On Anti-Heroin Bill

By RUSS WALTON

Assemblyman John Briggs, R-Fullerton, is sick at heart about the number of California youngsters whose lives are being destroyed by heroin. He is determined to do something to stop the flood of heroin into California from foreign nations.

This year he tried a unique approach. His bill, AB 1759, would have required all products imported from countries known to be major sources of heroin to bear this label:

"This product was produced or processed in, or imported from, (NAME OF COUNTRY) which has been determined by the Dept. of Justice of this state to be a country which supplies or produces heroin for illegal use in this state."

Additionally, the Briggs bill would have required those stores selling imported products from heroin-source nations to post similar notices in "appropriate locations".

ONE OF THE major targets of Briggs' effort is Mexico.

Between 75 per cent and 80 per cent of the heroin flooding into California comes across the Mexican border.

U.S. and State agents — border patrol, customs agents, narcotics officers — have neither the manpower nor the equipment to stem the flood, or even put a sizeable dent in the volume.

Thus John Briggs wants the State of California to try attacking the sordid business at the source —the remote opium fields and the processors, producers and traffickers south of the border. The way to do that, he reasoned, is to apply economic pressure; to generate a consumer boycott of the products from Mexico or any other heroin-producing and importing nation.

HIS PROPOSAL would have given the state's public an opportunity to join the fight against those merchants of death who are making a killing in the California market. He was, in effect, sending a message to Mexico.

"Either help us smash the heroin traffic or we will not buy your other products. Our kids are more important to us than your business."

Assemblyman Robert Badham (R-Newport Beach) objected to the Briggs approach. He said it might destroy "that part of the (Mexican) economy which is straight".

Briggs challenged Badham's assertion. If anything, he retorted, a decline in the U.S. purchases of other products would force "straight" Mexican businessmen to demand their government do something effective about the heroin problem.

THE CALIFORNIA Retailers Assn. also opposed the bill before the Assembly Ways and Means committee. Spokesmen said the labels and the posting of notices would be "an unfair burden."

Every retailer in this state should welcome the opportunity to protect California's youth —to join the fight against heroin. And, if pasting labels on bottles or boxes, or posting printed posters, is a burden, there's one way to avoid it:

Refuse to handle any product from any country known to be a major source of the heroin coming into California.

I MEAN, KIDS are more important than profits; they are, aren't they?

But the retailers and eight assemblymen (five Democrats and three Republicans) won out over Mr. Briggs. His anti-heroin bill was killed 8 to 6. And who knows how many kids had their hopes and futures destroyed by the same vote?

For the record, these are the men who said "no" to a calculated effort to stem the flood of heroin:

Democrats — Dunlap, Foran, McDonald, Vasconcellos and Willie Brown.

Republicans — Badham, Bagley and Hayes.

And, for the record, John Briggs ain't quitting: he will introduce his anti-heroin bill again — next year.

"I am about to eat the whole thing and I don't want to hear any further comment."

"No . . . no . . . no . . . no . . . this is a recording . . . no . . . no . . . no . . . no . . ."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Editorial Cartoon Found 'Offensive'

I found the cartoon on the editorial page today (July 6, 1972) offensive, passe', and nonconstructive.

Let's hope the young people at the convention prove the cartoon wrong. It seems to be up to them to change the decaying political mores.

Will Jane Fonda Get Cabinet Post?

I see that "comrade" Jane Fonda is a guest of Hanoi. Could it be that she is preparing herself for a cabinet post if McGovern becomes president?

After all she does have qualifications for the new-look Democratic Party. She's young, female and certainly liberal to say the least. She and McGovern see eye to eye on Vietnam. Secretary of State perhaps?

Cancer Unit Likes Press Coverage

I am writing on behalf of the Marin County Unit of the American Cancer Society to express its thanks to the Marin County newspapers for generous assistance given to the 1972 Cancer Crusade.

Without your help in communicating our message to the public we could not have had so successful an April drive.

Cancer is a matter of great concern to most people. It strikes eventually in two families of every three. That is why we consider it so important to reach everyone in the community with life-saving information about this disease.

We have been most grateful for your help.

Fireman's Fund Favors No-Fault

Some news stories have reported that Fireman's Fund Insurance Company testified against Assembly Bill 125, the Fenton-Song No-Fault measure, before the Senate Judiciary Committee on June 27. That is not true.

Fireman's Fund is and has been one of the strongest advocates of No-Fault auto insurance in California and across the nation. We certainly do not want readers to think that we have changed our position. To the contrary, we are more convinced than ever that California needs a good No-Fault law, and needs it now.

Fireman's Fund is FOR No-Fault. We did not testify against AB 125. Thank you for helping to set the record straight.

Transit Buses Don't Spit Fumes

I was astonished to read Theron Newell's compalint in "Reporter's Notebook" on July 3, 1972, that Golden Gate Transit buses, "seem to be badly in need of valves and ring work in the engines." He asks, "Have you ever driven behind one of these buses . . . as it belches smoke and fumes into the air?"

Mr. Newell must have been riding behind a bus belonging to someone else. The new Golden Gate Transit coaches, with their Environmental Improvement Packages, and with their finely-tuned engines, emit no exhaust smoke. The Department of Transportation contracted with the Southwest Research Institute to evaluate the EIP installation and the latter has certified that it, "consistently and substantially lowers smoke, odor, hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and oxginates" over the previous model diesel engines. The latter in turn have been found to exhaust the following percentage of exhaust gases of gasoline engines: carbon monoxide 17 per cent, hydrocarbons 93 per cent, and nitrous oxides 85 per cent. As to the need for valve and ring work, the buses now average about 30,000 miles of service each. Their engines are designed for a quarter-million miles of service before valve and ring work are required.

Mr. Newell will be doing us a great service if he will advise us the number of any bus he sees emitting exhaust smoke. To date we have had no such reports from anyone but should we be advised of such an occurrence we will pull the bus out of service immediately for a thorough checkup. In addition, Mr. Newell is welcome to visit our shop, view our maintenance practices, and talk with our maintenance personnel.

Mr. Newell also commented that the buses operate in Marin during non-commute hours with very few passengers. Although the buses are not full during midday, we did carry more than 100,000 local passengers in Marin during the month of May, and this number is increasing each month. We wish there were more. The fares are low (25 cents for adults), the buses are clean and comfortable, and we are continually adjusting schedules to provide convenient service. To this end, a new operating schedule will be implemented early in August to provide a service which we feel will be more in line with taking people where they really want to go.

At present our Marin passengers apparently are mainly those who do not have a car to drive. We hope that as time goes on more people on trips within Marin will try a Golden Gate Transit bus. Once they do we believe they will become regular customers.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 12, the 194th day of 1972 with 172 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

American poet Henry David Thoreau was born July 12, 1817.

On this day in history:

In 1862 the U.S. Medal of Honor was authorized by Congress.

In 1933 a new industrial code was established to fix a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in the United States.

In 1941 German armies cracked the "Stalin line" in Russia and began what was to be an unsuccessful march toward Moscow.

New Forces Will Determine Rise Or Fall Of Demo Party

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — One thing is already evident from the grim and grueling events of this national convention: For good or ill, the Democratic Party is to be under new management.

New forces and new faces will dominate the coming campaign and reshape party policy and leadership.

Those who have now taken control of this remarkably open convention intend to retain control of the party whatever happens in November.

The objective is to build a new coalition of voters to replace the New Deal, Fair Deal, New Frontier and Great Society coalition which enabled four Democratic Presidents to win seven of the last 10 elections.

The goal is to put together a new voting majority from among the young, the blacks, the browns, the poor and the affluent liberals — and thus to make up for the once powerful but now unraveled coalition of Southern Democrats, organized labor and dissident farmers.

IT MAY WORK. It may be great. It may usher in another long era of the political dominance which kept the Democratic Party in office most of the time during the past 40 years. The immediate purpose is to win this fall — the Presidency and the Congress — and to go on from there.

But those who are now in control at the convention know that it may not work, that it could prove very un-great and usher in a period of decline for the party of Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy and Johnson.

THE PROJECTED new Democratic coalition has three visible weaknesses:

1. It is untried and untested but seems to be the only course open.

2. It springs from failure — the failure to hold the old coalition together.

3. There is no substantial evidence that it has a sufficiently wide popular base to win the 1972 presidential election.

What has happened is that many of the ingredients of past Democratic victories have become the possession of the Republicans. Thus President Nixon may well inherit the electoral vote of the entire South this fall. Contented farmers, pleased with rising income, may return to the Republican home of their fathers. Organized labor is no longer a one-party voting bloc and affluent conservatives will outnumber affluent liberals.

EVEN AT THE END of this convention, when the platform has been approved and the nominee has accepted, it will not be clear whether the transition of the Democratic Party from its long labor union orientation to a new, diffuse coalition can be carried off without long bitterness and disunity.

This could risk the election, but the risk is not slowing down the takeover. The Democratic traditionalists and many Democratic officeholders warn that "political catastrophe" could be the end result this fall, but it is evident beyond any doubt that the Democratic Party is in process of changing hands.

THE EVENTS OF the past few days — the sharp controversies over the platform, the merry-go-round over the California delegates as to whether Sen. McGovern earned them fairly or had them taken from him fairly or returned to him fairly — these things have deepened bitterness and division.

But the process of change in party policy, leadership and voter constituency is going forward whatever the division and bitterness.

The outcome is uncertain, very uncertain. It may be political catastrophe or it may be unexpected victory.

McGovern Could Pick Askew As Democratic Running Mate

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — If George McGovern is as upright and unconventional as his admirers say, he will scrap the old idea of balancing the national ticket on geographical and religious grounds, and choose a vice presidential nominee on purely idealistic grounds.

And if he does that, you may be looking at his vice presidential nominee in Reubin Askew, the Democratic National Convention's keynote speaker.

In picking Askew, McGovern would be living up to the legend that he places morals above expediency. For this is not an election year like those when the Democrats paired Garner with Roosevelt, Barkley with Truman, Sparkman and Kefauver with Stevenson and Johnson with Kennedy. By the unbroken consensus here, there is no way McGovern as presidential candidate can carry any state in the South, no matter what he does between July and November and no matter who he places on his ticket — even George Wallace himself.

THUS, BY TAKING Askew he would be ignoring both tradition and the logic that used to say a Southerner on the ticket would ensure holding the solid South. But he would be strengthening his own image as a man who does the right thing regardless of the consequences — and that, by reverse logic, would be the most expedient move he could make.

Larry O'Brien and colleagues had no remote notion of matching or contrasting Askew with McGovern when they asked him last fall to be the keynoter in July. In those days, McGovern was back in the six per cent bracket in the public opinion polls, behind everybody except maybe Sam Yorty.

ASKEW WAS FINGERED for all the old reasons, plus the new ones imposed by the television age. He was young (43), handsome without being pretty, a fresh face in national politics, governor of the host state — just the man to stand for a party then accused of growing old and stodgy. His record for outspoken liberalism in the southarnmost state in the contiguous 48 was only incidental. But since then, it has grown.

He was mentioned by nearly every campaigner in the Florida presidential primary as a vice presidential possibility — standard procedure for candidates eager to pick up any trace of popularity that might rub off a local favorite. But that was risky this spring, for Askew in that same primary period made himself the symbol of the issue most of the national candidates were running and hiding from.

WHEN CONSERVATIVES in the legislature forced a referendum on school busing onto the ballot, the governor came out flatly and daily against it. He pushed a companion referendum in the opposite direction — one to put voters on the record for quality, equal education for all children. He lost heavily on the busing question, which he knew he would. But he won almost as decisively on equal education. And, most amazingly, his own standing remained high despite his association with busing.

It is the same phenomenon that has brought McGovern to this point despite his running on issues the conventional wisdom labeled poison six months ago. In fact, considering the slippage of McGovern's footing on some of the bold stands he took during the primaries, Askew today may fit the McGovern legend better than McGovern does himself.

HE WAS BORN in Muskogee, Okla., came to Florida during the depression with his mother, who was a maid in a Pensacola hotel, became a state senator, admitted in public that he was a "nigger lover," got elected governor despite it, and has rammed through major tax reforms and other programs once considered unmentionable in the legislature at Tallahassee.

He neither drinks nor smokes. He transmits sincerity through the television tube. He is tough and stubborn. Those who were talking him up as a vice presidential candidate early this year thought his name an asset, too, on the assumption that the current Vice President would be on the Republican ticket again — Askew vs. Agnew, with comparisons invited.

McGOVERN'S OWN private phrasing of the vice presidential question could apply to the whole series of decisions he has to make in hotel rooms and on the convention floor this week, then in the nearly four months to follow. Over and over, it is to compromise or not, to do the old thing or the new, to think about votes first or principles first, in hopes the votes will follow.

In his more realistic moments, and with his Air Corps background, he might put it: If we must go down, why not in flames?

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Easier Pay Raise For School Superintendent

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The California Assembly has passed a bill permitting school boards to raise superintendents' salaries at any time.

The measure, Assembly Bill 1715 by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would relieve district school boards from going through a sort of charade when they want to increase their superintendent's pay before his contract comes up for renewal.

This consists of terminating the contract and giving him a new one — at higher pay.

Actually, it often works to the advantage of the superintendent to do it in this round-about way. It has become traditional for California school districts to give superintendents four-year contracts — which were required by law in city and unified districts until 1968. So, when the superintendent gets a raise, he likely also gets another four years of job assurance.

THIS MIGHT APPEAR to impede the superintendent somewhat if he wants to change jobs; but not so! Although he signs the agreement to serve the district for four years, if a better offer comes along he simply asks to be released from that contract, and it is a rare board that will cavil at his request.

On the other hand, if the board becomes disenchanted with him, or if its membership changes and the new board wants a change of administrators, the superintendent can (and will) hold it to the contract.

THE BOARD THEN either buys up the time remaining on the contract, paying the superintendent a lump sum to leave, or it gives him a job shuffling papers for the remainder of his term while a new man takes over the superintendency.

Likely none of this will be chnaged if Biddle's Assembly-passed bill becomes law. The habit of four-year contracts is too strongly ingrained among Califonia school boards.

But the change would make it a lot easier to raise the superintendent's pay. There would be no need to draw up a new contract. It could all be done in a twinkling, without even being on the meeting agenda.

THERE IS AN ELEMENT of justice in Biddle's proposal, though. A few years ago, the Legislature passed a law permitting teachers' pay to be raised at any time during the year. It would seem simple justice to put the superintendent in the same position.

How that teacher-raise-at-any-time worked out has been well demonstrated. Gov. Ronald Reagan learned about it in his first year in office.

That was the year the governor pushed a "tax relief" measure to give more state money to local school districts, ostensibly so they could reduce their property taxes.

HOWEVER, AS SOON as the new money was assured, teacher organizations descended on boards asking for pay raises beyond those already included in their contracts. In the vast majority of cases, the boards granted the demand —and that's where the money went. Districts that cut tax rates because of the state windfall were in the minority.

Governor Reagan's rather jaundiced attitude toward more money for the schools dates from that.

ACTUALLY, THERE is no need to give a superintendent a contract beyond one year. Under existing state law, he must be notified by Dec. 31 if his contract is not to be renewed; otherwise, he is automatically re-employed for the next school year.

However, educators have feelings of insecurity. They want either long-term contracts or legally guaranteed life tenure. The idea of just showing up for work every day unless the boss fires them, as most people in other crafts do all their lives, simply doesn't appeal to them.

Over-50 Club Meets Monday

The Over 50 Club of the Marin Jewish Community Center will hold the first in a series of political meetings Monday afternoon at Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Barbara Boxer, opposing incumbent Marin Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., will speak at 1 p.m. Monday. Arrigoni will be guest speaker the following Monday at the home of Hilda Joseph, 210 La Verne Avenue, Mill Valley.

Visitors are invited to attend and to bring picnic lunches.

Novato Should Be Consulted On Joint Use Of Hamilton

In most of the recent discussions on the joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base, the City of Novato as been ignored.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, Marin County Aviation Commission and Air Force officials have been dickering back and forth on the use of the facility.

One thing that these official bodies seem to forget is that Hamilton Air Force Base lies entirely within the City of Novato. In fact, Novato surrounds the base on three sides — except for San Pablo Bay.

IF THERE IS any noise factor to be considered by the joint use of the base, Novato will be the most affected. Have the officials of Novato or the Novato Chamber of Commerce been consulted on how they feel about it?

Shouldn't Novato have a major voice on any increased use of the base? Our predictions are that when and if there is a joint use of the base, it will be limited to a few flights a day to connect with the major airports at San Francisco and Oakland. It will be many years before Marin County generates enough air traffic to warrant having major flights of large planes to other areas.

THE CITY OF Belvedere has embarked on a noble experiment, and if it is a success, should be copied by other cities. That is making illegal to allow one's dog to defecate on public property except for certain specified areas, and then it must be cleaned up.

All other cities in the county have the same problem, especially in their business districts. If Belvedere is successful, then other councils should follow suit.

Novato has a much bigger problem. In addition to dogs, it has horses. These are not confined to the rural areas, but are ridden down the sidewalks of the business district or the street. Why shouldn't horsemen be made to clean up after their animals? It is a bigger job, but maybe those who insist on riding their horses in the business district would be made to carry a shovel and sack to clean up after their animals.

On South Novato Boulevard at Rowland Boulevard, a real estate dealer has erected a large sign advertising his houses. The sign is placed so that if one stops on Rowland Boulevard to turn north, the sign blocks his view of northbound traffic. The motorist must risk an accident to get out into the street.

NOVATO POLICE complained to the city planning department about it. The sign remained. Inquiry about it revealed that the planners had given an encroachment permit to the developer. So the sign is legal.

Which raises the question, should the planning department give encroachment permits which are a traffic hazard and could cause accidents? Or should the traffic control committee investigate such encroachments before a permit is given?

Hikers' Auto Is Looted Of Items

While two San Rafael residents were hiking near Alpine Dam Thursday, a thief broke into their car to steal more than $400 in personal belongings, sheriff's deputies said Monday.

Harry E. Tinnerty of 313 Laurel Place and Linda D. Nerviani of 503 Adrian Way told deputies someone smashed the right wing window of Tinnerty's car between 2 and 4 p.m. and took a car stereo valued at $200, a $150 sleeping bag, a $56 coat, a fishing pole and Miss Nerviani's purse containing some change.
